Parents request change to K-5 neighborhood schools

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Dist. 34 parents are suggesting a restructuring of the elementary district to change the schools into kindergarten through fifth-grade community schools.

During the regular meeting of the board of education for Antioch Community Consolidated School Dist. 34, restructuring was brought to the forefront. This arrangement would replace the current configuration nearing completion with one for pre-kindergarten through first grade, three schools containing students in second through fifth grades, and the middle school for sixth through eighth grades.

Resident Gayle Florian expressed her thoughts in a letter read to the board.

"Now we're looking ahead to the November election when we'll have the chance to vote for the opportunity to have two neighborhood four-year high schools, as proposed by the high school board. Isn't this the perfect time to restructure our elementary schools, providing K-5 neighborhood schools whose boundaries could configure with the high school boundaries?" she said.

Board of education president Bud Newton explained that the board had chosen to go the direction it has for a reason. The board put a lot of thought into the planning so that even things like the common areas of the schools could be furnished with one size of furniture, instead of trying to have chairs for the smaller kindergarten children and larger items to accommodate the fifth-graders, he said.

Other residents questioned whether the community had an opportunity to give the board feedback, and Newton indicated that they had. Board member Steve Turner chimed in, "It was on the ballot, and it was voted for 2-1, so the taxpayers did vote for it."

Resident Cheryl Ponsonby asked, "What information or procedures do you need to consider this recommendation?" She also wanted to know if

Landlord responds to residents' complaints

"I don't know what more you can do in life," said landlord Jerry Rossi, "but to try to keep everyone happy."

Rossi was responding to serious allegations levied against him at two consecutive meetings of the Village of Antioch Board of Directors by Elizabeth Langdon on behalf of her 85-year-old mother.

"I was barraged with phone calls on an almost weekly basis about every little thing imaginable from ants on the patio to the light flickering outside when a motion sensor fixture was installed," said Rossi.

Rossi, who has owned property for lease since 1977 in five collar counties, said, "This woman lived in a quiet garden apartment on the ground floor on a quiet street with laundry facilities in the unit for $600 a month, and she paid no security deposit."

The landlord said there are 12 apartments in that complex, and that none of the other tenants are displeased.

"I tried to offer her a good deal because she had lived in that building forever," said Rossi. "Anywhere else she would have to pay at least $750 for an apartment like that. She's moved out, and in with one of her daughters. She did that because obviously there are none available at that price."

About the heating units, Rossi said, "There are 10 identical units that each have two of these hotel-style heaters. I've made seven repair calls to her unit at $200-$250 per call—that's a lot of money to spend on a unit where there's no security deposit being paid."

Rossi continued, "There's a little sign under the controls of the unit saying to allow two minutes between switching from the heat to the cooling. The switches are burning out, and that burns up the units because she isn't waiting that two minutes. She's just switching back and forth as the temperature changes."

He added that none of the other apartment units had experienced similar problems.

Rossi said he was upset to see the comment in the newspaper report saying he had been unavailable for comment. A message had been left on his cellular phone that Rossi says took 24 hours to cycle through to let him know he had a message. He also says he did try to return the call.

"I have a listed home phone number and always have," said Rossi. "It's not hard for my tenants to reach me. I've always had a published phone number."

Rossi said it has never been a hardship for him to find tenants for his property. He said he has a nice young couple renting the apartment for $50 a month more than what Langdon's mother paid.

ACHS seeks annexation for proposed site for school

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 Board of Education has adopted a resolution asking the Village of Lake Villa for annexation of its property on the northeast corner of Grass Lake and Deep Lake roads.

The 66 acres is the proposed site for the new high school building scheduled to open in 2002, assuming the two referenda items pass in the Nov. 7 election. Without matching state funding from an $11.8 million construction grant, ground breaking could be delayed.

The school's superintendent Dennis Hockney said, "It has to do with who will be able to supply water

Hearing scheduled for properties

By JULIE MURPHY

It was known from the beginning of the previous hearing that the petitions for annexation of the Archdiocese of Chicago property, as well as the two properties owned separately by Alfred Pedersen and Dale Pedersen, would have to be continued as there was no publication of the hearing, and there were text changes in the annexation agreements.

The continuation of the public hearing is scheduled for Nov. 6 at the Antioch Village Hall at 7 p.m.

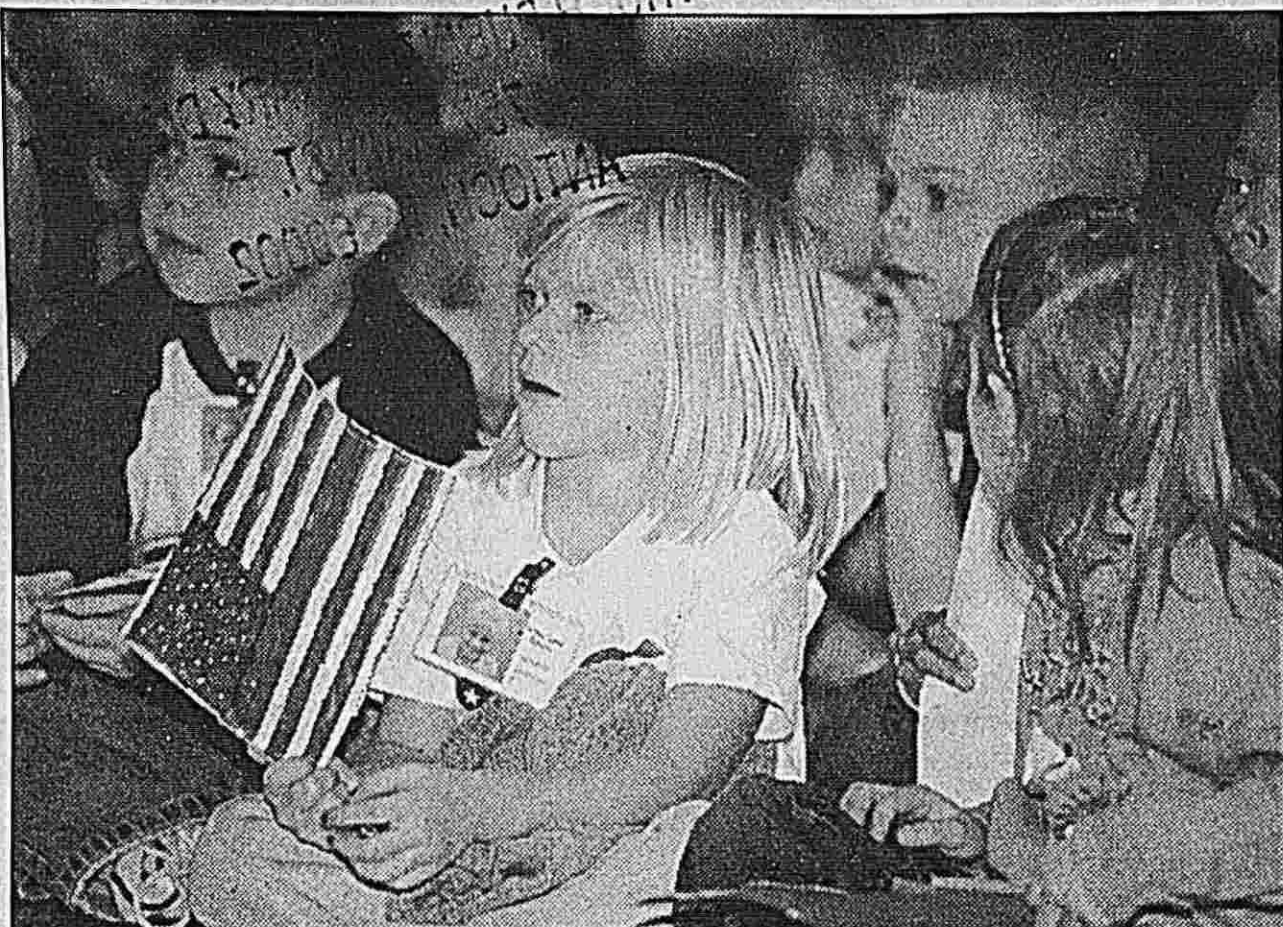

The property being petitioned for annexation is 285 acres of land situated north of Rte. 173 and east of Rte. 45. The Archdiocese of Chicago owns the 40 acres contiguous to Antioch that would allow the Pedersens to come in with their 245 acres.

According to village attorney Ken Clark, the changes to the annexation agreements are said to bring the agreements into compliance with an ordinance passed earlier this year by the Village of Antioch Board of Directors to protect the sensitive East-Sub Area.

All of the petitioners are looking for automatic annexation into the village under E-1 zoning that is the most restrictive type of zoning. Additionally, the petitioners will have to develop the property as it is shown in the comprehensive plan.

None of the petitioners have current plans for development.

Focus group established to profile superintendent

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Community Consolidated School Dist. 34 Board of Education determined the makeup of the focus group to help profile the ideal candidate for school superintendent, currently being filled by interim superintendents Dr. Don Gossett and Dr. Darrell Dick.

This focus group will meet with the Bickert Group consulting firm hired by the board of education to conduct the search once a profile has been developed.

Gossett said, "We are contacting a variety of groups from within the community to be a part of this focus group, including teachers, support staff, the business community, elected officials, PTO presidents, school administrators, clergy, honor society members, service groups such as the Lions Club, police, fire and librarians."

At the meeting, board members determined that 18-20 teachers should be included in the focus group, and that it should be a good mix of veterans and new teachers.

Board member Sheryl Henning said, "I think clergy is important because there are all sorts of youth groups (associated with churches)."

Members of the Chambers of Commerce for Lake Villa, Lindenhurst and Antioch will represent the business community. Elected officials will include the mayors of the aforementioned villages, the township supervisor and State Rep. Timothy Osmond (R-Antioch), or Linda Pedersen who works for Osmond in the event he is unavailable.

Other discussion centered on arranging a time when the community could meet, and offer suggestions about the superintendent profile. Dick said, "We need to pick a time that is late enough that people will be home from work and able to participate."

The special focus group met with the Bickert Group Oct. 25 at assigned times.

The community at large is invited to attend a meeting Oct. 30, and held at the Antioch Upper Grade School library at 8 p.m.

Gossett said, "Anyone who is interested in giving input to the profile of the superintendent should come to this meeting."

Defensive driving course to be held for seniors

The AARP sponsored 55 Alive defensive driving course will be held in two four-hour sessions on Nov. 14, and Nov. 17 from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. at the First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBO).

The course freshens up seniors' driving knowledge, while teaching self-awareness and defensive driving techniques to help those over age 55 keep their licenses—and independence—longer.

Participants in the course are eligible for discounts from their insurance companies for completing the course. "Insurance companies are required to give discounts," said course instructor Mollie Clark. "The amount of the discount varies though."

Those interested in signing up for the course should call the bank at 838-2265 to reserve a slot.

Restaurants sought for MegaFest

Antioch Chamber of Commerce members who have businesses that sell food as part of their service are encouraged to sign up as a food vendor for the 2001 MegaFest by the end of November.

The Chamber is hoping a minimum of 10 local, current members will make up the restaurant mix for the festival scheduled to be held July 19-22.

According to Barbara Porch, director of the Chamber, there is a lot of demand for more vendors and more types of food to be offered. These slots will be offered to vendors from outside of Antioch if Chamber members don't fill them.

Businesses interested in participating should contact the Chamber at 395-2233.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Vouchers would relieve taxpayers

It's probably a utopian dream, but wouldn't it be nice if Lake County voters were first asked to approve tax increases for additional schools before allowing developers to actually build the houses that will eventually create the need in the first place? Unfortunately, self-interest, construction and politics sometimes go hand in hand.

However, there is a vehicle that can deliver educational empowerment and tax relief at the same time: school choice via parental vouchers. Since most private/religious schools operate at approximately half the cost of government institutions, parental vouchers would produce tax relief on the difference between the cost of government school versus the amount of the voucher. In the case of special needs children, parental vouchers should be the same amount as the government schools.

Every child educated in private/religious schools would also save taxpayers the cost of building new government schools, maintenance of the schools and legal liabilities associated with operating those schools. Parental vouchers would even help Social Security. Since most government teachers do not contribute to Social Security via the Teachers' Retirement System (those lucky people), increasing the number of private school teachers would help support the burdened Social Security system.

But tax relief is really the secondary asset to school choice.

A monopoly stagnates innovation because monopolies benefit from being status quo and are often protective of their own interests. School choice, via parental vouchers, would require the current centralized educational system to compete with private systems and faith-based educational systems. Indeed, Nobel Prize professor Milton Friedman said, "Vouchers would reduce stratification, they would build competition, they would restore control to the people most competent to decide on children's education: their parents."

Even Steven Jobs, co-founder of Apple Computer, stated, "I'm one of those people who believe the best thing we could ever do is go to the full voucher system."

There will always be a place and need for government schools and parental vouchers would make them more accountable to those parents through competition. Successful educational innovations discovered in other systems could and should be incorporated into government schools. America's educational landscape should be as diversified and free as its citizens; a landscape that allows parents to choose the best school for their child, whether it be government/secular schools, private schools, or faith-based schools.

Osmond focuses on school funding

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

As witnessed by the fact that the Illinois Education Association has endorsed the incumbent candidate for the seat of State Representative in the 62nd Dist. Timothy Osmond (R-Antioch), Osmond said that his efforts toward educational issues have strengthened his platform.

Areas of particular interest to him are the funding levels for special education and the funding formula for the poverty grant. "Special education is receiving 100 percent for the categorical, but the level was set in the 1970s," said Osmond.

He explained that this means special education is costing schools a lot of money because 100 percent of the expenses are not being covered, in large part because of the increase in salaries paid to teachers over the last 30 years.

About the poverty grant, Osmond explained that schools get nothing unless they can show 20 percent of their students are below the poverty line. "Even if a school has a 19.98 percent below the poverty level, it will receive nothing. In this situation, adding even one student below the poverty level could mean millions of dollars of aid to the school."

He went on to explain that schools receive direct state aid money on a per-student basis for those living below the poverty level. "It doesn't make sense that a school with a poverty level of 17 percent can't get any financial aid for those students."

Osmond said he wholeheartedly supports the two referenda on the ballot put forth by Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 for the school building bonds and the educational fund increase. He also supports the school building bond referendum put forth by Lake Villa Consolidated Elementary School Dist. 41.

Of these referenda items, he said, "I don't see how we have a choice in that. Since the schools have come under tax cap, it limits what schools would automatically get in taxes. Some of the expenses exceed that growth rate."

While on the topic of growth, Osmond said he thinks that extending Rte. 53 could help to ease the county's traffic problems. "I think that extending Rte. 53 has to be part of an overall solution. It is part of the solution, but not the sole solution," said the state representative.

"People are coming into the area whether the road is extended or not. And, they are coming in with the traffic already as bad as it is, and they will continue to," said Osmond. "The solution will be a long time coming. Rte. 53 shouldn't just be dumped into the roads the way they are.

Osmond

Something also needs to be done about roads like Rte. 120, Rte. 173 and Rte. 83."

When asked how the state should use its budget surplus, Osmond answered, "I'm not so sure there is a budget surplus—it is subject to debate as to whether there is a surplus."

"If there truly is a surplus, I would like to see more money go toward special education and for mental health workers and providers," said Osmond. "The state is woefully behind in supporting these two areas."

Organizations endorsing Osmond for State Representative are Community Bankers Association, Employment Law Council Political Action Committee (ELCPAC), Illinois Education Association, Chicago Tribune, Township Officials of Illinois PAC (Political Action Committee), Illinois Agricultural Association, Associated Fire Fighters of Illinois and ABATE (A Brotherhood Aimed Toward Education) of Illinois.

Support for referenda 'positive,' says Hockney

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Dennis Hockney said, "From our perspective, everything is going along just fine. The feedback has been very positive, and we're confident."

The first proposition is to issue $55 million in school building bonds to improve the site at Grass Lake and Deep Lake roads to build and equip a second high school at that location, as well as to build an addition, alter and repair the current high school.

The second proposition is to increase the maximum annual educational tax rate from the current 1.32 percent to 1.60 percent, an increase of .28 percent. While the first item would pay for the construction and improvement costs of the two high schools, this item will pay for the additional operational costs of the two high schools.

At a previous presentation Hockney said, "I will use 17 words to sum up the situation: the need is real, the solution is affordable, the time is now, our children are the winners."

Members of the referenda committee for Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 made their presentation at the board of education meeting for Antioch Community Consolidated School Dist. 34, asking for support of the two referenda items on the ballot.

Resident Kris Scheidt spoke to the board and guests during public comment, saying, "I think it's really admirable that you are going for two four-year high schools and that you are going for the education rate increase at the same time."

With the election drawing near, the referenda committee is continuing with its mailings to voters about ballot items and is continuing to canvass. The committee, made up of 15 people ranging from parents and teachers to administrators, has been in place since the summer.

High school superintendent

Georgeson challenges incumbent

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

Democratic candidate for 62nd Dist. State Representative Spiro Georgeson expressed hope that some of the state budget surplus funds could be directed to local schools. "I strongly believe that achieving total literacy should be a priority in Illinois," said the candidate.

The Antioch resident is running against incumbent State Rep. Timothy Osmond (R-Antioch). Georgeson ran unsuccessfully in 1984 on the Republican ticket for 8th Congressional Dist. against Dan Rostenkowski. He dropped out of the race for Illinois State Senate, 6th Dist. in 1986.

In 1997, Georgeson, who now identifies himself as a "Reagan Democrat" joined the Democratic party of Lake County.

Numerous issues confront members of Illinois' legislature.

Asked to identify the strongest plank in his campaign platform, Georgeson replied, "My dislike for Osmond."

When asked about the upcoming referenda to fund new schools in the Antioch Community High School

Dist. and Lake Villa Consolidated School Dist. 41, Georgeson said he "did not know enough about it to make a recommendation." However, in prepared statements, Georgeson has indicated he favors shifting the burden of school funding from property taxes to income taxes.

Georgeson addressed the question of peak-use power plants with a prepared statement.

"I think we need time for the public to educate themselves about the pros and cons of this technology. We may need more electrical power in the future, but first we need to know the facts about how these plants will impact our lives," he said in the statement. He favors a moratorium on peaker plant construction.

Georgeson also took a position on the proposed extension of Rte. 53.

"Some complain that expanding Rte. 53 north will act like subdivision fertilizer," he noted in a prepared statement. I think Lake County is a victim of its own success. Good homes, good schools, good jobs and good people have attracted new residents like a magnet and continue to do so."

Georgeson

Georgeson would like to see major property tax relief as a beneficiary of the state budget surplus.

"I also believe we must closely examine our public health system," he said in commenting on the surplus. "I expect that improvements to our health care delivery system and increased training of more health care professionals would be a wise use of our surplus funds."

Plenty of good deeds in our town

All good deeds deserve attention, and I apologize for the times when I miss an opportunity to let people know about the good things going on around town.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Sequoit Post 4551 presented the Antioch Police Dept. with a $500 check for its DARE program.

The post's president Bill Oerly called to let me know the event was taking place, and until now, I've missed passing the word on.

Other good deed doers are the folks at Helping Hands. The Helping Hands Resale Shop, located near the Wisconsin border on Rte. 83, is operating a clothes closet and clothing exchange in addition to the bargains available for sale.

The clothes closet would allow those in need to choose from select clothing, free of charge. The exchange will allow parents to trade clothing outgrown by their children for items that will fit.

This will help a lot of families, especially important with the onset of winter.

St. Peter Parish is preparing for its 19th Footlights fund-raiser to benefit St. Peter School.

The event will take place over two weekends: Nov. 3-4, and Nov. 10-11 at St. Peter Church. Footlights 2000 promises to be a community entertainment extravaganza with music, comedy, dancing, food and a casino.

Ed Franks and the Hi-Rollers will be back by popular demand to perform a full comedy and variety show.

Insiders say that the Stars of Lip Sync should not be missed, as they will provide plenty of belly busters for the audience.

The Footlights committee has been hard at work and some new surprises will be in store for this year's attendees. All of the rooms will be "smoke free" with the exception of a speak-easy style cigar tent set up outside of the building.

Tickets are $12 at the door that opens at 6 p.m. all four nights. For advance ticket purchase, or more information, call 395-0274.

Those looking for a new activity, and an opportunity to get some exercise, should consider taking tap lessons.

American Stars is offering an adult tap class. The class offers participants an opportunity to build strength and skills in basic tap while exercising mind and body, as well as making some new friends.

Tap shoes are required, and can be ordered by calling American Stars at 838-1234.

The session runs for 6 weeks on Thursdays from Nov. 2 - Dec. 14 from 8-9 p.m.

The cost is $52 for Antioch residents and $62 for non-residents.

3-year teacher's contract accepted

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A contract has been approved between the Antioch Elementary Education Association and Antioch Community Consolidated School Dist. 34.

According to interim superintendent Don Gossett, a three-year contract was unanimously approved by the teachers and the board of education at a special board meeting set up for that purpose.

The contract will give teachers pay raises throughout the three-year period at a rate of 6 percent for the first year, 5 percent for the second and 4 percent for the third.

The Illinois Education Association (IEA) teacher's union represents teachers in the Antioch Elementary Education Association.

Grandparents Day celebration culminates reading program

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Third graders from Antioch Lower Grade School topped off their "Remember When" program with a special Grandparents Day celebration.

Teacher Lorna Faith said, "This was a great way to end our current reading program. We've been reading stories out of our reading book that our about things in the past with titles like 'When I Was Nine.'"

Each of the five third-grade classes had about 15 grandparents as guests. In each class, some of the grandparents shared childhood experiences and told the children about the types of games that were popular in years past including kick the can, pick up sticks and tidly winks.

Some of the grandparents were able to tell stories about what it was like to attend the grade school when they were children.

Students then had an opportunity to ask their visitors specific questions such as whether they watched television or worked on computers.

Grandparents were entertained by their grandchildren's songs and poetry recital. Students had to conduct a grandparent search to fill in the answer blanks on a questionnaire compiled by the teacher.

In keeping with the reading program theme, principal Mary Grom invited the grandparents to volunteer one-half hour or so of their time to come and read to the schoolchildren. She said, "This is a great way to bond with your grandchildren."

At the end of the program, the grandparents were presented with carnations and escorted to the front office.

Antioch Township sets salaries

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Township trustees set salaries for the next four years, with most positions seeing little or no pay increase. The one exception is for the township assessor who was given nearly a 13 percent pay increase.

The assessor's salary was raised from $48,783 to $55,000. Township supervisor Steven Smouse said, "It was a decision of the board. The four trustees are in charge of setting the salaries. I think they felt the pay raise was warranted because of increase of duties in that position with all of the growth in this area. They compared pay with other townships."

Both the highway commissioner and the township supervisor were given a 1 percent pay increase and now receive $69,622 and $49,989 respectively.

The township clerk received a 4 percent raise from $13,461 to $14,000 per year.

Trustees did not raise their own pay of $175 per meeting, but did remove the absent clause that penalized pay after missing a certain number of meetings.

ACT test scores exceed averages

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The ACT test scores for 1999-2000 for Antioch Community High School (ACHS) students exceed both state and national averages.

At the regular meeting of the ACHS board of education, data was presented showing how the school's students have fared when compared with previous graduating classes, the rest of the state and the nation. The presentation showed the results for all graduates in each sub-test and a composite score. The results show that in all areas tested, ACHS students scored higher than state and national averages.

Superintendent Dennis Hockney said, "We're pleased. The scores have had a trend that has continued to go upward."

In addition to exceeding state and national average, the 1999-2000 scores show that students exceed the district averages for the last six years in all areas tested except for in scientific reasoning, and the English and mathematics scores were the highest for that six-year period.

Over this six-year period, ACHS students have consistently exceeded state and national averages with the two exceptions being in the 1995-96 scores for English and mathematics. In that year, the average English score was 20.6 while the state average was 20.7. The mathematics average score of 20.8 was that year for both ACHS students and the state average.

"There has been a lot of hard work done by all of us to keep this trend moving upward," said Hockney. "We want to continue this trend with ACT scores and other types of testing as well." He noted that the board would be discussing other test scores at its next regular meeting.

"We want to be comparable to any suburban school across the country," Hockney added.

there was a timeframe with which something would need to be done.

Newton replied, "We don't have a timeframe, because this question hasn't come up before."

Turner added, "We started this plan three and one-half years ago. A lot of these homes hadn't even been planned... We don't have a

Theft

Bryant R. Kupsche, 18, of 624 Aspen Ct. in Antioch, was arrested for theft on Oct. 23 at 10:45 a.m. at Antioch Community High School.

Police responded to a call for the theft of $14 from a pair of pants left in a gym locker during the third period.

Kupsche told police he had taken the money, but the amount was a little short because he spent some in a vending machine. He also told police he had looked in couple of other lockers.

Suspended driver's license

Joseph P. Martin, 24, of 3812 Emerson in Shiller Park, was arrested for driving with a suspended driver's license on Oct. 24 at 12:18 a.m. at Rte. 173 and First Ave.

Police saw a black Lincoln driving westbound on Rte. 173 and cross the center lane entering the other lane of traffic. The officer turned the squad car around and stopped the vehicle.

Martin furnished an Illinois State identification card instead of a driver's license when asked. His identifiers were run through LEADS/SOS with him coming back as having a suspended driver's license.

Martin was issued citations for improper lane usage and driving while suspended. He was released on proper bond pending his court date.

Criminal trespass

Jay R. Owens, 18, of 285 Oakridge Ct. in Antioch, was arrested for criminal trespass on Oct. 20 at 3:16 p.m. at Antioch Community High School.

High school dean Kathy Keller waived down police on patrol near the high school. Owens was standing on the sidewalk adjacent to the circle.

Kelly related that Owens was an ex-student who has been sent a letter advising him that he is not allowed on school property.

Owens said he went to retrieve his book bag, but denied he was ever warned not to be on school property.

Owens was released on personal recognition pending his Nov. 22 court date in Grayslake.

Criminal damage to property

Matthew C. Schultz, 23, of 26628 W. Benes Rd. in Antioch, was arrested for criminal damage to property on Oct. 21 at 2:09 a.m. at Country Pontiac on Main St.

Police saw an intoxicated pedestrian walking northbound on Main St. at Orchard, and turned onto Depot to circle around and speak to the subject.

The officer heard the sound of glass breaking at Country Pontiac and saw Schultz reaching through a broken windowpane to the service department of the building.

Police asked Schultz what he was doing, and he said he was an employee and needed a car to get home. The officer saw broken glass on the ground, and Schultz' hand bleeding.

According to the police report, Schultz appeared to be heavily intoxicated. He then told police he was going to sleep in the showroom.

Police advised dispatch of the situation and requested Antioch Rescue Squad respond to look at Schultz's hand. Police also asked for the keyholder of the dealership to respond.

The keyholder arrived and told police Schultz was a manager at the dealership. The dealership's owner said he wanted to pursue the criminal damage to property against Schultz.

Schultz was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. He was released on a $100 cash bond pending his Nov. 13 court date in Waukegan.

Driving on a revoked license

Paul R. Wickard, 30, of 480 North Ave. in Antioch, was arrested for driving with a revoked driver's license on Oct. 23 at 5:21 a.m. at North Ave. and Parkway.

Police saw Wickard driving and knew through prior contact that his privileges had been revoked. The officer approached Wickard and advised him of the reason for the stop. Wickard replied, "Now you're just harassing me." He then handed the officer a Wisconsin operator's license.

His identifiers were run through LEADS/NCIC/SOS via dispatch confirming Wickard's Illinois driving privileges were revoked.

He was placed under arrest and put through booking procedures. He was released on a personal recognition bond pending his Nov. 22 court in Grayslake.

William J. Lynch, 54, of 25630 W. Dressel in Antioch, was arrested for driving with a revoked driver's license on Oct. 17 at 9:18 a.m. at Park Ave. at Skidmore.

Police stopped Lynch for having only one red taillight. His identifiers were run through LEADS with Lynch coming back as having a revoked driver's license.

He was issued citations for having only one red taillight, driving while revoked, and the operation of an uninsured vehicle. He was released on bond pending his Nov. 8 court date in Grayslake.

Pre-trial dates scheduled for Michalak, Wasilowski

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Pre-trial dates have been set for a woman charged with sex crimes, and a man charged with attempting to obstruct justice in a DUI case involving an Antioch police officer.

Rebecca Michalak of Antioch who was charged with two counts of aggravated criminal sexual abuse and one count of child pornography for having sex with an ex-boyfriend's minor son that was video taped.

Michalak's pre-trial date is set for Nov. 15 at 3 p.m. before Judge John Phillips in courtroom 202, also in the Waukegan Court House.

Daniel Wasilowski of McHenry was charged with attempting to obstruct justice months after a one-car accident that happened in May and caused grave bodily harm to the vehicle's two passengers. Initially, Wasilowski told police he was the driver of the vehicle. After months of investigation, the Lake County Sheriff's Dept. charged Antioch police officer Steven Hayes with driving under the influence of alcohol, and causing the accident.

Wasilowski was arraigned Oct. 18 on the attempting to obstruct justice charges and pled not guilty. A pre-trial date was set for Nov. 6 at 9 a.m. before Judge Valerie Boettle-Ceckowski in courtroom 405 in the Waukegan Court House.

According to Boettle-Ceckowski's court clerk, pre-trials take place after the arraignment date and before a jury trial date has been set. Pre-trial motions can be made at this time.

"The state's attorney, and the defense attorney will see if any negotiations can be made. It's up to the defendant whether the negotiation is accepted or refused. If refused, the case will go to trial," the clerk said.

A jury trial for Hayes is set for Nov. 13 at 9 a.m. before Judge Christopher Starck in courtroom 204 at the Waukegan Court House.

Ecstasy case goes to jury trial

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A jury trial date of Nov. 13 has been set for Robert Scroggins, 23, of Antioch, who has been charged with conspiracy and delivery of the controlled substance known as ecstasy. The case will go before Judge Christopher Starck in courtroom 204 in the Waukegan Courthouse at 9 a.m.

According to the chief of the criminal division at the state's attorney office George Strickland, the drug is said to produce an euphoric type high similar to cocaine, but with longer lasting effects. "Teenagers use this drug at raves (all night dance parties), because it gives an euphoric feeling and lots of energy, supposedly," said Strickland.

Scroggins, and four others, planned to sell the 1,200 doses of the drug before authorities seized it. Strickland said a sale price of $20-$40 per pill is a good estimate of its street value.

Scroggins is the only one of the five who has not pled guilty to the charges. The other four will all testify against Scroggins during his trial as part of their plea agreements.

Jerry LaSaint, 23, of Antioch, has been previously sentenced to 12 years in prison. Gary Wier, 24, of Gurnee, pled guilty and will be sentenced to between 6-10 years in jail, according to Strickland. Rafael Torres, 27, of Des Plaines, has pled guilty and will be sentenced on Oct. 20. Danielle Szmanesky, 25, of Lake Villa, received 30 months probation for her part in the crime.

Father sentenced to 22 years for sex abuse of own children

Staff Reporter

David J. Kraft, 30, formerly of Lake Villa and Round Lake Beach, has been sentenced to 22 years in prison after pleading guilty to aggravated criminal sexual assault against two of his three children. The sentence was pronounced on Oct. 20 at Lake County Circuit Court by Judge James Booras. The class X felony carried a possible sentence of up to 30 years.

Kraft will serve the sentence concurrently with a previous 15-year sentence for the sexual abuse of an 11-year-old female relative.

Kraft, who suffers from Marfan's Disease, a hereditary condition affecting growth and internal organs, has a life expectancy of under 40 years of age, and is not likely to live out his sentence.

Testimony leading to the conviction came from Kraft's 18-year-old brother-in-law, who, at the age of 13, was sexually assaulted by Kraft. The 18-year-old man, brother of Kraft's wife, Louise, was sentenced last month for sexual abuse of the two Kraft children and is serving three years in juvenile prison, facing an additional six years in adult prison.

"We have a vicious circle," said Mary Yarc, chief of the juvenile trial division in the state's attorney's office.

Louise Kraft, the children's mother, is serving two consecutive 13-year sentences for her part in the sexual abuse of her children.

The two older children, abused for about 10 years, beginning at about age 3, are now in foster care, along with their younger sister. The youngest child has not spoken of abuse, but social workers indicate she exhibits signs of related behavioral disturbances.

The children are to receive counseling. Neither Kraft parent was ordered by the court to undergo sex abuse counseling while in prison, although such therapy is available to them if they volunteer for it.

The family had lived in a house in Round Lake Beach for several years. The house was cited numerous times for various health violations, and was eventually condemned and torn down. The family then relocated to an apartment in Lake Villa, where they lived at the time of the arrests.

Sometime in mid-November or early December the state's attorney will file a petition to terminate the Krafts' parental rights.

The evacuation of Jews from Nazi-held Denmark is one of the great untold stories of World War II. On Sept. 29, 1943, word got out in Denmark that Jews were to be detained and then sent to the death camps. Within hours the Danish resistance, population and police arranged a small flotilla to herd 7,000 Jews to Sweden.

Lois Lowry fictionalizes a true-story account to bring this courageous tale to life. She brings the experience to life through the eyes of 10-year-old Annemarie Johanssen, whose family harbors her best friend, Ellen Rosen, on the eve of the round-up and helps smuggles Ellen's family out of the country. Their life in Copenhagen is filled with school, food shortages, and the Nazi soldiers marching through town. When the Jews of Denmark are "relocated," Ellen moves in with the Johanssens and pretends to be one of the family. Soon Annemarie is asked to go on a dangerous mission to save Ellen's life.

Household waste days scheduled

There are still opportunities left in 2000 for Lake County homeowners to responsibly dispose of containers of old paint, varnish, paint thinner, driveway dealer, lawn and garden chemicals, used motor oil, antifreeze, old gasoline and other common but problematic chemical waste items.

Get those rusty, dented, sloppy cans out of the house and keep them out of the landfill. Drive through one of the remaining HCW events, part of a series of nine Household Chemical Waste (HCW) one-day events SWALCO offered this year. Drop-off events are free.

The next is on Nov. 4, 8 a.m.-3:30 p.m., Zion-Benton High School, 3901 21st St., Zion, corner of 21st and Kenosha.

For further information on HCW tips and SWALCO events, visit the web site at www.swalco.org.

Phones donated for domestic violence victims

State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis' (R-Zion) push to collect cellular phones for domestic violence victims received another large donation. Jason DeBates of Pace Communications in Waukegan donated another 33 wireless phones, bringing his donation to a total of 83 phones since the drive began.

"DeBates has been very generous to our cause," said Geo-Karis. "Because of his donation, 83 at-risk domestic violence victims will feel a little more safe, and if they need it, they can get help at the touch of a button."

The phones will be programmed with 911 and emergency access so domestic violence victims can get help at the touch of button. Local wireless providers donate free airtime for the calls.

Geo-Karis, State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) and State Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) are working to collect the phones for the Call to Protect program. Nationwide, the Call to Protect program is sponsored by The Wireless Foundation, Motorola and the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence. The three lawmakers are involved through the efforts of the Conference of Women Legislators.

Geo-Karis points out that even the donations of a single phone can make a difference. Used wireless phones may be dropped off at any of the three legislators' offices: Antioch, 976 Hillside; Libertyville, 131 E. Park Ave., Suite B-1; Zion, 2613 Sheridan Rd.

Students take advantage of educational opportunities

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Patti Devers is one of two teachers at the Antioch Lower Grade School teaching a combined first and second-grade class. She took her students on a walking field trip to the William E. Brook Memorial Wetlands to coincide with classroom science studies about insects and the environment.

Room moms helped escort the students to and from the wetlands to keep things orderly.

The wetland site offered a plentiful setting and challenge for the young scientists. Once there, the students looked and listened to see and hear as many different species of plants and animals as they could.

Students were given mirrors to observe the trees' canopy. This allowed them to spend as much time as necessary to see what they could see without having to strain to look upward into the tops of the trees.

To offer her students an additional challenge, Devers gave the children brightly colored objects, such as buttons, to see if they could successfully camouflage them in the woods.

Parent and room volunteer Theresa Kovac said, "It's wonderful that the kids were able to take this field trip, and have this opportunity at a location that is so close to the school. They may not have been able to have this experience otherwise."

School day memories forever carved into photographs

It's the night before school pictures and the household is in an uproar—it's one of those times that mom and dad truly wish their brood of offspring was comprised of all boys instead of girls. You would think, by the flying hair ribbons and discarded clothes, that they were preparing for the Miss America pageant instead of their annual class pictures.

When you go to a school that calls for a uniform, those special occasion days when a uniform is not required somewhat resembles a kindergarten class loose in a candy shop with free reign to sample whatever they desire. The closet doors stand wide open, eyes staring blankly at their contents as the girls whine they have nothing to wear, even as new shirts—with tags still in place—and pants yet to be worn hang among the articles of clothing.

After pain-staking deliberations, an outfit is finally selected, but the picture preparation process is far from over. We now move to find the oh-so-perfect accessories. Which shoes should I wear, what color socks are appropriate, and oh, what should I do with my hair? Why is it that this much attention is not paid to homework? Hours later, the whole ensemble is tentatively complete, and we still have yet to face the "smiling practice" phase of the ordeal.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Teeth showing, no teeth showing, hair behind ears, hair in front of ears—the decisions are endless. What these young ones don't realize is that these pictures will one day fill in the gaps of their school memories, and with that in mind I think they should represent the average day look, not the look of a glamour queen. These will one day be their window back to their past and their adolescent acne should be up front and personal. Yes, I want the glasses left on and the braces showing—that is who they are. That is what the memories are all about.

To this day I laugh every time I see a school picture of my older sister and her cat wearing glasses with rhinestones in the corner. At the time she thought she was one happening chick—now she reflects back and sees where her fashion sense was a bit mis-cued.

For me it was my turquoise chiffon dress. For my fifth birthday, I received this dress which I thought was the greatest thing this side of the Mississippi. I wore it for the next three years in my class pictures. My mother was fit to be tied, but there I am, in my kindergarten, first and second grade class pictures in my chiffon dress. I probably would have worn it in the third grade as well but somehow in the move it was lost. I don't remember moving that year, but mom said it was lost and I believed everything mom said. I'm sure my classmates thought we were poorer than dirt farmers with me wearing the same dress three years in a row, but now I look back on it and chuckle at the frustration my poor mother must have went through with me.

And so the fateful "picture taking" morning arrives. The perfect look is achieved, from coiffured hair down to polished shoes. The biggest task at hand has yet to be achieved—getting from the household kitchen to the make-shift photo studio in the school cafeteria without disrupting that look. Oh, was that thunder I heard in the distance?

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Cheering, of course

If you're into cheering and plenty of excitement, Grayslake High School is definitely the place to be Oct. 28.

That's because the Spirit Quest 2000 Invitational Youth Cheerleading competition will be taking place in the high school's field house. The event begins approximately at 9 a.m. and is expected to run until 6 p.m.

Over 800 kids representing 40 different squads will be on hand for the event. Communities being represented include Grayslake, Schaumburg, Cary, Lake Zurich, Wheeling, Fox Lake, Wauconda and Lake Villa.

"It's a terrific time and there will be tons of people," said Grayslake Youth Football & Cheerleading Director Christy Thomas. "Seeing the enthusiasm, pride, and spirit on the kids' faces when they go to receive their trophies is just priceless."

And speaking of awards, Thomas' Grayslake Colts Cheerleaders have had plenty of reasons to smile. Last week at the Tri-County Youth Football League Cheerleading competition hosted by Crystal Lake Central High School, all six Grayslake Colts Cheerleading squads finished in the top three.

"We've been doing very well lately. Our program has boomed," said Thomas. "Last year, we had 167. This year, we had 250 come out for cheerleading. We have girls from all over like Mundelein, Gurnee, Round Lake and Grayslake, just to name a few."

Thomas attributed the 'boom' in cheerleading in this area to the close ties formed with Grayslake High School.

"That's because a lot of the high school cheerleaders used to be cheerleaders for the Colts," she replied. "And they come back to choreograph, coach and teach the girls we have now."

Thomas said the younger age divisions will compete in the morning hours, while the older grade levels will follow in the afternoon hours.

The competition will represent girls from the first through eighth-grade levels.

The world of sports medicine continues to make advancements by leaps and bounds.

And on Nov. 4, Grayslake Community High School will be hosting a seven-hour sports safety training class sponsored by the American Red Cross.

The initial class is open only to coaches from the Grayslake Park District and Grayslake High School.

"But this will hopefully kick off the start of something big and be ongoing as we hope to get more area people involved in the future," said Curt Freund, Program Coordinator in Athletic Training at Trinity University in Deerfield.

"The purpose of these courses will be to help educate and train athletic trainers and coaches as to curb injuries that occur at sporting events," added Freund. "This is just one of the many educational programs we're doing here in the Sports Medicine Department at Condell."

Freund and Grayslake High Athletic Trainer Glen Gerdes will be conducting the course Nov. 4.

Inquiries and information on future courses can be directed at 990-5870.

Lady Sequoit cross country heading to Schaumburg

Moxley, Beatty qualify as individuals

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

The back of their t-shirts reads 'American by birth, Kenyan at heart.'

Whatever the slogan, it seems to work for the Antioch boys and girls cross country teams. The Lady Sequoits, who have been enjoying one its best seasons in school history, added another chapter Oct. 21 by finishing second with 83 points in the Woodstock regional. Antioch, as did the top five teams and top five individuals not on a qualifying team, will get together Oct. 28 at the Schaumburg sectional with state berths on the line.

"This feels great," said junior Holly Clarke, Antioch's top runner who finished seventh in a time of 17:26. "I think the communication is tremendous on this team. We're also getting off to faster starts and pack running has definitely been key."

Clarke's time was actually 5 seconds slower than last year's regional on the same course. But it doesn't seem to matter.

"I think we've got a great shot at state," she responded.

Joining Clarke in the top 10 and earning a medal was sophomore Robyn Mortenson right behind in eighth with a time of 17:31.

"I knew they'd give it a good run and what do you know, they did it," said head coach Dave Judson. "All of the hard work and dedication is paying off."

The boys team almost joined them in Schaumburg, finishing sixth with 153, 16 points behind sectional qualifier Jacobs (137).

But junior Ryan Moxley, who stumbled at the beginning of the 3-mile race, and freshman Jim Beatty, will be making the trip to the western suburbs as individuals.

"I just got caught in the pack a little and tripped," said Moxley, who came back to finish 27th in a time of 17:35, more than a minute better than last year's regional time.

"Everyone was screaming at you and pushing you and I was able to make up a lot of time in the second and third minutes. I thought we'd have a great shot at sectionals. We just didn't have enough of us at the top."

Meanwhile, Beatty was right behind Moxley, finishing 28th in a time of 17:44.

"this is one of the best races I've run all year and to qualify, I'm very excited," he said. "I wish we could have gone as a team. We were so close. But hopefully Ryan and I can be good representatives for the team."

Sequoit booters advances after thriller over Warren

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

During the post season, names you don't normally see tend to rise to the occasion.

On Oct. 24, it was Antioch sophomore defender Sean Trulzsch.

After 100 minutes of scoreless soccer between third-seeded Warren and the sixth-seeded Sequoits in the opening round of the Prairie Ridge sectional, Trulzsch blasted one into the right corner of the goal, giving the visiting Sequoits a 1-0 victory over the Blue Devils by way of a 6-5 advantage in penalty kicks.

"I didn't know what to do-my heart stopped," said Trulzsch after burying the game-winning penalty kick. "I was just trying to get comfortable and not rush it."

During regulation, both teams had numerous chances to score but shots, whether by way of headers or the foot, sailed just wide or off the posts. Keepers Eric Carlberg (13 saves) for Antioch and Ross Jensen (7 saves) of the Devils stopped numerous shots.

But it was Carlberg's three saves during the penalty kicks that helped set up the eventual game-winner by Trulzsch.

"It was a classic game between the two schools," said ACHS head coach Ryan Estabrook. "I think the last six meeting (over three years) we've met, the games have been decided by a goal or less. But we had a lot of confidence in Sean (Trulzsch). He's really proved his worth on this team."

During the penalty kicks, each team alternates five shots on goal from five different players. Tied at 5-5, Carlberg snuffed out a Devil shot, leaving the final heroics to Trulzsch.

Antioch, which improved to 12-7-3, travels to No. 2 seed Jacobs for a 2:30 p.m. contest Oct. 26.

"They're a tough team," noted Estabrook. "They move the ball nicely. But I think this win today motivated us. We'll be ready."

The winner then plays the victor of the Cary-Grove-Dundee-Crown game in the sectional title contest Oct. 28 at 11:30 a.m.

Sequoit netters conclude solid season

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Throw out the overall record and it comes down to team work and camaraderie.

That was the consensus after the Antioch varsity girls' volleyball team was ousted in the first-round of the Libertyville regional Oct. 24.

"This was a great bonding experience," said senior Jamie Knuth, who played two years on varsity. "We became very close as a team and even though we lost tonight, I think we have a lot of great memories to look back on this season."

Knuth tallied three kills, senior Kelly Gofron six and junior Erica Brown three in the 15-1, 15-6 loss to seventh-seeded Lake Forest.

Antioch, the 10th seed going in, concluded the 2000 campaign at 16-20, a run that saw them play Stevenson tough during the regular-season, which was then preceded by an eighth-place effort in the second-place pool in the Crosstown Classic Oct. 20-21.

"Those were definitely two of the highlights to our year," said Gofron.

In the second game against the Scouts, Brown nailed a kill to give the Sequoits a brief 3-2 advantage. But Lake Forest (19-15) closed out the game with a 13-2 spurt to win going away.

"We played better and came back a little in the second game," said head coach Gwen Varney. "We were just flat in game 1. We made a lot of serving errors and just gave them (Lake Forest) too many chances. You're always disappointed finishing the season below .500 but with the injuries we had this season, I couldn't be more proud of the way the team played and kept their composure. Someone different seemed to step up every match."

Senior setters Meghan Flood and Emily Niles each dished out five assists for the match.

With backs against wall, Sequoit football responds

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

It's not a position they like to be in but based on the results the last two years, Antioch head football coach Del Pechauer are getting used to the outcome with regularity.

For the second year in a row, the Sequoits had their backs against the wall, having to win their final regular-season game to secure a spot in the Class 5A State playoffs.

And again, they responded.

"I couldn't be happier for the seniors," said Pechauer after Antioch bombed Mundelein 43-7 Oct. 20. "This is their third straight playoff appearance."

With the victory, Antioch improved to 6-3 overall and tied for third at 3-2 in the North Suburban Lake Division.

"But now it's time to get down to business and I think the guys realize that," said Pechauer.

That's because Antioch, the No. 26 seed, will travel to potent seventh-seeded Rock Island (8-1) for a 1 p.m. date Oct. 28.

"They will definitely run a lot," said Pechauer. "They're quick and pretty much stick to the basics-nothing fancy."

Against Mundelein, the hosts jumped out to a 7-0 lead early in the second quarter before the floodgates opened for the Sequoits.

Eric White caught a 10-yard pass from brother Brandon but the extra-point sailed wide. But defensive back Ari Brown made sure the momentum stayed on the Sequoits side. On Mundelein's ensuing drive, Brown intercepting a pass and scampered in from 55-yards.

Eric White, who finished with 94 yards rushing to go along with 56 receiving, scored his second touchdown, a 49-yard dash, just before halftime as Antioch went ahead 20-7 heading into the lockerroom.

Mundelein fumbled the second half opening kickoff and Antioch was right there to answer.

Running back Mark Purnell, who tallied 60 yards on 12 carries, rumbled in from 6-yards out. Purnell later added another score at the end of the third quarter, also a 6-yard scamper.

"I think the guys knew they were in control when we scored after that fumble to open the third quarter," noted Pechauer.

In between Purnell's two scores, Brandon White, who completed 5-of-9 passes for 100 yards, hit Eric from 26-yards out.

The Sequoits added a safety in the fourth quarter for the final margin of victory.

"We're just trying to enjoy this," said Pechauer. "The team is healthy. We're just looking at this as a reward. The kids are excited to be in the playoffs again and just trying to have some fun with it."

Sequoit cheerleaders to show their stuff for Da Bears

By B. A. Cardoni
Correspondent

The Antioch Community High School cheerleaders will be cheering an entire Bears Game on Nov. 5 at Soldier Field when Chicago entertains Indianapolis.

"We look upon this as a pretty big honor," said Robin Gwinn, head cheerleading coach. Gwinn said Antioch's cheerleaders have qualified to compete in state competition for the last 14 years. She felt this record was a contributing factor, in the selection process and explained the process to qualify, stating that Antioch has a quality squad.

"Between Dec. and Feb., over 300 high schools compete regionally and you must get enough points to qualify for state finals in two competitions. Only 20-30 schools qualify, and we've gone down 14 years in a row," Gwinn said.

The Antioch "Sequoits" are sending their freshman squad, coached by Michelle Szymanski; their sophomore squad, coached by Laura Kiemly; and their varsity squad coached by Gwinn, totaling 47 girls. "The girls and the parents are very excited," Gwinn exclaimed. "We even got a letter from George McCaskey," she said.

"And of course with this many girls we had to rely on community support for which we thank the State Bank of Antioch they really came through for these girls," she said. Apparently the team squad will need game appropriate signs to identify them.

According to Marcia Buchs, Marketing coordinator at Halas Hall the High School cheerleader program has only been in place for a couple of years. "It's one school chosen per game, we play ten home games in a season, it's basically a random choice, we'd like to see community schools get the opportunity but experience in state competitions can have something to do with it," Buchs said.

The Sequoits would like to invite all area junior high school students to attend their cheerleading clinic, at the high school, on Nov. 11. The girls and coaches will cover cheer technique, stunting and gymnastics. Gwinn will also hold a safety clinic for coaches. Last year was a trial run for the clinic and 79 students attended. The times are from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. with a competition to finalize the day. Call Robin Gwinn for more information at 395-4882.

AREA YOUTH SPORTS HIGHLIGHTS, NEWS AND NOTES

The Lake Villa Featherweights advance to the playoffs with a convincing 12-6 win over Warren White. Lake Villa's ground game controlled the tempo in the first half, with Matt Limbert and Sean Hertz picking up huge chunks of yardage. Limbert's score from six yards out gave the Timberwolves a 6-0 lead at the half.

Lake Villa's defense took over in the second half, led by the aggressive and hard hitting play of Billy Battistone and Nick Waido. Waido consistently came up with the big plays, including a 40 yard interception TD run. Warren White came back to score late in the fourth quarter to cut the lead to 12-6, and had the ball at Lake Villa's 28 yard line with a little over a minute left to play. Battistone forced the Warren QB into two hurried passes and Sean Hertz came up with a huge tackle on third down. On fourth and ten, Waido sealed the victory with his second interception of the day.

The Lake Villa Featherweights Saturday team finished their regular season with a 6-1 record advancing to the championship game. They are led by QB Dominic Funari and the strong running of Ted Bariamis and Chris McCracken.

TNT volleyball announces girls' club tryouts

"Developing The Passion" continues to be the goal at TNT volleyball. In the sixth season, (fourth season for the boys club), they strive to involve as many athletes as possible in a competitive, disciplined and fun environment. The instructors are committed to improving athletes' individual and team skills. Athletes will be placed on teams according to age, ability, attitude and IHSA guidelines. The number of teams at each level will depend on the ages and number of tryout participants.

TNT volleyball club is open to all area girls ages 18-and-under. The age groups are divided as follows:

14-and-under (born on or after Sept. 1, 1986); 15-and-under (born on or after Sept. 1, 1985); 16-and-under (born on or after Sept. 1, 1984); 18-and-under (born on or after Sept. 1, 1982).

Approximately 12 players per team.

Director-Barb Clark-TNT Boys' 16-1 and 18-1 coach 1997-present, Glenbrook South High School

Coach-Boys' assistant 1991-96, Stevenson High School girls assistant 1993-94, Lake Zurich High School

present, and TNT boys' coach 1999-present.

The TNT girls VBC season will run from December 2000 through May of 2001. Each team will compete in approximately two tournaments a month. Tournaments are held on Saturdays and on Sundays and generally last from 8 a.m.-6 p.m. (approximately). Some tournament sites include Palatine, Lockport, Crystal Lake and Rockford.

Practices will be held two nights a week at Meridian Middle School for an hour and a half each night between the hours of 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. Most teams will practice on Monday and Wednesday nights. One team will practice on Tuesday and Thursday night from 6:30-8 p.m.

All tryouts will be held in Buffalo Grove at Meridian Middle School (Half Day Rd. (Rte. 22) to Prairie, south to Brandywyn, turn right) or (Lake-Cook Rd. to Buffalo Grove Rd., go north to Brandywyn, turn right, go about 1/2 mile to school on the right). Parents are asked to remain outside the gym to allow athletes adequate space and proper focus.

Dates and times are as follows:

14-and-under-Nov. 6 and 13. Registration at 6 p.m. Tryout 6:30-8 p.m.

15-and-under-Nov. 6 and 13. Registration at 7:30 p.m. Tryout 8-9:30 p.m.

16-and-under-Nov. 8 and 15. Registration at 6 p.m. Tryout 6:30-8 p.m.

18 and under-Nov. 8 and 15. Registration at 7:30 p.m. Tryout 8-9:30 p.m.

The tryout fee is $20.

The cost includes: court rental, insurance, entry fees, USAV fees, coaches salaries and miscellaneous costs. Cost: $850 plus uniform (approximately $65). For information contact Barb Clark at 419-1366.

Less Than A Week Left For the November Contest...

Just a reminder that you have till Tuesday night (yes, I know it's Halloween), to post-mark your entries for the NOVEMBER Lakeland Fantasy Football Monthly contest.

Next week we will publish the winner for the October contest, so stay tuned.

As we head into the December contest I must remind you to look at schedules. Baltimore, Atlanta, Philadelphia and Cleveland all have bye-weeks in December and that could effect their touchdowns during the month.

For those of you that are waiting till the last minute to enter the November contest - a strategy that may pay off because of injuries - also pay attention to bye-weeks. NFL teams taking a week off in November include: Chicago, Denver, New England, Jacksonville, Washington, Seattle and San Francisco. There are some very talented players included in the above listing. It is up to you to decide if they can make up the touchdowns in only three weeks.

By the way, here are a couple of players that I might have missed on. First of all, Jerome Bettis is not a flash in the pan. I thought he would burn out after week two, but I was wrong.

Bettis is averaging 100 yards and a touchdown a week. And for that matter - his Steeler team is also on track, especially the defense. James Allen is not bad either. The Bears are a mess, make no doubt about it, but Allen is capable of producing 100 yards a game. The question is whether he will find the end-zone or not. Finally, Joe Horn of the New Orleans Saints might be the best receiver that no one has ever heard of. If he is available over the waivers or via trade, I would recommend picking him up.

FANTASY FOOTBALL COMES TO LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS

Something new has come to Lakeland Newspapers this fall in the form of Fantasy Football Monthly. The new football contest challenges readers to pick NFL players from six different categories and hope that their players score more touchdowns than anybody else.

Each month readers will select their 12 players from the above categories. At the end of the month the reader who's team has the most total throwing, rushing and receiving touchdowns will win $100 from Lakeland Newspapers. Monthly winners will also be put in a drawing to win an authentic NFL football autographed by Chicago Bears star Jim Flanigan.

Enter by mailing this page with your picks, your name, address and daytime phone number to: FANTASY FOOTBALL MONTHLY, Lakeland Media, 30 S. Whitney, Grayslake, IL 60030. Entries must be in Lakeland's hands no later than the Friday before the month begins. If an entry comes in after deadline-the picks will not count until the next month's contest. The contest will begin at the beginning of each month.

Lakeland will also publish tips and player news in a weekly fantasy football column each week. If you're a football fan, then join the millions of fantasy football players throughout the country by playing Lakeland Newspapers Fantasy Football Monthly.

National Honor Society to induct new members

The Antioch Community High School Faculty Council announced that the following students will be inducted into the National Honor Society for the year 2000-2001 Oct. 29 at a ceremony at Antioch Community High School. The guest speaker was mathematics teacher Roger Alm. These students were bestowed this honor because they have consistently shown that they satisfy the standards of scholarship, service, leadership, and character. ANTIOCH PARK HAPPENINGS

Sports Camps of America holds basketball leagues

This camp will again make their way up north to teach boys and girls basketball skills. PeeWee Basketball is for 4-5 year olds. They will learn the basics of team play and elementary skills. This program is for six weeks from 5-6 p.m. on Wednesdays. Cost for Pee Wee Basketball is $40 for Antioch residents/$50 non residents.

Junior Basketball league is an instructional league for 6-11 year olds. It is six weeks of instructional games. This league meets on Wednesdays, at the Antioch Lower Grade. 6-8 year olds meet from 6-7:30 p.m. and 9-11 year olds meet from 7:30-9 p.m. Cost for junior basketball league is $50 for Antioch residents/$60 non residents.

The next session runs from Nov. 11-Dec. 12. Classes are held at the Antioch Lower Grade.

Court Aces

This well known organization will again be teaching tennis, which provides a fun and positive reinforcement as they cover all areas of the game. Classes are held at Tanglewood in Bristol, Wis. Classes are available for ages 8-adult, and for every skill level. Call the parks office for more details.

Adult tap class

American Stars is offering an adult tap class. If you never got around to taking dance as a child, now is your chance, or maybe you would just like a refresher course. Build strength as well as skill in the basic tap class. Make new friends or bring one along while exercising your mind and body. Tap shoes are needed and can be ordered by calling American Stars at 838-1234.

Session is on Thursdays for six weeks. This class runs from Nov. 2-Dec. 14 from 8-9 p.m. cost for this class is $52 for Antioch residents/$62 non residents.

Horseback riding

Windance Acres of Lake Villa is again offering horseback riding classes. Riding is an excellent way for a child to gain self confidence, coordination, cardiovascular fitness and muscle tone. Not to mention it's a lot of fun. Windance Acres offers two styles of riding: English and Western. Each child may advance to his/her own level.

Proper attire is a must. Long pants, shoes/boots with a heel and a riding helmet are required. Helmets are supplied if you do not own one. Don't worry about the weather—there is an indoor arena. Classes meet on Wednesdays. This class for ages 6 and up, and meets from Nov. 22-Dec. 13 from 5-6 p.m. Cost for this class is $100 for Antioch residents, and $110 for non residents.

Stop by the Antioch Parks and Recreation Dept. at 874 Main St., Antioch, to register for any of these programs. For more information or to receive a complete program guide in the mail, call 395-2160.

Students aid children at Fall Fiesta

Students from Lake Forest Academy lent a helping hand to the families of Highland Park and Highwood at the annual Fall Fiesta, sponsored by Family Network of Highland Park. Children's entertainment, food and crafts were on hand for this enjoyable family day. The students aided with the food concessions as well as guiding the children through various craft projects. Family Network is an organization that provides support for families with small children in the community. They offer discussions on issues related to child rearing while providing child care for those parents participating.

The Lake Forest Academy students who participated include Anna Michalczuk of Lincolnshire and Lauren Boardman of Lake Villa.

Company of wolves

Students increase awareness at Volo Bog event

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

A mighty "AOWWWWL" could be heard from the classroom at Volo Bog to spark a Sunday afternoon. Students and adults alike cupped their hands in front of their mouths and gave their best wolf calls.

The fun was just part of the Wolf Awareness Day at Volo Bog.

Participants learned more than 200 wolves inhabit many of the wild places just north of Madison, Wis.

The event is sponsored by Friends of Volo Bog and Timber Wolf Alliance as part of Wolf Awareness Week.

Participants could take home a handmade plaster cast of a wolf track. Learn how to use the radio telemetry equipment that aids biologists in monitoring wild wolves.

"Education is one of the key reasons for our success," said Pam Troxell of The Timberwolves Alliance.

David Blodgett of South Bend, Ind. gave portraits of participants as well as a showing the work that earned him artist of the year winners.

"I have been an artist for 30 years. I have been doing wildlife for four or five years. I enjoy the textures and the differences about wildlife. It is kind of a challenge," Blodgett said in between giving away free posters. "My dad was a commercial artist. All I ever did was draw."

Blodgett's background is in mural art, portraits and illustrations.

Learn about wolves from Adrian Wydeven, Wisconsin's leading wolf biologist and the event's keynote speaker.

"I was first interested in wolves in grade school and became more interested in college. Wolves are a majestic, wild animal," Wydeven said.

He showed how to track wolves using a telemetry device. A few students learned how to use the device.

A radio collar fitted to a wolf's neck allows pilots and ground researchers to monitor movements via hand receivers. The technology has been around for about 30 years, Wydeven said. To gather the data stored in the collar, the biologist sends a signal to the collar causing it to drop off the wolf's neck and it is retrieved later.

"I like it, learning about the tracks of the animal. They're important to keep the deer population down" said fifth-grader Garrett Nachowicz of Mundelein.

Most male wolves are 75-80 pounds, females 60-65 pounds. There was one recorded at 108 pounds last summer, Wydeven said.

"It is a lot of fun. I first saw wolves at a resort in Minnesota," another participant said.

Wydeven said the characteristics of wolves include erect ears and narrow chests and long legs.

He said the wolf-dog hybrid, though, makes for poor choice for pets.

Wolves can be very mobile creatures. One started in Minnesota one summer and made it through 29 Wisconsin counties before ending back near where he started, Wydeven said.

Other documented cases include one male pup that as live-captured and ear-tagged in northeastern Minnesota recaptured three years later 275 kilometers from the first location. Another was found 555 miles from its original location. In November, 1999, one male wolf was live-trapped and radio collared in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. The same wolf was killed 450 miles from its first location.

The status of wolves as of July the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service changed the gray wolf from the Endangered Species Act. It reclassifies the gray wolf from endangered to threatened. "That does not mean it is not protected," Wydeven said.

This would allow greater flexibility in wolf management in Wisconsin. Currently, wolves that kill livestock in Michigan and Wisconsin can be relocated to another area. Under the threatened status, government trappers can euthanize wolves that kill livestock.

"There are a lot of misconceptions about wolves. They are important predators for the ecosystem, not the myths that are about them. They are not sweethearts either, the truth is somewhere in between," said Stacy Miller, naturalist at Volo Bog.

Miller said it is amazing that wolves are so close by. Wolf packs may be found in the forested regions two hours north of the Wisconsin capitol.

Wolf Awareness Day at Volo Bog is part of the nationwide Wolf Awareness Week effort sponsored, in part by Timber Wolf Alliance, a non-profit, education organization based in northern Wisconsin. Started in 1972, is based on work done by Sigurd F. Olson (1899-1982), one of the most beloved nature writers and conservationists of his day.

"Wolf Awareness Week has been around, but this is the first time we have been a part of it," Miller said.

For information on other Volo Bog activities, call (815) 344-1294 or stop by at the Volo Bog Visitor Center.

Volo Bog State Natural Area is an Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources site on Brandenburg Rd. west off Rte. 12 between Rtes. 120 and 134 in Ingleside.

COUNTY DIGEST

Voters reach top

Lake County Clerk Willard Helander announced Lake County has reached an all-time high number of registered voters. "With incredible staff effort inputting all the applications for registration we have reached 350,676 registered voters in Lake County," stated Helander. "This is an unprecedented number for our county. In just three weeks, nine weeks of work has been processed. The county clerk's staff is to be commended for their efforts to get all registrations entered in such a timely manner. In the last week of registration alone we received approximately 11,000 new registrations."

Helander points out in June of this year there were approximately 320,000 registered voters in the county. "There was a 17.7 percent increase in registered voters from the last Presidential Election (1996) when the County had 297,863 residents registered," Helander explained.

Filing deadline

Individuals who wish to run as write-in candidates for the Nov. 7 general election have until 5 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 31 to file a Declaration of Intent to be a Write-in Candidate with the Lake County Clerk's office, Room 101, 18 N. County St., Waukegan.

The forms are available at the County Clerk's office during regular business hours of 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 8:30 a.m.-7:30 p.m. on Friday.

University Station signs National-Louis

After state officials wrangled for more than a year to select a university site at college of Lake County, it appears that developer Martin Tuohy's promise to proceed without state help is coming to fruition.

National-Louis University will begin teaching classes in November at University Station, formerly the Lakehurst Shopping Center in south-west Waukegan.

Tuohy was snubbed by a state selection committee in redeveloping Lakehurst Mall into University Station. Tuohy vowed he would proceed because interest was high in turning the beleaguered shopping center into a thriving mixed-use site.

Jim Bozzelli, director of instructional services for National-Louis, said the school initially will provide a Master of Education in Interdisciplinary Studies in Curriculum and Instruction.

An open house for interested students will be held from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Monday, October 30, at a temporary University Station campus where the Illinois Institute of Technology is also offering classes.

The open house site is in the Greenleaf Professional Campus at 350 S. Greenleaf Ave. in Park City. Greenleaf is located immediately west of Rte. 41, near Rte. 43 and a mile east of the toll road between Washington Street in Gurnee.

National-Louis is a 114-year old university instructing teachers who want to receive a bachelor's, master's or doctorate degree or information about a specific subject. Other colleges within the university offer a wide variety of degrees in the arts and sciences as well as management and business.

Wood visits county for breast cancer awareness

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Corrine Wood was about to enter into a new era of political life when she received the news.

The Lake County legislator from Lake Forest learned she was diagnosed with breast cancer, at a time when she was being considered for the second highest office in Illinois.

She has made the issue and women's health a priority, as she is in mid-term as lieutenant governor of Illinois. Wood received honors from the City of Zion for her cause as well as Midwest Regional Medical Center, which presented a matching grant scholarship, all part of "Corrine Wood Day." She received a key to the city, as well as mementos of her visit to Zion-Benton High. Her appearance was during Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

"As I travel this state, I encourage women in awareness, and early detection. The good news is 96 percent of breast cancer that is detected early is treatable," Wood said.

Wood said the state has increased funding. In her first months in office, Wood launched the statewide campaign, "A Check for a Cure," promoting the breast cancer check-off on the Illinois tax income tax form. The campaign proved most successful, and contributions to the breast cancer research doubled in its

Seminar held for violence focuses on youth issues

By CAREL SCHMIDLKOFER
Staff Reporter

A seminar was held for educators and community leaders to discuss ways to prevent violence with Lake County's youth.

The forum was sponsored by the Lake County Regional Office of Education, the College of Lake County and Lake County Unites for VIP.

The purpose of the task force is to focus on ways communities can avoid youth violence by developing and implementing character standards.

Richard Escutia, YMCA executive, addressed the values of building character in youth by incorporating proactive rather than reactive programs in communities. Escutia said that once a community recognizes and defines what problems exist, they can work together as a whole to change how they would like their communities to be.

Last days for Pressl to upend incumbent Crane

By CAREL SCHMIDLKOFER
Staff Reporter

With only a short time before election day, the 8th Congressional District race is gearing into high speed.

Republican incumbent Phil Crane and Democrat Lance Pressl are using these last days to remind voters of their respective positions.

Pressl is focusing on his stand on gun control, education and social security issues.

There is a press conference planned in Lake Zurich to discuss gun control laws.

Pressl argues that Crane is out of touch with the issue and has consistently voted against hand gun safety control.

Pressl will also be talking to seniors in the area about social security and Medicare reform.

Seniors "should not have to worry about Social Security and Medicare," said Pressl, who pointed out that The Older American Act should have been re-authorized in 1992 instead of being left languishing in Congress.

Crane, with more than 30 years in office, continues to fight for the elimination of the death tax and marriage tax penalty.

The congressman is especially concerned about the death tax for Lake County, where farmers are hit the hardest.

Crane is also focusing on the North Central double tracking bill. This bill will help improve traffic congestion in Lake County said Crane.

Congress is in session at the present time, but Crane expects to visit Lake County constituents before election day.

Link endorsed for second term

State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) is that rare Democrat who had solid experience in the private sector before running for public office. That experience has served him well as a first-term representative of the 30th Senatorial District that includes Waukegan, North Chicago schools, Lake Bluff-Lake Forest and Vernon Township.

Link hasn't forgotten that he grew up and was educated in Waukegan-North Chicago, working hard to "bring home" state grants for the schools and public works projects. He has a reputation in Springfield for being on the "right side" of health-related issues, property tax relief for senior citizens and the disabled, and funding child abuse prevention programs. He hasn't been afraid to challenge vested interests that are pushing the controversial extension of Rte. 53, a dubious transportation proposal that would desecrate the central Lake County environment. Where Link has stubbed his toe is in the assignment as Lake County Democratic chairman. That is to be expected and does not detract from his record as a conscientious and productive legislator.

Senator Link is opposed by Greg Kazarian, an attorney who resides in Lake Forest who is a new face in Republican politics. He has chosen a team role on the GOP ticket and has been unable to establish an individual identity. We endorse Link enthusiastically.

51st Representative District (Portions of Elia and Vernon townships in Lake County)—Despite impressive credentials in municipal affairs, State Rep. Sidney H. Mathias (R-Buffalo Grove) has worked more to advance himself in the GOP power structure than serving his district. His unabashed support for Rte. 53, while ignoring alternatives, is disappointing. Consequently, we'll take our chances with Barbara J. Nash, the Democrat nominee and a political unknown, who has demonstrated an awareness that there are options to Rte. 53 to improve south county gridlock. Nash is endorsed.

52nd Representative District (Barrington, Mundelein, Wauconda, Grayslake, Round Lake area, Fox Lake-Ingleside)—There's a reason State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Barrington) is running unopposed. The moderate Republican with a background in law and banking has done an excellent job representing the interests of a diverse district. He is especially strong in constituent service.

59th Representative District (Part of Libertyville Township, Lake Forest, Lake Bluff, North Chicago and south side of Waukegan)—First term State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) had a dazzling first term, taking high profile positions on hot-button issues, like traffic safety, that attract media attention. She is opposed by Cesilie Price of Lake Forest, who overcame breast cancer in 1992 to nurture two daughters and become an activist for quality education. Garrett has a problem disguising the fact that she's a tough partisan on party issues rather than the independent Democrat she portrays.

60th Representative District (Part of Vernon Township, Highland Park)—In this open seat, Republican Nancy Flouret, a real estate professional, is preferred over Democrat Karen May, a member of the Highland Park city council. Flouret offers promise of translating her civic service into positive legislative contributions, especially in the area of education, where she has uncommon expertise. We see her serving in the tradition of Virginia Fiester Frederick and Betty Lou Reed, two North Shore women who served their community and their party with distinction.

61st Representative District (Warren Township, parts of Libertyville and Waukegan townships)—The Democratic nominee, Geraldine Callan, is no match for incumbent State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville). Moore is an experienced legislator who is rising rapidly in House leadership ranks, capitalizing on her ability to bring together both disparate party members and Democrats willing to put citizen interest over party dictates. Moore gets things done. Callan has talked mostly about matters pertaining to unionized teachers.

Moore endorsed without reservation.

62nd Representative District (Antioch, Lake Villa and Newport townships plus Zion-Benton and the north side of Waukegan)—The incumbent, State Rep. Timothy H. Osmond (R-Antioch) is endorsed over businessman Spiro Georgeson, who switched parties to run for the Legislature. As a freshman, Osmond established a solid record as a lawmaker who does his homework. He has shown a particular interest in school problems, earning the honor from a high-ranking state official as "the Education Representative." Osmond, with his background in community service and grassroots government, is a prospect for higher office. As a successful insurance broker, he brings a non-lawyer perspective to state government that is sorely needed.

Crane, Kirk reflect voters

Lake County is covered by two Congressional districts that reflect surprisingly different political views. Western Lake County in the 8th Congressional District, which includes portions of northwest Cook County, has a heavy population of older, less affluent, decidedly conservative citizens. Eastern Lake County, which shares with Cook County the wealthy North Shore and a sector extending westward to Arlington Heights, is younger, better educated and more liberal on social and economic issues.

Both districts have been sending Republicans to Washington for many years, but Republicans of dissimilar views. Retiring Congressman John Porter carved out a highly regarded reputation as a moderate while serving in the 10th for two decades. He has passed the baton to a young attorney, Mark Steven Kirk, a Naval Reserve pilot who once served as an aide to Porter and embraces his fiscally conservative and socially moderate views. In the 8th, veteran Congressman Phil Crane, berated over the years by liberal media voices and Democratic opponents as "out of touch," has been sent to the Capitol for 31 years. This time the notable conservative is being challenged by Lance Pressl, who has held public and private sector policy positions. Pressl presents a candidacy that is diametrically opposite Crane on just about every conceivable public question.

In our view, the two districts are unchanged in their preferences and attitudes. The 8th and 10th will be best represented by Phil Crane and Mark Kirk, respectively, and we endorse them for election Nov. 7.

Almost astonishingly, Pressl has been conducting a strident and contentious campaign. With an abrasive manner, he has left no hot-button liberal position unpushed, and with rare exception, follows the national party line. In many ways, Pressl is a classic, old-style New Deal Democrat. Indeed, he is the "out of touch" candidate running in a conservative district that espouses the smaller federal government precepts and faith in individual initiatives that Crane has advanced throughout his entire career.

Crane has kept up with the times. He supports a Patient's Bill of Rights and is pushing for a prescription drug program that appeals to seniors. Crane stands for local control of education. He supports vouchers to give parents in failing school districts an opportunity to better their child's education. The veteran Republican wants to privatize a portion of Social Security to guarantee its future viability.

Phil Crane speaks out against the intrusions of Big Brother while Pressl views the Nanny State as necessary to solve a wide variety of societal ills. Crane has a firm grip on reality. He offers voters in his district the opportunity to elect a future House Ways and Means chairman if the GOP prevails Nov. 7. Thus, 8th District voters have the added distinction of influencing U.S. tax policy.

As the campaign draws to a close, the Gash-Kirk clash has taken on harsh tones, possibly because they are so close on social issues like women's choice and ways to control violence, especially gun control. Gash has focused on her three-term legislative experience and independence, despite relying on support of tried and true Democratic strategists to direct her race.

Kirk has stressed aims for constituent service and solutions to local problems such as cleaning up Waukegan harbor and providing for safe removal of nuclear waste from the Zion power plant. This has broadened his appeal while addressing popular issues like Social Security reform and providing for senior citizens. His military service gives him a clear edge on national security questions which may or may not be a plus in a district becoming increasingly liberal and Democratic, two mindsets that do not embrace the military. Kirk has a running start on dealing with complex issues in Washington. His campaign pronouncements indicate knowledge, conviction and maturity, all qualities desirable for a congressman.

The Kirk-Gash clash boils down to a test of who is more moderate and middle of the road. The decision could rest with voters in the 10th district asking themselves whether they prefer Speaker Dennis Hastert, as Kirk would support, or elevating radically liberal Rep. Richard Gephardt for Speaker as Gash undoubtedly would.

Lake County citizens want to be comfortable with their representative in Congress. Voters want the trust that their personal philosophies about what's best for the nation will be expressed. Phil Crane and Mark Kirk will best represent their districts and should be elected.

Incumbents rate advantage

There are three contests on the Nov. 7 ballot to fill eight seats on the Lake County Board up for election.

District 3 (Lake Villa Township)—Republican incumbent Suzi Schmidt unopposed.

District 4 (Zion-Benton)—Open seat. Democrat Ronald L. Molinaro III, who has experience in municipal government, is running against Republican Brent C. Paxton, who has followed a family tradition of community service. Paxton is preferred.

District 5 (Fox Lake-Ingleside/Wauconda)—Republican incumbent Bonnie Thomson Carter unopposed.

District 6 (Round Lake area, portions of Grayslake)—On experience alone, Republican incumbent Lawrence W. (Larry) Leafblad far and away is the choice over Kenneth E. Schnur Sr., slated by the Democrats when no primary candidate filed. But Leafblad has not been merely holding a seat. For more than a decade, he has aggressively strived to preserve and protect open space, and enact policies to provide for sensible, controlled growth. His independence and outspokenness put him at odds with past GOP leaders who favored development at all costs. Today, though, Leafblad's views have been embraced by the majority. He has come into his own as chairman of the influential Planning, Building and Zoning Committee. Voters in his district and residents of Lake County as a whole have much to gain by re-electing Leafblad. He is endorsed strongly.

District 13 (Libertyville)—Jack Cervac, the Democrat slated candidate, approaches government from a blue collar, populist viewpoint, often speaking out sincerely and forcefully. If elected, he would be a lone voice. Incumbent Republican

John E. Schulien is experienced and politically astute. Schulien wisely has shifted his position on growth and development, which continues to be the overriding issue in county government. We think he can be effective as he has been in the past. Schulien is endorsed.

District 17 (Barrington)—Steven Mountsier, an incumbent and a Republican, is unopposed.

District 19 (Lake Zurich, Long Grove)—Michael S. Talbott, winner of a hard-fought Republican primary battle where he defeated a popular veteran, is running unopposed. Talbott, an attorney and Lake Zurich village trustee, is expected to be a force in county government in tune with the prevailing attitude for protecting of the environment and controlling growth.

District 22 (Deerfield, Highland Park)—Incumbent Democrat Carol Spielman is unopposed.

Recorder: match of equals

Perhaps never before in modern Lake County political history has there been an election contest offering two equally qualified people than the 2000 election for Lake County Recorder. Voters will never find two more decent, dedicated and hard-working candidates.

Because of her incumbency, Mary Ellen Vanderventer has a natural advantage. In her first term, Vanderventer introduced new electronics and updated methods to process the back-breaking work load brought on by Lake County's growth. She continued the tradition of her predecessor for friendly, helpful service. Vanderventer happens to be the only Democrat currently holding county-wide office.

Her challenger, Tom Adams, is unequaled in his involvement and contributions to the betterment of Lake County. Even during his working days as an executive with a national insurance company headquartered in Lake Forest and service as mayor of the Village of Green Oaks, Adams was involved with nearly a dozen business, civic and service organizations, always demonstrating his capacity for leadership. He has been a loyal Republican, a true toiler in the political vineyard.

Once again Adams has responded cheerfully to his party's call to take on the daunting task of challenging a popular, entrenched and respected Democrat. This is a contest where voters win no matter how they mark their ballots.

Circuit Court Clerk—Republican incumbent Sally Deadrick Coffelt, a veteran in the office, is opposed by Mary "Margo" Nelson, a newcomer in politics, although she has been employed by the county for 35 years. Nelson offers some interesting, although not compelling ways, for change in the way the clerk's office operates. Coffelt continues to handle an administrative post capably and efficiently. She has a record of achievement and is endorsed for re-election.

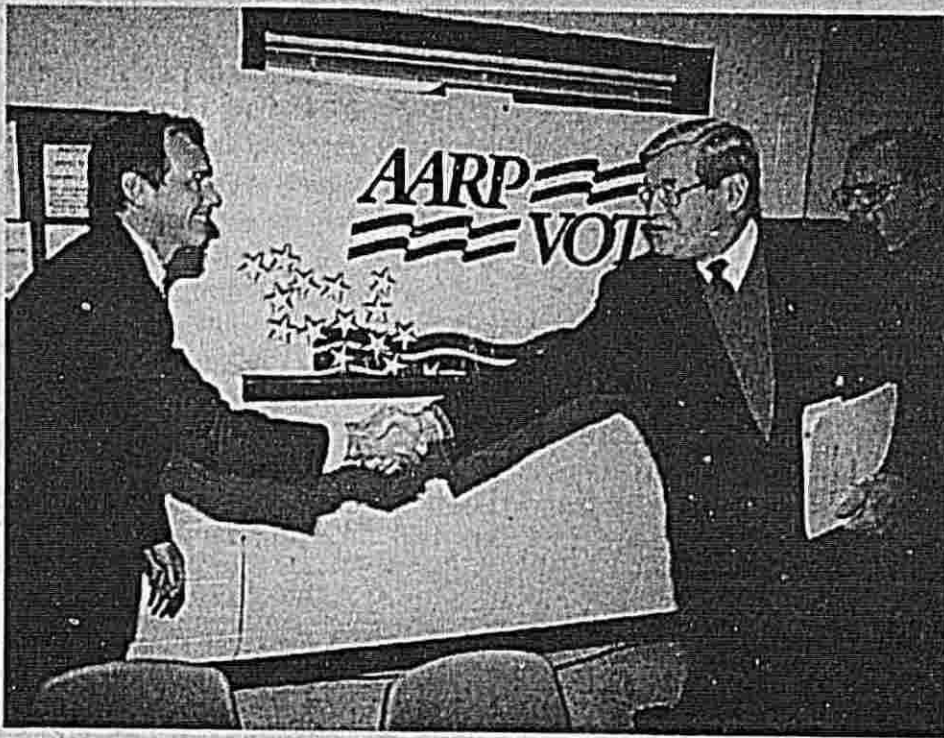

Coroner—Republican incumbent Barbara E. Richardson is running for re-election unopposed.

State's Attorney—Republican incumbent Michael J. Waller is running for re-election unopposed.

Bill Schroeder did not write a column for this issue. Viewpoint will be resumed next week.

PARTY LINES

is not the first time Crane and Pressl have met. This hand-shaking image of young Congressman Crane and student council president Pressl was immortalized in the 1974 Rolling Meadows High School year book.—Photo by Sandy Bressner

Pressl's pledge results in surprise

By running for Congress, Lance Pressl is fulfilling a pledge he made to himself in 1974 as a student at Rolling Meadows High School. He made the pledge after meeting Congressman Phil Crane at a student government event.

Now he jokes that he never dreamed his opponent will be the same politician he shook hands with so many years ago.

Ever on the attack, Pressl claims his opponent still uses the same campaign photo he employed in his first runs for office. Pressl, by the way, was the student council president.

Pac organizes

John Cox, unsuccessful candidate for a nomination for Congress in the 10th District, has started a political action committee called Empower U.S. The committee will help elect candidates who support pro-growth economic policies, less government spending, fewer regulations and a flat tax.

Empower U.S. also stands for elimination of the marriage tax penalty and the death tax. First public event of the new organization was Tuesday, Oct. 17 in Chicago where guests included Congressmen Henry Hyde and Phil Crane. Mark Kirk, who defeated Cox for the 10th District nomination, also was expected to be present.

Helander honored

County Clerk Willard Helander has been awarded the "Most Innovative Technology" award by the International Assn. of Clerks, Records, Election Officials and Treasurers. The award is in recognition of a voter street conversion which allows the clerk's office to overlay taxing district maps with voter code lines. Lake County has 100,000 more voters today than in 1991.

No more doctor

Now that he has given up dentistry,

John Schullen can use his political titles without interference with his medical background. The County Board representative from Libertyville, who has taken over the directorship of the Kiley Center for mentally handicapped youths in Waukegan, will be saluted Monday, Oct. 30, at a reception at Mickey Finn's, Libertyville. He is running for re-election.

Going to breakfast

A group of west Lake County Township officials will be breakfast guests of three state legislators in Springfield Nov. 14 during a convention of the Township Officials of Illinois. Popping for scrambled eggs will be State Sen. Bill Peterson (R-Long Grove), State Rep. Sid Matthias (R-Buffalo Grove) and State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Barrington). For Matthias and Beaubien, the gathering will also be a celebration. They're expected to sail to victory Nov. 7.

Pfarr-fetched thoughts on life

Notes and quotes, and quips and keepers, that might have fallen through the cracks and been lost forever if a columnist didn't clean off his Bermuda Triangle of a desk once in a while:

Recently, I lamented the long, summer heat wave and drought in the state of Texas, where scorching temperatures over 100 degrees stayed for weeks at a time.

But here in Lakeland, Illinois, we had our best summer weather in memory, the mercury sashaying from the 60s at night to the 80s by day. Never once did it get anywhere near unbearably hot.

And while popular T-shirts and bumper stickers in the Lone Star State brag: "Texas, Heaven on Earth," I have come up with a more fitting slogan:

"Texas, Oven on Earth."

Cat-food danger

The news has been bad lately about a certain brand of tires on sport-utility vehicles. And I have discovered another danger, lurking in two new types of 5.5-ounce tins of popular cat foods: Whiskas, manufactured by Kal Kan Foods of California, and 9 Lives, by Heinz Pet Products of Kentucky (whose mascot is that famous old orange cat, Morris).

On the top of 9 Lives cans are directions for opening: "Lift tab to break seal" and "pull tab back slowly." But sometimes the lids don't lift easily and, if yanked off, their razor-like edges can be hazardous. My wife Janice suffered a nasty hand cut.

The new-type Whiskas lids, also introduced just recently, sometimes won't come off without a yank. They, too, have jagged edges. My cats and I have switched to other brands and wonder how many other pet-food shoppers are doing likewise.

Through the years I have been owned by countless cats, so I am sort of an expert on this subject.

The 9 Lives lids also issue the warning: "Caution, sharp edges." Caution, sharp edges? Then why not go back to a safer type of lid? Feeding the family cat sometimes can be the children's chore. They, even more than adults, shouldn't be faced with this danger.

THE PFARR CORNER

People Crackers?

On a lighter note, in the same supermarket checkout lane we find that treats for dogs include "People Crackers" in the shape of mailmen and policemen, "the people dogs love to eat!"

I guess there's some humor in that if you're not a letter carrier or a cop.

Quotable quotes

From Jeb Bush, the governor of Florida: "A painful thing for me, and also for my brother George (the governor of Texas), is to see comparisons with my dad in which a compliment is given to one of us saying, 'Well, he's better.' As far as I'm concerned, my dad is as close to perfection as a human being can be."

And from Monica Lewinsky, on her troubles meeting men:

"Can you imagine having to introduce Monica Lewinsky to your family?"

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Father sentenced for sex abuse of own children

Lake Villa—David J. Kraft, 30, formerly of Lake Villa and Round Lake Beach, was sentenced to 22 years in prison after pleading guilty to aggravated criminal sexual assault against two of his three children.

Kraft will serve the sentence concurrently with a previous 15-year sentence for the sexual abuse of an 11-year-old female relative. Kraft, who suffers from Marfan's Disease, a hereditary condition affecting growth and internal organs, has a life expectancy of under 40 years of age, and is not likely to live out his sentence.

Health Dept. inspects school

Round Lake—The Lake County Health Department has inspected W.J. Murphy Elementary after school officials heard numerous concerns from parents about mold growing in the fifth grade classrooms.

Colin Thacker of the Lake County Health Department has issued a report stating that the problems in the classrooms were caused more by dirt and debris than by mold.

Spokeswoman for the Lake County Health Department, Leslie Piotrowski, said, summarizing Thacker's report, "He feels it's more of a maintenance problem in the school. The ventilation system is very bad. There's a lot of dust."

Strong convicted of murder

Wadsworth—Jason Strong, a 25-year-old Wadsworth man charged with the murder of a unidentified woman, was convicted of the charge in Lake County Court.

Strong, 24, was on trial for first degree murder and concealing the homicide of the unidentified woman, whose body was found at Greenbelt Forest Preserve on Dec. 9. The subject could face 20 years to life in prison.

Grant, county voters face polling place changes

Grant Township—Hundreds of Grant Township voters will have to find different polling places on Nov. 7.

A total of six precincts locations have been changed according to the Lake County Voters Guide. These are some of the more than a dozen changes made throughout the county for various reasons.

"We send out new identification cards as reminders, and postcards, and they are in the Voters Guide. Because people sometimes do not read their mail, signs are also posted at the old precinct place," Lake County Clerk Willard Helander said.

Tollway and village make exit safer

Gurnee—After a cooperative effort by the Village of Gurnee, State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) and the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority, positive changes in transportation safety will be coming to the I-94/Grand Ave. exit.

The first safety improvement is permanent electronic signage that will warn motorists when traffic is slowing near the exit ramp.

The tollway authority will also convert the existing shoulder on the right hand side into a permanent exit lane. A one quarter mile stretch of the shoulder is slated to be redeveloped into an exit lane.

School to keep Brainerd

Libertyville—Despite a letter of inquiry from the Cook Memorial Library District, Libertyville High School District 128 made it clear that Brainerd School is not for sale.

Board President Dennis Ryan said that there are many advantages to keeping the school. Specifically, the athletic fields and gym currently are used 6 days a week, the building offers 18 classrooms that could be used in an emergency and the building could serve as a home for many community groups and Park and Recreation programs.

Land bought for post office

Grayslake—A bigger and better post office facility is on the horizon for Grayslake residents.

The 7.15 acres of land purchased for the new facility is along Commerce Dr., southeast of the Piggly Wiggly on Center St. The purchase price for the land was $3.50 per square foot, totaling $1,090,089.

SEMINAR

Dr. Gary Smit, Superintendent of Schools, spoke of the principals of the Character Counts program. Smit says role models are an important factor in character development of youths and that "character is a way of life". Smit's message was that the entire community needs to be involved to achieve results.

"We may not be able to make the world safe for our children but we can make our children safe for the world," said the superintendent.

Mundelein Mayor Marilyn Sindles also supported having youth issues be a community effort.

Sindle said Mundelein has achieved a successful community policing program with proactive methods.

Currently there is a DARE program, CAPE and GREAT program working to help the area's youth.

Mundelein was one of the first communities to have a parental responsibility ordinance. Since 1995 Mundelein has made police officers available to the high school campus. Having an officer present on the school grounds has helped students relate to the police in a positive manner, said the mayor.

Sindles feels these programs were instrumental in the community's drop in crime last year. In 1999 Mundelein experienced a 22 percent decrease in their crime rate, a 21 percent drug use down turn among high school offenders and a 34 percent decrease in drug use among junior high students.

"I am here to tell you that community oriented government really works," said Sindles.

Secretary of State Jesse White also addressed the audience saying children and young adults should be taught to think of the consequences of their actions and to be mindful of who they spend their time with.

White was appreciative of the efforts of the task force and their contribution to Lake County.

"We have to pursue until we win" over violence, he said.

A roundtable session was held after the seminar.

WOOD

first year. The fund was named after deceased State Sen. Penny Severns.

"There was no risk in my families. I was already in the state legislature, and 1000,000 people, three children and a husband counted on me. I was determined to push it out of my body. I wanted to make health care issues and insurance a priority," Wood said.

Wood told students how her career traversed from law to politics, talking before two government courses. Wood is proud of her record as the freshman legislator with the most bills passed. "It is somewhat like high school, when seniors avoid freshmen," she joked.

"I am proud of a bill I sponsored for graduated drivers licenses for younger drivers at risk. It requires more time behind the wheel, and penalties that other states have."

Wood did not set out to be a politician, though. She graduated Phi Beta Kappa from University of Illinois and Loyola University School of Law. She was named general counselor to the Illinois Commission of Banks and Trusts, a state agency. After a few months on the job, she was general counselor after a veteran lawyer retired. She later worked for a Chicago law firm, Hopkins and Sutter, and gained experience crafting legislation.

"I did not decide to get into elected office until six years ago. I picked up a phone and called Lynn Martin's campaign, who was running for U.S. Senate. I get involved and worked with women like Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) and Virginia Fiester Frederick. As Lt. Gov., I got involved in women's health, the economy, and developed Main St. programs," she said.

She urged students to "follow their dreams" and to get involved in the political process.

"When I took a sabbatical from the law firm, I became active in my community, passing petitions for a school referendum. I found we could give back to the community. I loved working in the legislature, and translating my local efforts to a broader level," she said.

She described the process of how she rose through the ranks in Gov. George Ryan's search for a No. 2 ticket mate in 1998. "I received a questionnaire in the mail. It was a rigorous process. I made all the cuts. It was a challenging part of my life, as I was diagnosed with breast cancer and going through chemotherapy," she said.

She visited all 102 counties in the campaign and then in January, she became the first woman lieutenant governor.

"I have known her for a number of years. She is the best lieutenant governor because she cares about people. She has had many trials and tribulations in her life. I hope she will become governor," Geo-Karis said.

The inevitable question came up regarding Wood's political future. "Right now, I am just trying to be the best lieutenant governor I can," she said.

The tasks for the mother of three include areas as diverse as a women's health care TV talk show to natural resources protection with the Illinois Rivers project to economic and community development with Main Street and Illinois Rural Bond Bank.

Wood has been seen frequently in Lake and Cook counties these days. "This is my old hunting ground. I love coming back and seeing the changes," she said.

UNIVERSITY

Tuohy said he is pleased the university selected this site because of its convenience and the ease of reaching it from all over Lake County.

"Students at the university will discuss real issues and seek real solutions with people who know children and know schools. Their own teaching classroom becomes the focus of study and research as they apply what they have learned to everyday realities," Bozzelli said.

University officials noted at National-Louis, teachers studying there "find a professional community that understands the hurdles teachers face and share in their search for answers."

"This interdisciplinary Master's degree is about process; it's not just a diploma," Bozzelli added. "The process of exploration and discovery is more than just an enhancement of what teachers know; it is a fundamental change in who you are. In this program, teachers will confront a new level of awareness, of education, of learners, of themselves, and transform their understanding of what it means to be a teacher."

For more information call Debbie Reuter of National-Louis toll free at 800/443-5522, extension 5467 or for directions to the open house call 847/473-3500. Detailed information about this full degree program and possible future instruction for teachers will be available at the open house.

Magnetic bracelets attract attention this holiday season

As cooler weather approaches and snow shovels and ice scrapers come out of summer hibernation, many people can literally feel the coming chill in their bones and joints. The weather, along with the stress of the holiday season, can cause stiff joints to be even more sore, making it difficult to get that long list of holiday chores complete. But sufferers of such symptoms now have an alternative option that may help alleviate aggravating pain. Magnet therapy offers a new option of treatment that many people say has helped ease their aches and pains. It's a form of therapy that has been used for thousands of years around the world - and is still being used today.

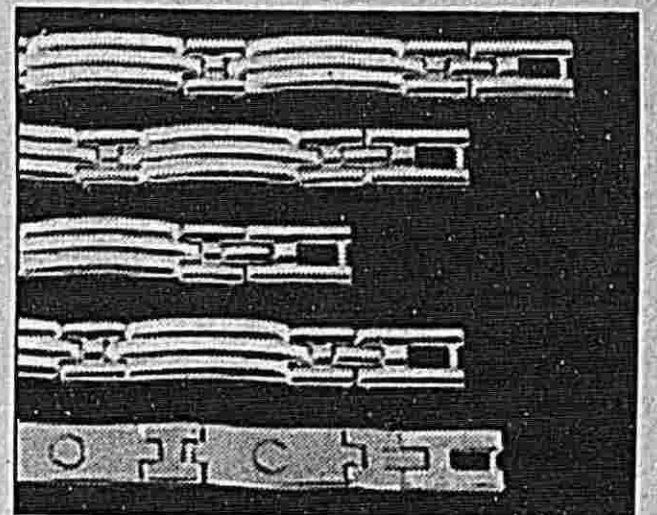

One of the earliest records of humans using the healing qualities of magnets comes from the 11th Century B.C., when the great Aristotle documented his findings on the healing effects of magnets. The fascination with magnets continued into the 1600's when William Gilbert, Queen Elizabeth's doctor, wrote an entire book devoted to the qualities of magnets. Centuries have since passed, but the belief some have in the healing powers of magnets remains.

Sabona of London, the leader in manufacturing and selling of copper and copper magnetic wristbands, is taking advantage of this trend by introducing a new line of magnetic bracelets, the Executive Series. The new line of jewelry not only possesses an attractive and traditional style, but contains a set of magnets that many believe can help relieve the pain of stiff and sore joints. The magnetic theory revolves around the premise that magnets affect the circulatory system and the blood flow in the body. The increased circulation gives the body more of the nutrients it needs from the blood.

The new line of bracelets for men and women are linked pieces plated in gold, silver, or both metals, with a magnet in each link that purports to restore electro-magnetic balance to human cells. This therapy, now known as bioelectromagnetic therapy is believed to be a way of accessing the body's own electric and magnetic fields through points on the skin.

Some researchers believe that certain types of illnesses are associated with imbalances in the body's biological and magnetic fields. Products such as the Executive Series bracelets are aimed at treating conditions such as joint and muscle pain. Some joint pain is caused by similar, repeated movements of a joint. Golfers, who often experience this kind of pain due to the repetitive motion of their swing, have turned to Sabona in hopes of finding relief from their symptoms. The Executive Series, which was introduced at the International PGA show in Las Vegas, has been a popular choice. Pro golfer Justin Leonard, who began wearing a Sabona copper bracelet after sustaining an injury, has found relief from Sabona's jewelry. "I have worn a Sabona for several years and I believe that it has helped me," Leonard said. While consulting with your doctor is the best way to begin treating stiff and sore joints and aches and pains, magnetic bracelets may of-

Important: Copper wristbands and magnetic products are considered to be unproven remedies. Magnetic products should not be worn next to a watch. Do not use magnet products during pregnancy or if you have an electrical implant such as a pacemaker. Consult with your doctor if you have any questions and continue with regular medical care. Dr. Sylvia Rimm to discuss "Raising Happy Disciplined Children"

Sylvia Rimm, Ph.D., a psychologist whose practical advice guides parents around the country, will speak at the College of Lake County in Grayslake, Wednesday, November 15, at 7 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Child Care Coalition of Lake County.

Part of the Coalition's parent education series, the discussion will center on "Strategies for Raising Happy, Disciplined Children." Parents who attended the Coalition's fall 1999 presentation by Berry Brazelton, M.D. said that discipline was their major concern.

Rimm is host of the call-in program, "Family Talk with Sylvia Rimm" on public radio and appears regularly in the series, "Raising Kids Today" on NBC's "Today" show and on "Weekend Today."

"See Jane Win: The Rimm Report on How 1,000 Girls Became Successful Women", Rimm's newest book, was a "New York Times" best seller. She also writes a syndicated newspaper column and is the author of "Why Bright Kids Get Poor Grades", "Raising Preschoolers", "How To Parent So Children Can Learn" and "Keys to Parenting the Gifted Child."

Rimm directs the Family Achievement Clinic at the Cleveland Clinics in Ohio and is a clinical professor of psychiatry at Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine.

On Thursday, November 16, Rimm will be keynote speaker at an all-day professional development seminar at the Country Squire in Grayslake. Pre-registration is required.

Tickets for the lecture are $10 before November 1 and $15 after that date. For lecture tickets or to register for the seminar, call 604-4405. Information also is available at www.childcarecoalition.org.

Advice for a parent on appropriate haunts!

Dear Dr. Singer,

I have 2 kids. One of them is 9 and one is 13. I'm wondering if you think it's o.k. to have them go to one of those haunted houses. I hear that the one they want to go to is pretty realistic and has some pretty scary effects. Have you had any experience with these type of attractions and was it good or bad. What do you think? G.T.

Dear G.T.,

I have intimate experience with those haunted houses and had the life scared out of me in a funny way, as an adult, in one of them, a few years ago. I also got semi-injured in one of them a few years later. First the funny story: My boyfriend (who is now my husband) and his sister and her boyfriend coaxed me into going to one of the major haunted house attractions. This attraction still exists, but it has gotten much bigger since the time we went. Just so you know ahead of time, my view of a safe and comfortable haunted house is the one at Disney World. Anything else pales by comparison. At any rate, going through this place was bad enough. I kept wanting to go back but my now sister-in-law was behind me and wouldn't let me. Of course, they were all having fun with my fear.

When we came to the last room, I noticed it was a long tented room with hay on the ground. I couldn't immediately see what the scary part was in there until I heard a chain saw get revved up in the far corner.

The main problem was that the exit door was right past this person holding the chain saw. He also happened to be wearing a hockey mask like, "Jason" in "Friday the 13th." I put my foot down and reared back into my now sister-in-law and exclaimed aloud, "NO WAY!" Well, of course, this became a challenge for the crowd behind me and the guy with the chain saw. I'm sure that under his mask, he was just getting such a kick out of this, but I was scared! Anyway, they pushed me toward the exit and the man with the chain saw ran at me and ended up chasing me out of the tent and all the way across the parking lot. This, of course, happened with the entire line of people waiting to go in, in clear view! I was the attraction of the evening. We laughed about it, but I have to say that even though I was an adult, this stuff brought out the kid in me too and I was terrified for a good portion of it.

Now the really scary story: Again, I was forced to go to another one of those places. This time, it was very dark and they were rushing us from room to room. People were jumping out of closets with axes, etc. Well, on one of the rushed runs from room to room, there was a wall sticking out half way where no one could really see it. Someone behind me rushed me right into that wall with my right eye. I saw stars and almost was knocked out. My friend grabbed my belt loop and kept me upright so I could feel my way out. The really scary thing was that if she would not have been aware of this, I could have really been in

Condell Medical Center Auxiliary's Gala to 'Share Dreams'

Through the years, the Condell Benefit Gala, conducted by the Auxiliary of Condell Medical Center, has raised money to provide much-needed equipment and facilities to help the hospital continue its commitment to deliver quality medical services to the residents of Lake County. This year's Gala will begin at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 4, at Twin Orchard Country Club in Long Grove.

This year's Gala, the 9th Annual, is no exception. Chaired by Dr. Howard and Debra Baker, the black tie dinner-dance, themed "Share Our Dreams," will raise funds for the Condell Day Center for Intergenerational Care, where elders from the community, more than half of whom have dementia and require various levels of help, spend a full day engaged in planned activities. One of the activities is the mingling of children who attend the Day Center with the seniors, allowing them to learn and share together. Funds also will be donated to PACT (Pediatric Alternatives in Creative Therapy), a medical support service for children with neuromuscular disorders.

Funds will be raised through a live auction, a silent auction, underwriting and donations. The auction's hottest item is a seven-day stay at a two-bedroom condo in Maui. Football fans will want to bid on a day for four to watch the Chicago Bears practice at their Platteville, Wisc. training camp. For movie fans, actor Kirk Douglas has sent a couple of autograph books. Other items include American Airlines tickets to anywhere in the United States, a woman's shearling lamb coat, a Waterford crystal lamp and vase, personal training, a Brunswick men's mountain bike and a Palm Pilot organizer.

Gala attendees will dance to the music of the popular band, Ajacks. Tickets are $185 per person. For more information, call 362-2905, ext. 5440.

Condell Medical Center is a member of Condell Health network. Serving Lake County residents, Condell Health Network includes Condell medical center, Condell Acute Care Centers, Centre Club, the innovative Condell Day Center for Intergenerational Care, Pediatric Alternatives in Creative Therapy, Condell Professional Buildings and Condell Home Health Systems.

American Heart Association dietary recommendations dish out a more individualized approach

The American Heart Association today unveiled its new dietary guidelines, which have been expanded to include specific recommendations tailored to an individual's risk of heart disease and stroke.

The guidelines, based on an analysis of hundreds of studies, will be published in the Oct. 31 issue of Circulation, journal of the American Heart Association.

Ronald M. Krauss, M.D., the principal author of the guidelines and a senior scientist at the Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory at the University of California, says the four main goals of the new guidelines are to help Americans achieve an overall health eating pattern; achieve and maintain an appropriate body weight; achieve and maintain a desirable cholesterol profile, and achieve and maintain a desirable blood pressure level. Guidelines are food, not percentage based

For the first time, the guidelines stress the importance of preventing obesity and are easier to use because they stress overall eating patterns, rather than a percentage of dietary fat or other nutrients.

"We are emphasizing the positive message of what people should eat — for example, more plant-based foods," says Krauss. "In the past we have focused rather heavily on the percent of calories as fat and amounts of cholesterol. There are still important considerations, but the emphasis has shifted to allow consumers to understand the importance of an overall eating plan."

"Americans still need to limit saturated fats and cholesterol, but if they follow the new dietary guidelines, they will be consuming a balanced diet rich in nutrients, and may not need to calculate percentages or amounts of specific dietary components," he adds.

"When people eat out, it's hard to think about what percentage of the dinner comes from saturated fat. It's much easier to think about the various food groups."

Varied diet full of fruits, vegetables, grains and fish

A diet rich in fruits, vegetables, legumes (beans), whole grains, low-fat dairy products, fish, lean meats and poultry is still the basis of the recommendations. The association continues to recommend eating five servings of fruits and vegetables and six servings of grains daily. But, for the first time, two weekly servings of fatty fish, such as tuna or salmon are recommended.

The association recommends that healthy adults minimize the intake of foods containing high levels of saturated fats (found in animal products and tropical oils) and substantially reduce the intake of trans fatty acids (the hydrogenated oil found in commercially prepared foods and some hard margarines). For individuals with risk factors for heart disease or existent heart disease, a further reduction in saturated fat intake is recommended. The Food and Drug Administration is considering the labeling of foods for trans fatty acids.

The recommended intakes of salt (less than 6 grams per day, or 2,400 mg of sodium) and dietary cholesterol (300 mg/day for healthy individuals and 200 mg per day in high-risk individuals) remain unchanged. If an individual chooses to consume alcohol, the limit should be one drink a day for women and two drinks a day for men. People who do not normally drink alcohol should not begin drinking. The association still recommends that individuals get their nutrients from foods, not supplements.

Diet helps prevent weight gain, obesity

"Americans are eating too many calories, and are not getting much nutritional value from those calories," says Krauss. "Although the guidelines were developed to reduce or delay heart disease and stroke, Americans who follow them could reap many other benefits. Research indicates these nutritional steps could also decrease the risk of developing cancer or osteoporosis."

For obese individuals, the guidelines recommend a gradual weight loss of no more than one to two pounds per week. "Simply put, to lose weight, you must eat fewer calories than you burn and increase physical activity, such as brisk walking, to at least 30 minutes daily."

In addition, people consume many foods that are not "nutrient dense" which often have a lot of added sugars in them — for example sugary soft drinks and commercially baked goods.

"It is best if people reduce their caloric intake by following our guidelines for healthy adults — a diet rich in fruits, vegetables, low-fat dairy products and leaner cuts of meat eating in smaller portions," says Krauss.

Given the difficulty many people — especially those between 25 and 45 years — experience in trying to maintain a weight loss over time, the guidelines recommend efforts to prevent weight gain in the first place. Targeting high risk populations

The guidelines offer a framework to assist health care providers in tailoring specific medical nutrition therapy to meet the needs of individuals with high blood pressure, cholesterol disorders, diabetes, insulin resistance, high triglycerides, congestive heart failure, kidney disease and/or obesity.

"For individuals with high blood pressure, losing just 5 percent to 10 percent of body weight is possible for many overweight individuals, and that modest amount of weight loss can significantly improve blood pressure," says Krauss. "In addition, consuming a diet rich in fruits, vegetables, low-fat dairy products and limiting salt and alcohol has been shown in a large study to have major benefits in controlling blood pressure levels."

For individuals diagnosed with the syndrome, it may be desirable to avoid very low-fat, high carbohydrate diets and to emphasize unsaturated fats, such as vegetable oils and seed oils, rather than carbohydrates. Very low-fat diets (less than 15-20 percent of total calories from fat) with correspondingly high carbohydrate content can lower "good" cholesterol.

The guidelines also weight in on high protein and other popular diet strategies and note areas of study that need greater emphasis. For example, there is little scientific evidence to support the concepts that high protein diets result in significant changes in metabolism, sustained weight loss or improved health.

trouble. I could have passed out and been trampled. People might have thought I was just one of the attractions in the place. I ended up with a huge shiner. The funny part was that after this happened, they sat me down in a back area where all the theatrical stuff was being done including makeup. A man painted as a zombie, with bruises all over him, came up to me and looked at my eye and said, "Looks like you're having the same kind of day I am!" We all chuckled while my eye throbbled!

I think you need to be somewhat careful. Sometimes kids can handle more than we can when it comes to this stuff. They love to get scared. I used to love to be scared. The older I get the less I like to be scared. Even if they love to be scared, you still need to be sure that it is o.k. for them. Maybe go through it yourself first and see what it's like before you send your kids in. There are some good ones and some that are not so good. You really need to be the final judge of that for yourself. Your kids seem to be old enough to be able to tell the difference between real and make-believe, however you know your kids better than I do. If they get scared by movies and can't go to sleep at night, these places are probably not the ideal place for your kids.

Heart fair takes health to heart

When is the best time to learn about heart disease? Before it damages your heart. Over a quarter million Americans won't have that chance this year. According to statistics, they'll die of a heart attack without any prior warning signs or symptoms.

But that doesn't have to happen. Now, there are tests to help identify if a person is developing heart disease years before it results in a heart attack. In addition, people can take steps to reduce the chances of developing heart disease.

The staff of the Victory Surgery and Treatment Center (Lindenhurst) invite interested area residents to a "Heart Health Fair" to learn about the latest test for determining heart disease and to discover how to keep their hearts healthy. The fair will be held from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, November 4, at the center, 1050 Red Oak Lane on the Victory Lakes campus off Grand Avenue, Lindenhurst.

Included will be free screenings, informational presentations and heart healthy information. There will be free gifts for all who attend and drawings for door prizes including the chance to win a free Heart Smart Test to help identify the presence of calcium build up in the heart, a symptom of heart disease.

To register to attend the Victory Surgery and Treatment Center's "Heart Health Fair", call 1-888-869-1118.

Finding the right living situation for ailing seniors not an easy decision

Did you know more than 40,000 Americans search for information on senior living facilities each day? Given that by 2015, 45 percent of the entire U.S. population will be seniors, it is no surprise that more and more adults have growing concerns about the future of their loved ones and themselves.

Finding long-term care for seniors can be an overwhelming and complex task for everyone involved. Family members often feel frustrated and wrought with guilt. Seniors often resist change for fear they are losing their independence.

Ted Tanase knows these feelings first hand. He and his family were given 72 hours to find the right type of senior living facility for his ailing sister. Trying to locate information about facilities and care was a daunting task, as it was scattered, incomplete or non-descript.

Tanase wasn't certain what type of facility his sister required or what level of care she would need. "People don't want to think about it until they're forced to," states Tanase. However, thanks to Tanase, the tide may be changing. As a result of his own experience, Tanase founded TotalLivingChoices.com (www.TLChoices.com), a new free Internet-based service that helps seniors and their families research and identify the appropriate senior living facility no matter where they live or what types of services or amenities the senior requires.

Here's how the service works: users fill out a confidential questionnaire that gathers the senior's personal information including:

- Level of healthcare needed
- Diet preferences
- Costs
- Amenities
- Language requirements

Using this information, TLChoices searches its database to generate a list of facilities that most closely match the senior's personal needs.

To provide additional insight to facilities that match a user's personal criteria, the service offers an objective five-star rating system measuring the overall quality, breadth of services and amenities.

TLChoices also provides users with a free checklist detailing what to look for in making a decision about a facility. "There are things that you should be looking for when touring a potential new home for your parent or grandparent -- staff interaction, activities and food," says Tanase. The free checklist can be downloaded at www.TLChoices.com/checklist.

In addition to providing personalized matching services, the Web site provides information for seniors who want to continue living in their own homes, but may need to make some lifestyle adjustments.

While making these important decisions will never be easy, Tanase hopes TLChoices will reduce some of the confusion and fear that he and his family faced.

If You Are Between 50-85 Years Old, You Could Lose Your Life Savings If You Need Home Health Care Or Nursing Home Care In Your Golden Years! FREE Report Reveals Little Known Secrets To Protect Yourself!

These are the secrets your lawyer, accountant or financial advisor have probably never told you. If you are between 50-85 years old, you MUST read this Free Report. It's a fact:

- 1 out of every 2 people 65 and over will need Long Term Health Care.
- Medicare and other health care providers pay ONLY 3% of long-term care costs.
- The average American couple will have their entire savings wiped out in as little as 13 weeks of having one spouse confined in a nursing home.

You could lose your independence and be forced to rely on children for care and support, or on Welfare! And the only way to get Welfare is to go through all your assets first, then enter a government-financed nursing home with no private rooms and often understaffed. We have prepared a FREE Report that reveals little-known secrets to protect everything you worked so hard to build, how to keep your independence and, most important, how to keep your dignity.

Painted Lakes in Lake Villa offers choice, space, value and liveability

By CHRIS LARKIN

Homebuyers who tire of interchangeable, imposing and inefficient home plans are surprised by the choices at Painted Lakes, a development in Lake Villa built by Kennedy Homes. There, the homebuyer hears phrases like "compelling value" and "more square feet for less money".

Kennedy Homes' Janay Graves describes compelling value as a method of giving the customer control of the finished product by reusing space more efficiently, and setting a goal of building each house with 500 more square feet for the same price.

According to Graves, the key to Kennedy Homes achieving its goal is the Kennedy Homes Design Center. All components of Kennedy Homes—such as appliances, cabinets, countertops, floor covering, siding, windows, and garage doors—are on display just as they would appear in the new home. This innovation allows customers to inspect every fixture, standard feature, option and upgrade and determine for themselves what appeals to them.

Says Graves, "Why should a customer be forced to choose a whole options package if they don't like a particular faucet? A lot of developers include the cost of fireplace in their homes because they know that, on average, 70 percent of customers want them—but what about the other 30 percent? Why pay for what you don't want?"

Kennedy Homes allows customers to pick and choose what features and options they'd prefer.

Another added value of Kennedy Homes at Painted Lakes is the reuse of otherwise wasted space. Where many builders design homes to have imposing and showy foyers and entryways, Kennedy Homes has noted that what most buyers are looking for is room to grow—not to impress. Instead of designing homes with vertical foyers that detract from living space, they provide intimate foyers and use the previously wasted space above for second-floor recreation spaces.

Value and customer choices do not mean small homes, however. The homes built in Painted Lakes—as in all Kennedy Homes sites—feature spacious bedrooms, family rooms, and large closets. Every model design features a master bedroom suite, and some of these could be called sprawling—some as much as 20' by 22', or with fireplaces and generous sitting rooms. One model features a wardrobe closet that measures 19' by 7', and another model has a 12' by 12' closet—measurements that approach bedroom sizes in other developments.

Whether the home is 2,000 or 3,500 square feet, the family rooms are spacious and comfortable.

Another feature particular to Painted Lakes is the placement of home sites—none of the sites back onto each other. Instead, each home is backed by open fields and ponds, offering a sense of spaciousness and privacy not found in typical developments. In addition, the neighborhood has its boundary nature and forest preserves.

Families are attracted to Painted Lakes for the space, choice, and value that Kennedy Homes offers, and also for the nearby elementary school, which is just down the road. Secondary schools are also close by, and shopping can be done in downtown Antioch or Gurnee Mills, a short drive away.

Homes range from 1,998 to 3,502 square feet, and prices start from $204,000. Kennedy Homes offers on-time completion in as little as 58 days from the day the lumber is dropped, and customers can visit the Sales Office to track the progression of construction on their Centralized Scheduling System chart.

Furnished models are available to view daily 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., or by contacting their Sales Office at (847) 356-1203. Painted Lakes is located off Grass Lake Road, east of Rte. 83.

Hideriotis tops in unit sales and listings

Antioch resident Pam Hideriotis took top honors at the Libertyville office of Century 21 Kreuser and Seiler with 8 unit sales and 4.5 listings taken in the month of August, reported M.J. Seiler, co-owner. In addition, Pam leads the office in listings taken year-to-date in 2000.

An award winning agent since entering the business in 1984, Hideriotis has earned the Century 21 Masters Club and Centurion designations. Pam is an active member of the Audubon Society and Ducks Unlimited organizations. A Lake County resident for over 25 years, Pam and her husband, Jim live in unincorporated Antioch. Other unit and listing leaders in August included Patty Kreuser, Ed Siegel, Elizabeth Bryant and Brenda Bersani.

Heart fair takes health to heart

When is the best time to learn about heart disease? Before it damages your heart. Over a quarter million Americans won't have that chance this year. According to statistics, they'll die of a heart attack without any prior warning signs or symptoms.

But that doesn't have to happen. Now, there are tests to help identify if a person is developing heart disease years before it results in a heart attack. In addition, people can take steps to reduce the chances of developing heart disease.

The staff of the Victory Surgery and Treatment Center (Lindenhurst) invite interested area residents to a "Heart Health Fair" to learn about the latest test for determining heart disease and to discover how to keep their hearts healthy. The fair will be held from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, November 4, at the center, 1050 Red Oak Lane on the Victory Lakes campus off Grand Avenue, Lindenhurst.

Included will be free screenings, informational presentations and heart healthy information. There will be free gifts for all who attend and drawings for door prizes including the chance to win a free Heart Smartest to help identify the presence of calcium build up in the heart, a symptom of heart disease.

To register to attend the Victory Surgery and Treatment Center's "Heart Health Fair", call 1-888-869-1118.

Getting new home ready for winter isn't a tough assignment

Advances in building technologies have done wonders to make new homes resistant to the ravages of Chicago winters. The use of more durable materials, improved window systems, reduced air infiltration and better construction techniques mean that new homes are pretty much winter ready from Day 1.

Nonetheless, it isn't a good idea for the owners of new homes to be completely oblivious to the fact the cold weather is here, contends Frank Beasley, vice president of customer care and quality assurance for Town & Country Homes.

"When it comes to a new house, more sins are forgiven in the summer than in winter," says Beasley. "Still, all it takes is a few simple precautions to get a new house ready for its first winter."

The biggest threat to any house posed by winter weather is frozen pipes. That's why it pays to know where the plumbing pipes are inside your walls and to make sure that area stays warm.

"We never run pipes in an outside wall, and that generally eliminates the threat of frozen pipes. However, if your home does have pipes in an outside wall, make sure those walls are effectively insulated so that cold drafts don't reach the pipes," urges Beasley. "Check the wall during the first cold spell to make sure it isn't getting chilly." Other tips include:

- Use the type of filter recommended by the furnace manufacturer. Even an excellent quality filter that has the wrong specifications can lead to problems and jeopardize your furnace warranty.

- When the heat comes on, take time to adjust the registers in each room to eliminate hot and cool spots in the house. If that proves difficult to do, it may be because the heating contractor did not properly balance the system. In that instance, call the builder to get someone out to correct the problem.

- Remove all hoses and timers from outside spigots. Even the new frost-free spigots won't work properly if you have a hose or timer attached.

- Check all exhaust vents to make sure they are clean and open. Birds sometimes try to roost in these heated, protected spaces and that can create problems.

- Prevent damage to your roof and subsequent leaks by following these steps: First, clean all debris from gutters and downspouts. Then, keep an eye out for ice dams that can form in your gutters. This is most likely to happen in areas sufficiently sheltered from sunlight where snow and ice don't have a chance to melt.

Established in 1958, Town and Country Homes currently has nine communities in the Chicagoland area. Based in Westchester, Ill., the company also has home building operations in Minneapolis and Florida.

Homeowners can gamble or act now

Although interest rates remain steady, consumers should review financial situations

With the recent FED announcement on interest rates, holding steady at 6.5 percent, consumers may not be concerned about paying high interest rates any longer. But according to Don Mather, senior vice president at Champion Mortgage, homeowners are in excellent position to capitalize on the steady interest rates before potential increases occur in the future.

According to many financial analysts, interest rates will most likely remain steady through the presidential election on November 7, but could be on the rise again before the end of the year.

"Many people are unaware of just how much interest they are paying and how the rate increases have affected their debt scenario over the past year," said Mather. "But at the same time, homeowners could be missing out on the benefits of using their own home equity to help relieve the situation. Home equity loans can lower monthly payments through debt consolidation, lower interest rates significantly, provide for tax-deductions, while helping to get financial situations in order."

Mather explains that home equity loans can benefit those in these common financial areas:

- Debt Consolidation — according to the Consumer Credit Counseling Service, Americans have too much debt if they are spending more than 15 percent of their net income to repay unsecured credit (credit cards, student loans, etc.)

- Home Improvement — Using home equity can help cover the cost of new roofing or siding, heating or cooling system upgrades or a remodeling job.

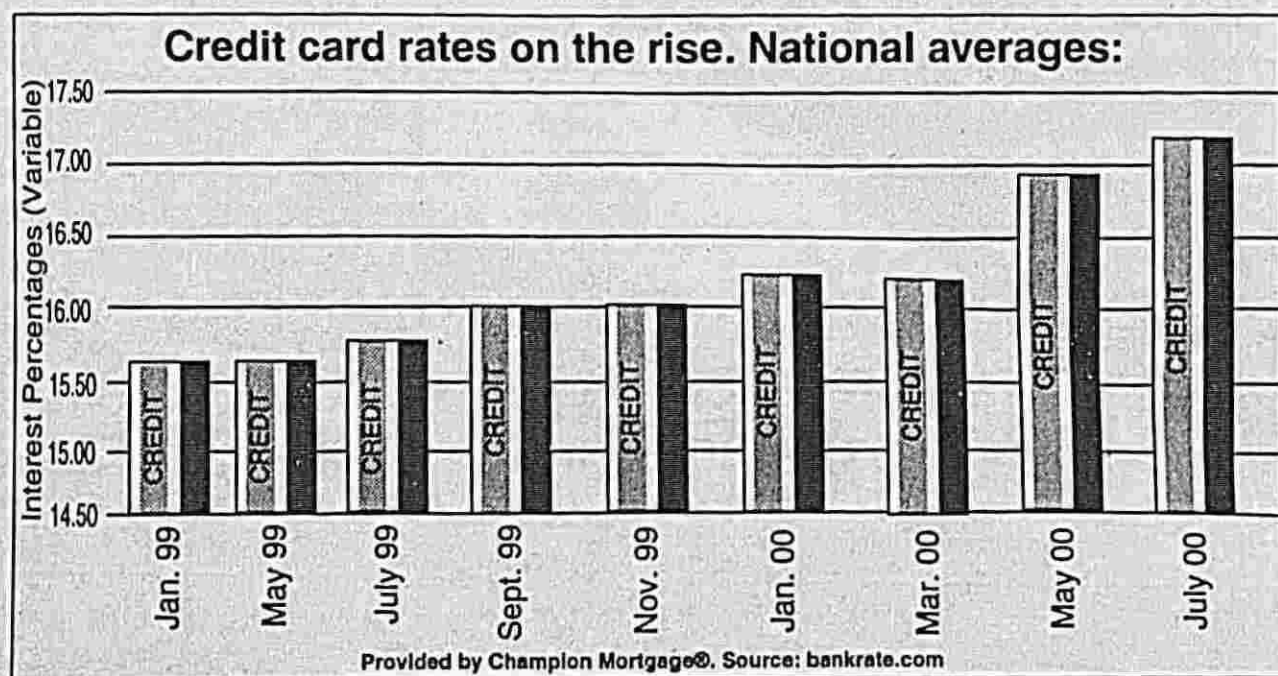

- Higher Education — Home equity can help cover the costs of an education, particularly if the homeowner is ineligible for financial aid.

- Medical Costs — Instead of draining savings accounts to pay high deductible costs or for procedures not covered by health insurance, use the home to receive the appropriate treatment and to cover any extra costs.

But although a home equity loan can benefit most homeowners, Mather warns that they should not be used as a quick fix, but as a way to regain financial footing.

"Slowing spending is the first step to putting the financial house in order," said Mather. "Home equity loans can help people begin to repay debt on credit cards or other personal loans, but financial responsibility is the ultimate key when recovering from debt."

Mather concludes, "With the average interest rate on a standard credit card reaching more than 17 percent, homeowners are in position to explore the opportunities of home equity loans to help relieve debt, consolidate bills, lower interest rates and provide for tax deductions. Now is the time to act by putting your financial house in responsible order."

MEYERS

by Gary S. Meyers

Home buyers behavior, it is appalling. Yet it could be a reflection of our times, what we are teaching our children and maybe what we are willing to accept from our political leaders. What do you think?

Q. I am selling my house and am appalled by the behavior of some adults coming through my home. It seems to me that too many people seem to forget that they are entering someone's home and they forget common courtesies and respect for property. There are things a potential buyers can get away with, but is it right? Is this common or am I just being nit-picky?

A. You are not being nit-picky. Perhaps it is a sign of the times, but people seem to be forgetting the lessons of simple consideration and respect, that were taught by our parents.

Tom Passaro, of Century 21 Team Realtors in Naperville, IL, related that, "People going through homes too often forget that someone actually lives in the house. It's not a park or even a store."

"Usually it has to do with parents not controlling their children. The kids play with toys that aren't theirs, without asking. For example, when expensive dolls get broken, the parents ignore it and the Realtors end up paying for it. But more important than the money is the simple lack of respect."

Another Realtor, Ruth Contario related how a couple tracked so much mud throughout a seller's house that she had to absorb the cost of cleaning the carpet. The prospective buyers didn't even notice.

"I've seen prospects track dog droppings into a home. The odd thing is that if they wound up buying, it would be their home," said Passaro.

"People too often will let their kids run loose without supervision, and that can cause everything from damage to petty theft," said Contario. "The point is that they would not let their kids behave that way in a friend's home, or at least I hope they wouldn't."

Mary Cannon, another real estate broker, tells the tale of dogs "marking" all the plants in one home and of children rolling expensive vases across the floor to one another. She also retells the story of a buyers who opted to pick a bouquet of flowers from a homeowner's garden. Last year, in her own home, she had to stop children from tap-dancing on a coffee table."

Q. I am about to close on a refinance of my house, but the last minute the mortgage company I was using said that I didn't qualify for the mortgage. How is this possible?

A. Mortgages are always about much more than interest rates. It's about reliability. "Apparently the company you used did not have their own funds to close. They probably were dealing with a third party for their funds, which may not have been disclosed to you. That funding relationship may have ended or the terms of that relationship may have changed. However, what is clear is that the company never had you qualified by the ultimate lender at all. Otherwise there would be no issue, even if their relationship changed," said Cliff Theriault, regional vice president for Commonwealth United Mortgage in Schaumburg, IL. "Know your lender."

Stella on fire at LGR; Red Ribbon week nears end

Mario Stella of Cortland wishes the season was just beginning and all of the Midwest Enduro Stock Car Series events were at the Lake Geneva Raceway.

Stella won all three Series events held at Lake Geneva during 2000 including the season finale original Goblin 250 held Oct. 22. Add to that a pair of wins at Grundy County Speedway in Morris and Stella enjoyed his personal best year ever, placing sixth in the final standings, along with a series record setting five wins.

Darryl Traber of Waterford finished 11th in the "A" Class at the Goblin, which was good enough to secure his second Series Championship, with the other coming a decade ago in 1990. Traber held off a late charge from Jim Olson of Seneca who ended up runner-up by 36 points (laps), 2,685-2,649. Tom Ruh was third in the final points with Erich Iversen of Deerfield fourth and Dale Willard of Lombard fifth. Jay LeBrun of Gurnee finished 18th as the top ranking Lakeland area competitor.

LET'S GO RACING

Michael H. Babicz

Traber dedicated his season and championship to his late brother-in-law, Jeff Waskiewicz, along with long time Hales Corners Speedway track announcer Tom Klippel, who both passed away earlier this year. In addition, Traber and the Series, along with this writer and all of those in the racing world, expressed their heartfelt condolences to the family of long time fixture in racing, Terry Jeffords. Terry was most recently involved in producing the Racing Roundup radio program out of Milwaukee. Terry passed away Oct. 19. Our thoughts and prayers are extended to his widow, Joyce, and his family and friends. God's Speed Terry.

In the Rookie of the Year battle, Steve Stegner caught and passed Jeremy Bloomberg to take the title by 13 points, 2,439-2,426. Bloomberg rolled on lap 146 of the Goblin, with the car unable to continue despite his being uninjured. Stegner overcame a 69 point (lap) deficit to pass Bloomberg.

In the Goblin, a field of 109 cars took the initial green flag on a beautifully pleasant autumn afternoon before a most enthusiastic crowd. Finishing behind Stella in the "A" class top five were Evert DeWitt of Janesville, Jeff Meulemans of Kaukauna, Phil Speciale of Carol Stream and Ken Smart of Oconomowoc.

Willard, who won top honors with his Halloween theme "Bad to the Bone" car in the "Beauty Contest," placed first in the "B" Class ahead of Les Wiedenhoef of Jackson, David Donahue of Milwaukee, Buddy Feldt of Beloit and Tom Carr of Beloit.

The "C" Class win went to Tracy Carr of Beloit over Kevin McKeveet of Round Lake Beach, Bob Nuti of Edgerton, Al Tietyen of Franklin and Bernie Scheffer of Morris.

In the 1st Annual "Dirt Bowl" Challenge pitting teams from Lake Geneva and Wilmot Speedway, Lake Geneva swept the top four spots (after Promoter Kevin Dawson started his drivers in front) led by Matt Leppard of Eagle. The Lake Geneva representatives included Ken Metzger of Walworth, Tony Reese of Lake Geneva and Scott Dixon of Janesville. The Wilmot drivers were Ron Dolence of Waukegan, Jay Sachs of Waukegan and 15-year-old Ryan Dolence of Waukegan. Despite a hard lick when Ryan got a little too wide in turn two and hit a retaining fence and tire, Ryan plans to compete regularly next season on Fridays at Lake Geneva in the BIC Cars.

The Enduro Series Awards Banquet is scheduled for Saturday, January 27, 2001, at the Clarion Hotel in Milwaukee. The annual off-season drivers meeting will be Sunday, Nov. 19 at Regatta Lanes 2 in Thiensville. For information on either, contact the series office 262-895-6682.

Wilmot Speedway's Night of Champions Dinner will be Saturday, March 3, 2001.

Coming up Sunday, Nov. 5 will be the annual International Center on Deafness and the Arts "Spotlight on Racing" to be held at Field's Jeep Dealership in Northfield. The always fun and exciting event is from 11 a.m.-6 p.m. and will feature motorsports displays, interactive games, a go-kart challenge course along with silent and live auctions. For further information contact ICODA at 847-559-0110.

A reminder, with Red Ribbon Week upon us, it is not just an attitude or way of life for one week, or a day. I encourage one and all to Say Yes to a Healthy Lifestyle and Living and Just Say No to the negatives in our world around us. This Saturday, Oct. 28, will feature Make A Difference Day. Take time to do something nice for someone, even if you do not know them, even if it is just holding a door open or smiling and saying hello. We can all make a difference in the world, one day at a time, one person at a time.

Until next time, "Let's Go Racing!"

Lakeland Cardinal News & Notes

Rock Clean-up Day will take place on Saturday, Nov. 11 at 10:30 a.m. at The Field of Dreams, located on Molidor Rd. This will be the site of the Cardinals home football games next season. In order to get the field prepared, rocks will have to be removed. Any community members or community organizations are welcome to come and help. The Cardinals Football Association would appreciate any and all help to get the field ready.

And, elections for the Cardinals Board of Directors will be held at their next regular Board Meeting scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m. at Lakeland Community Bank in Fox Lake. This meeting, as well as all monthly meetings, is open to anyone who wishes to attend and/or participate in the program. Meetings are held every third Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Lakeland Community Bank in Fox Lake, except during the month of December.

Lake County Baseball season ends with a bang

Fielders Choice Sports Complex ended its season by filling the park with softball and baseball players. With Mother Nature lending a helpful hand with the weather, the park hosted a complex softball tournament and the "End of the season" baseball tournament.

The fall softball leagues ended its season in a tournament that found the Erickson/Buckets team coming from behind to defeat the Hooters team for first place honors. The Bad News Dawgs took third place.

In fall Softball League play, the winning teams for the season were: Sunday Coed-Sheer Delight; Sunday Men's Division A: Erickson/Buckets; Sunday Men's Division B: Community Reality; Wednesday Coed: AC Auto; Wednesday Men's: J.Q. Foxes; Thursday Men's Division A: Darrey Construction; Thursday Men's Division B: Evelyn's.

In the end of the Season Baseball Tournament, River Forest took home the gold in the 11-12-year-old age division with the Lake County Chiefs taking second place. In the 13-14-year-old age division, the Highwood Braves took first place followed by the Oak Creek Diamondbacks.

Meanwhile, as Fielders Choice Sports Complex closes its diamonds for the winter, plans and preparations are already looking forward to next year's schedule. Besides the softball leagues that have regularly played at the complex, look for a girl's fast pitch league, more weekend softball tournament, and some nationally franchised tournaments. Play will be under the NSA and the FPA. They are looking for teams that are interested in these leagues. Art and Mary Mansavage, owners of the complex, will be spending the winter months attending national conventions enticing teams from out of state to come to the complex for softball tournaments.

And, Lake County Baseball is now accepting registration for its winter baseball camp. This specialized fundamental baseball training will begin late January and continue through the beginning of March. Saturday and Sunday sessions are available. Camp is designed to get the young ballplayer ready for his spring league and will be finished in time for the ballplayer to participate in his own house league. Sessions will be on Saturday or Sunday, and ballplayers may choose either day to fit his camp, or about baseball and softball play, call 945-9606.

Spartan Bantams claim division title

The Round Lake Spartan Bantams clinched the division title with a thrilling 21-12 victory over North Chicago behind the running of Andrew Tubek (5 carries, 85 yards, touchdown) and behind a tough Spartan defense which recovered 3 fumbles, had 1 interception, and scored 2 points on a safety.

Following the opening kickoff, Spartan Running Back Andrew Tubek took the ball up the middle on the first play of scrimmage and ran 55 yards for a touchdown giving the Spartans a quick 6-0 lead. Defensive standout Jason Montemayor gave the ball right back to the Spartan offense with a fumble recovery on North Chicago's first offensive play. Four plays later the Spartans hit pay dirt again with a 35-yard touchdown run by Wingback Matt Pucher extending the lead to 12-0.

The Spartan defense taking the field for only the second time proceeded to take control of the game. The next four out of five series for the Spartan defense resulted in: A second fumble recovery by Jason Montemayor; an interception by D.J. Mendoza; a safety by D.J. Mendoza, and a fumble recovery by Michael Means. Also included were a number of solo tackles for negative yardage: three by Jason Montemayor; two each by Jacob Web and D.J. Mendoza; and one each by Pucher and Zach Estes. In addition, Michael Means and Joe Lieber each had touchdown-saving tackles.

The Spartan offense behind the hard-nosed running of Tubek, Means, and Mizowek and behind the outstanding blocking of Nick Leider, Chris Derose, Oscar Costilla, Jacob Web, Adam Barnard and Jordan Yinger put the game away in the fourth quarter with a three yard touchdown plunge by Mizowek. A pass from Mizowek to tight end Jordan Yinger added the extra point.

"This was a total team victory," said Coach Scott Derengowski. "We needed and got outstanding efforts from each and every player."

Lancer booters ready for Region IV playoffs

A long regular season that saw the Lancers win their first Skyway Conference championship since 1998 is over and now CLC will prepare for the Region IV tournament set to begin on November 1.

The number four seeded Lancers (10-4-3, 7-2) will have home-field advantage through at least the first two rounds, and will play Skyway conference rival Oakton in the first round.

"We've played good in stretches," said head coach Tom Holevas. "We won five in a row at one point and that's when our confidence started to build."

One question mark for CLC is the goal-keeping which has been shaky for the Lancers all season long.

Early in the season, Nick Placko and Alex Flores were sharing time in goal and both struggled to find a rhythm.

"At the conference tournament I told both our goalkeepers to step it up and Nick did," said Holevas. "Since then, Nick started our final five games of the season and will be our starter in the playoffs."

CLC finished out the season on an up-and-down note, beating Harper 4-1 and losing 6-0 in the season finale to DuPage, one of the nation's top-five teams.

Against Harper, Matt Johnson, Juvenal Castrejon and Matt Delmler each had a goal and an assist and Leonel Marban also had a goal. Placko played solid in goal, making five saves.

"We need to play as a unit," said Holevas. "We have good individual talent but we've played our best when we play together." —Rob Backus

COLLEGE SPORTS BEAT

Campus news and notes

Former Carmel graduate and Lindenhurst native Jim Hanna has been honored as a member of The National Society of Collegiate Scholars.

Hanna, a red shirt sophomore, is a reserve running back for the Miami University, located in Oxford, Ohio.

The National Society of Collegiate Scholars is a highly selective, national, non-profit honors organization. Founded in 1994, the NSCS recognizes first and second-year undergraduate students who excel academically.

"The NSCS provides the opportunity for students like James to be recognized for their outstanding academic accomplishments early in their collegiate experience," said Steve Loflin, NSCS Executive Director. "James will also have an opportunity to join other high achieving college students in developing leadership skills and a sense of civil responsibility."

Hanna, a mass communication's major, is tops on the G.P.A. list for running backs for the Redskins. He currently carries a 3.7 G.P.A.

"He's certainly doing very well down there and this is a tremendous honor for him," said Jim's father, James Hanna.

Cross country runner Dan Cooler (Fr., Woodstock, Ill.) helped Carthage win its fourth-consecutive Wisconsin Private College Cross Country Championship on October 14 with a 12th-place finish and a season-best time of 27:54.40 at Greenfield Park in West Allis, Wis.

Meanwhile, Carthage women's soccer player Jamie Wismer (So., Antioch, Ill.)

leads the team in scoring with 14 points (6 goals, 2 assists). Wismer is ranked eighth among College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin scoring leaders.

Waukegan native and Carmel graduate

Nikki Ogrin, currently No. 10 in Illinois Wesleyan history with a 44-35 record, will look to improve on that mark at the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin Championships. For the season, Ogrin is 10-6 at No. 2 singles and 11-6 overall.

Meanwhile, Lauren Boegen (Waukegan, Warren H.S.) currently has two goals and two assists and Jill Denoma (Lake Villa, Carmel H.S.) has a goal and three assists while playing for the Titans women's soccer team.

On the men's side, Clay Scott (Gurnee, Warren H.S.) leads the men's soccer team with six goals. Grayslake products Chris Wirsing and Josh Shipley have scored three and two goals, respectively. Wirsing also has two assists while Shipley has dished out three.

Elmhurst College junior Al Connelly of Mundelein finished 97th in the Jim Drews Invitational last weekend. Connelly's time was 27 minutes flat. As a team, the Bluejays finished 16th.

Lake Zurich product and Truman State University running back Mike Redding is currently ranked ninth in the MIAA with a 58 yards per game average. The 5-foot, 11-inch 195-pound sophomore netted 20 yards on six carries against Missouri Western Oct. 21, which was preceded by 123 yards against Central Missouri the week before. Redding presently has rushed for 426 yards and four scores for the 4-3 Bulldogs.

LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS

Lady luck not on side of Corsair booters

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

The Corsairs could never be accused of playing boring soccer. All season long Carmel played one close game after another, usually coming out on top as their 16-5-1 record would indicate.

Even their losses were exciting, as was the case against Lake Forest in the second round of the sectional tournament, a 3-2 loss that ended their season. "This was one of our better games of the season," said head coach Chris Mikrut. "It was exciting and all season long we won these close games. Unfortunately we couldn't come out on top."

Carmel fell behind early 1-0 in the opening 10 minutes of the game and the score remained that way until 15 minutes remained in the first half. The Corsairs tied the game as Mike Boland scored off of a corner kick from an assist by Brett Uhler to take a 1-1 tie into the half. Carmel took a 2-1 lead early in the second half as Matt Zeffery scored off of a corner kick on an assist from Adam Hughes.

"That was one of the best goals I've ever seen," said Mikrut. "He [Zeffery] was right where he was supposed to be and he put the ball in the back of the net." Carmel remained in the lead until the Scouts scored the equalizer with just over six minutes left in the game. Lake Forest took a 3-2 lead with 2:30 left in the game and that's the way it ended.

"We had five or six opportunities to tie the game at the end, but things didn't go our way," said Mikrut. What was painful for Mikrut was the fact that both of Lake Forest's late goals were flukes, coming off of misplayed balls right in front of the goal.

PUBLIC NOTICE IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE 19TH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
LAKE COUNTY, ILLINOIS
PROBATE DIVISION

Notice is hereby given to creditors of the death of Daniel A. Hartmann. Letters of Office were issued to Richard Hartmann, 650 Audubon Street, Hoffman Estates, IL 60194, as Independent Executor, whose attorney of record is R. Steven Polachek, 18-3 East Dundee Road, Suite 208, Barrington, IL 60010.

The estate will be administered without court supervision unless under Section 5/28-4 of the Probate Act (755 ILCS, 5/28-4) any interested person terminates independent administration at any time by mailing or delivering a Petition to Terminate to the Clerk of the circuit Court of the 19th Judicial Circuit, Lake County, Illinois.

Claims against the estate may be filed in the office of the Clerk of Court, Probate Division, 18 North County Street, Waukegan, Illinois 60085, or with the Independent Executor, or both, on or before April 19, 2001, or if mailing or delivery of a notice from the Independent Executor is required by 755 ILCS, 5/18-3 of the Probate Act of 1995, the date stated in that notice. Any claim not filed on or before that date is barred. Copies of any claim filed with the Clerk must be mailed or delivered by the claimant to the Independent Executor and to the attorney within ten (10) days after it has been filed.

PUBLIC NOTICE THE BOARD OF LIBRARY TRUSTEES OF THE ROUND LAKE AREA PUBLIC LIBRARY DISTRICT LAKE COUNTY, ILLINOIS

COPY

ORDINANCE NO. 00-10-2

ORDINANCE DETERMINING TO LEVY AN ADDITIONAL TAX OF .02 PERCENT OF THE VALUE OF ALL TAXABLE PROPERTY IN THE DISTRICT FOR THE PURCHASE OF SITES AND BUILDINGS, THE CONSTRUCTION AND EQUIPMENT OF BUILDINGS, THE RENTAL OF BUILDINGS REQUIRED FOR LIBRARY PURPOSES, AND MAINTENANCE, REPAIRS, AND ALTERATIONS OF LIBRARY BUILDING AND EQUIPMENT

WHEREAS, the Board of Library Trustees of the Round Lake Area Public Library District, Lake County, Illinois, is a public library district exercising power pursuant to 75 ILCS 18/1-1, et seq., the Public Library District Act of 1991; and

WHEREAS, Section 16/35-5 of the aforesaid Act provides that the board may levy an additional tax of .02 percent of the value of all the taxable property in the district, as equalized or assessed by the Department of Revenue for the purchase of sites and buildings, for the construction and equipment of buildings, for the rental of buildings required for library purposes, and for maintenance, repairs, and alterations of library buildings and equipment; and

WHEREAS, the board does hereby deem it in the best interests of the Round Lake Area Public Library District, Lake County, Illinois and the residents thereof and the patrons of the public library that revenue be made available for the designated purposes as set forth by law;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the Board of Library Trustees of the Round Lake Area Public Library District, Lake County, Illinois, as follows:

Section 1. This Board hereby determines to levy an additional tax of $75,000.00, or such lesser additional amount as would produce a tax rate of .02 percent of the value of all the taxable property in the district, as equalized or assessed by the Department of Revenue for the purchase of sites and buildings, for the construction and equipment of buildings, for the rental of buildings required for library purposes, and for maintenance, repairs, and alterations of library buildings and equipment.

Section 2. Within fifteen (15) days after the adoption of this Ordinance, it shall be published at least once in one or more daily or weekly newspapers published or circulated in the District. The publication shall include a notice of (a) the specific number of voters required to sign a petition requesting that the question of the adoption of the Ordinance be submitted to the electors of the District, which is 1,371; (b) the time in which the petition must be filed, which is thirty (30) days after the publication of this Ordinance; and (c) the date of the prospective referendum, which is Tuesday, April 03, 2001, being the consolidated election. The Secretary of the District shall provide a petition form to any individual requesting one.

Section 3. If within the thirty-day period after publication of this Ordinance a petition is filed with the Board of Library Trustees of the Round Lake Area Public Library District, Lake County, Illinois, signed by electors of the District equal in number to ten percent (10%) or more of the total number of registered voters in the District, asking that the question of levying such a .02 percent tax be submitted to the electors of the District, the Board may vacate the Ordinance within seven (7) days after the petition is filed. If the Board does not vacate the Ordinance, the question shall be certified to the proper election authority, who shall submit the question at an election in accordance with the Election Code. The proposition shall be in substantially the following form:

Shall the Board of Library Trustees of the Round Lake Area Public Library District be authorized to levy an additional tax of .02 percent for the purchase of sites and buildings, for the construction and equipment of buildings, for the rental of buildings required for library purposes and for maintenance, repairs, and alterations of library buildings and equipment, as determined by the Board's ordinance of October 18, 2000?

YES

NO

Section 4. If no petition is filed with the Board of Library Trustees of the Round Lake Area Public Library District, Lake County, Illinois, within thirty (30) days after said publication, this District shall then be authorized to levy the tax, and the tax levy ordinance for the fiscal year may contain a direction to the County Clerk of Lake County to levy such additional tax.

Section 5. This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its enactment, subject to the publication requirements contained herein.

PASSED by the Board of Library Trustees of the Round Lake Area Public Library District, Lake County, Illinois, on the 18th day of October, 2000, by a vote of:

Basic Practices Can Help Protect Your Family Against the Flu

FOR YOUR HEALTH

By Leslie Piotrowski, M.S.
Communications Manager,
Lake County Health Department
Community Health Center

It's that time of year when you and your family should begin to pay particular attention to basic public health practices such as maintaining a healthy diet, frequent hand washing, and getting adequate rest. They are our first line of defense against the flu.

Influenza is one of the few remaining viruses that the capacity to ravage populations worldwide. Here in the United States influenza generally interrupts our busy lives during the winter months of December through March. Influenza is a leading cause of lost work time, school absences and hospitalizations.

Not to be confused with the common "stomach flu," influenza is a viral infection that affects the respiratory system. The disease is usually mild in healthy children, young adults and middle age populations. But for the elderly and those who have chronic conditions, the flu can be devastating. In general, flu can be transmitted anywhere, including popular gathering places such as classrooms, theaters, grocery stores and day care centers.

Influenza is characterized by an abrupt onset of fever, chills, headache, muscle aches and a dry cough. The sudden onset of a fever is one way to differentiate it from a cold, since a fever seldom accompanies a cold. Rapidly spreading from person to person through the air, influenza can affect many in a short amount of time. Within 24 to 72 hours of exposure, a person can feel the effects of the virus. The flu usually lasts for two to eight days, and a cough may persist for one to two weeks. Rarely is the flu fatal to the general healthy population; however, real flu can become a severe illness to anyone.

Many individuals obtain flu shots to protect themselves against the infection. The Centers for Disease Control and The American Academy of Pediatrics recommend the flu vaccine for children and the elderly with chronic conditions such as asthma, cerebral palsy, diabetes, cardiac problems, and emphysema. This population generally, is at a greater risk of contracting the flu and its potentially deadly partner, pneumonia. Side effects from the flu vaccine are minimal; a common complaint is a slight soreness at the injection site. Good communication with your primary provider is essential for advice on obtaining the flu vaccine.

In protecting yourself and your family, remember hand washing is our first line of defense against the flu, along with a healthy diet, getting plenty of rest, avoiding crowds and remaining in communication with your physician about the flu vaccine.

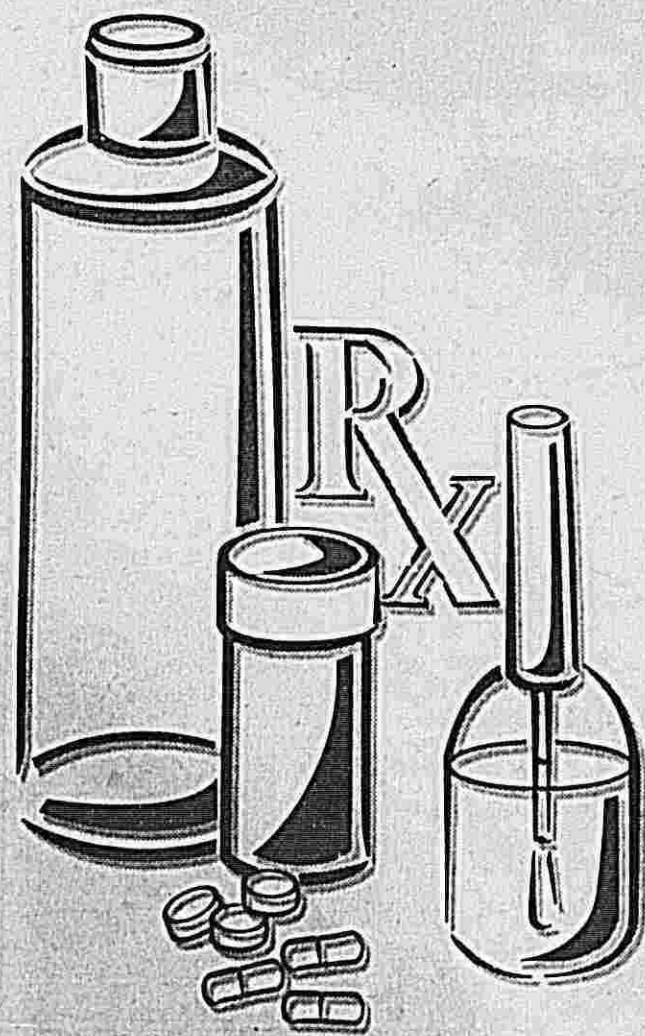

The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center is offering influenza and pneumonia vaccinations to senior citizens, age 65 and older, at sites throughout Lake County during November and December. The Health Department's Childhood Immunization Clinic will also provide flu vaccine to children 4 years of age and older with a chronic condition, provided they bring a prescription from their primary care provider. For more information, contact the Health Department at 847. 360-3114. ♦

Review . . . Remove . . . Restock

Medicine cabinets needs yearly cleaning to maintain effectiveness.

The Medicine Cabinet Safety campaign is a nationwide educational campaign designed to inform consumers about the three easy steps to medicine cabinet safety:

Review . . .

The contents of your medicine cabinet - check the expiration dates and consult your doctor or pharmacist about drug-drug interactions.

Remove . . .

Expired medications and make sure you're aware of over-the-counter products that may interact with prescription drugs you are taking.

Restock . . .

With medications that meet your family's individual needs.

To ensure a well-stocked medicine cabinet, the Medicine Cabinet Safety campaign recommends storing products from the following treatment areas:

- Pain relief
- Nighttime products
- Allergy and sinus
- Cold and flu
- Antacids and anti-diarrheals
- First aid items

The campaign urges consumers to consult with their doctor or pharmacist about helpful product suggestions, and to visit a local pharmacy to obtain a copy of the "Do the Check" shopping list.

Why is it important to keep a medicine cabinet up-to-date?

While it is a good idea to be prepared in case of an illness, some people tend to let medications accumulate in their medicine cabinets beyond the expiration dates. Expired medications may not be used at their peak effectiveness and, therefore may not achieve the desired result.

How often should a medicine cabinet be cleaned out?

Pharmacists suggest medicine cabinets be cleaned out once a year.

Where is the best place to store medications?

While many people use the shelving behind the bathroom mirror as a medicine cabinet, this location is not ideal. Frequent changes in humidity and temperature typical of the bathroom may reduce the effectiveness of certain medicines.

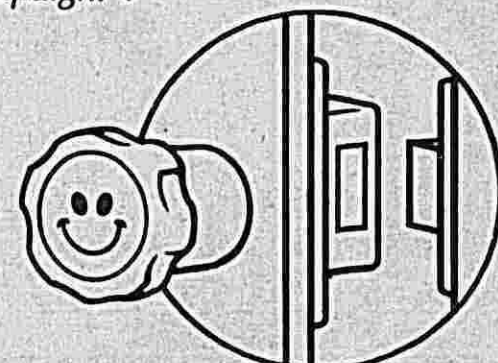

To retain maximum effectiveness, medications should be stored in a dry area and away from direct sunlight. The top shelf in a hallway closet is a good alternative and will help keep medicine safely out of the reach of small children.

How many medicine cabinets should be maintained?

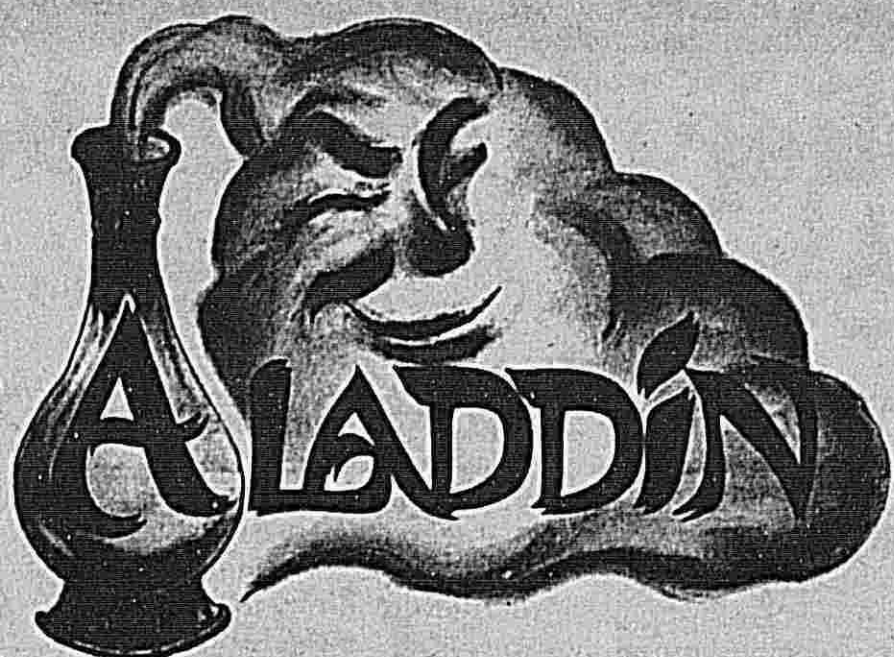

Since availability and convenience are important, it is recommended that more than one medicine cabinet be maintained in the home. Essential medicines and other healthcare products should also be stored in places where family members spend a significant amount of time, such as a vacation home, car or boat.

As always, consumers should also consult a doctor or pharmacist about potential drug-drug interactions and should pay careful attention to the labeling on each product to ensure proper storage and use.

The Medicine Cabinet Safety campaign is a nationwide educational campaign designed to inform consumers about the three easy steps to medicine cabinet safety. McNeil Consumer Healthcare in cooperation with the American Pharmaceutical Association sponsors the campaign. ♦

National Survey says: Teens Believe They Can Make a Difference in Politics

(ARA) - Many American adults don't vote because they think it doesn't make a difference. But a recent national survey shows that even though teenagers aren't old enough to vote, they still believe they have the power to make a difference in current political issues - and it's parents and teachers who've helped them feel this way.

The nationwide survey, conducted by Yankelovich Partners and sponsored by Lutheran Brotherhood in collaboration with their RespecTeen Speak for Yourself program, focused on finding what teens' interest levels are in politics, who has the most influence on their knowledge and impression of politics and politicians, and if teens believed they could influence political leaders.

A little over 500 13- to 15-year students were interviewed, and 73 percent of them believe that people their age can make a difference in the political decisions of their elected officials today. Even though they haven't reached legal voting age, these teens believe that their opinions matter in the discussion of current issues.

Parents and teachers ranked the highest as people who influence the teens' knowledge and interest in politics. The media was next, followed by the Internet and friends. When asked what they learned from these sources, teens give high credit to parents and teachers for providing them with a mostly positive impression of politics and politicians.

Lutheran Brotherhood RespecTeen Speak for Yourself program provides tools to enable students of this age group to become involved with the political decision-making process.

The Speak for Yourself program is a curriculum that is distributed each fall to seventh- and eighth-grade teachers around the country. The program encourages junior high school students to learn about the democratic process and communicate with elected officials. This year, more than 10,000 teens wrote their Congressional representatives on issues they are concerned about for RespecTeen's Speak for Yourself program. The top three issues discussed were drug and alcohol abuse, teen pregnancy, and gun control, which ranked higher sponsor, and judged by a panel of educators. One winner from each state and the District of Columbia are chosen to attend RespecTeen's National Youth Forum in Washington, D.C. While there, teen participants meet one-on-one with their elected representatives.

"By writing letters to their members of Congress, young people are prompted to reflect on important national issues and come up with thoughtful solutions," says Ellen Albee, program director. "We hope students recognize the value of their opinions and learn to make positive changes in our nation and in their communities."

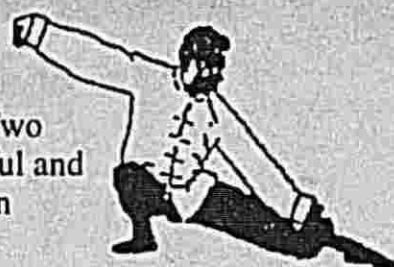

Albee says she is also pleased by the findings of the study. "In today's world, where the media and Internet have become a pervasive part of our culture, it's encouraging to hear that parents and teachers hold the highest degree of positive influence on teens today."

Come experience the most awesome form of relaxation, meditation, and martial art known to human existence. Two thousand years of perfection brings you the most powerful and complete system of martial art known today. Focusing on mastery of the mental, physical, and spiritual concepts.

CHI KUNG Learn to strengthen and increase blood flow, energy, physical power, relaxation, concentration, and focus throughout your entire being.

SHAOLIN KUNG FU

This physical martial art system is exceptional to other hard style systems because of the soft and powerful internal qualities it has inherited from the fighting monk systems of China. If you like hard physical training you will enjoy this system.

KIDS KUNG FU

I will be teaching a form of kung fu known as TAN TUI pronounced [tan-tu-e] a system of building body strength, mind discipline, and martial art skill. This system was developed over 2000 years ago by Chinese monks. It is the basic foundation of every martial art system known today. This learning will be done in a disciplined and attention focused atmosphere, so children will learn adult skills, while still retaining the fun and enjoyment of childhood. It will be a perfect balance of learning, fun & health.

Knox Dainties

Makes about 5 dozen

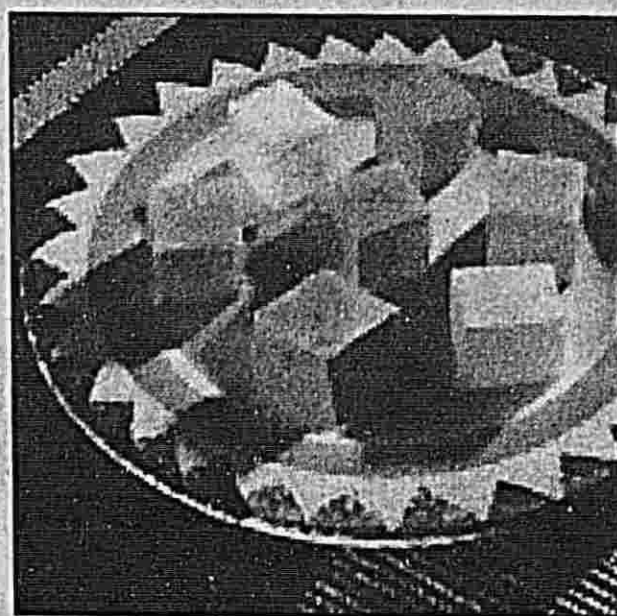

Ingredients

5 envelopes KNOX Unflavored Gelatine
2 cups cold water
4 cups sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt, optional
Flavored Extracts*
Food coloring, optional
Powdered sugar

Preparation

1. Sprinkle unflavored gelatine over cold water in 4-quart saucepan; let stand 1 minute.
2. Stir over low heat until gelatine completely dissolves, about 5 minutes. Stir in sugar and salt. Increase heat to medium-high; heat just to a boil, stirring occasionally to dissolve sugar, about 10 minutes. Reduce heat to low; simmer, without stirring, 15 minutes. Stir in one flavored extract and food coloring; pour into an 8 x 8 x 2-inch pan. Chill 3 hours or until set.
3. Heavily dust cutting board with powdered sugar. With tip of wet sharp knife, loosen gel from sides of pan. Briefly dip bottom of pan in hot water; unmold onto cutting board. Dust top of gelatine with powdered sugar; cut into 1-inch squares. Roll squares in additional powdered sugar. Store in a covered container in refrigerator.

Teddy Wants S'Mores

Makes 18 bars

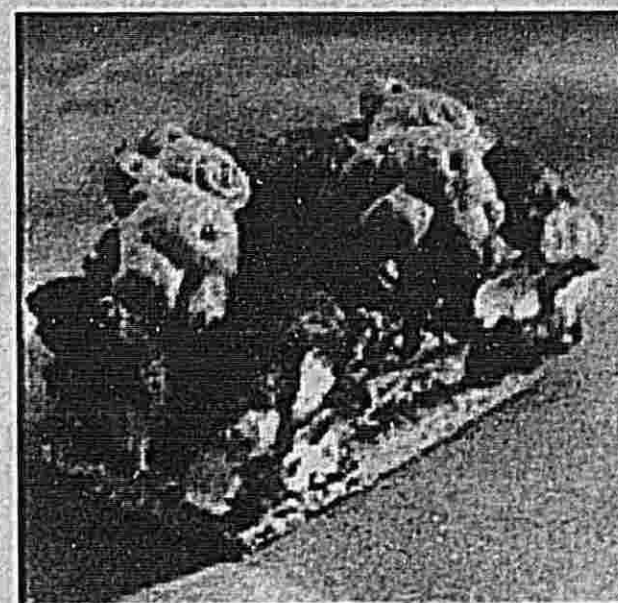

Ingredients

9 squares HONEY MAID Honey Grahams, cut in half
8 ounces milk chocolate
2 cups TEDDY GRAHAMS Graham Snacks, any flavor
1 1/2 JET-PUFFED Miniature Marshmallows

Preparation

1. Arrange graham cracker pieces on bottom of lightly greased and waxed paper-lined 8 x 8 x 2-inch baking pan; set aside.
2. Melt chocolate in small saucepan over very low heat. Remove from heat; stir in 1 1/2 cups graham snacks and marshmallows.
3. Spread mixture evenly over graham cracker-lined pan. Press remaining graham snacks on top of chocolate layer. Let stand until firm.
4. Cut into bars using bottom graham halves as a guide. Store in airtight container.

Wright's® Easy Smoked Turkey

Makes 10 to 12 Servings

1 (10 - 12 pound) turkey
2 quarts water
1 (3.5 Oz.) bottle of WRIGHT'S Natural Hickory Seasoning
1/2 cup margarine, melted (optional)

Preparation

In a very large bowl or plastic bag, combine turkey, water, and hickory seasoning, turning to coat turkey. Cover or seal bag; chill overnight, turn occasionally. Drain turkey; pat dry. Place turkey on rack in large roasting pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 3 1/2 to 4 hours or until internal thigh temperature reaches 180 degrees to 185 degrees F, basting with melted margarine if desired. Use pan drippings to make gravy.

Parents and Kids:
Follow these simple tips and you'll be sure to enjoy a spooky and safe night of trick-or-treating!

1. Make sure you can see and breathe clearly through masks.
2. Don't eat any candy until you get home and have your parents inspect it.
3. Throw away any unwrapped or suspicious-looking candy.
4. Carry a flashlight and wear reflective strips on your costume.
5. Never trick-or-treat alone. Always go in groups with adult supervision.
6. Never go inside a stranger's house or car.

ATTENTION PET OWNERS
WE DO NOT KNOWINGLY ACCEPT ADS FOR ANIMALS IN OUR FREE/ GIVE AWAY COLUMN.

If you must give up your pet, please consider these facts.
*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are not reputable and are more concerned about making a profit than the animal.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

How To Survive
The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Q I am employed at a small company here in Lake County for the last 3 years in an accounting position where I presently work 40 hours a week. There are four people in the office, an office manager, accounts payable, accounts receivable and administrative assistant to sales. I work in payables and a co-worker who I have become close friends with handles the receivables. We are both noticing that the company is going into a slow period which it always does at this time of year and lasts approximately until the second week of January. We were thinking of asking the owner if he would mind if we cut down our hours during this time. My co-worker and I are both capable of doing each other's duties, so the work would get done. The way I figured it, I need approximately 5 hours a day to keep up with my own work load. My co-worker needs around 5 as well. During this time if we cut our work hours down to 5 hours a day or 20 hours a week, that would be like one person working a 40 hour week. We could save the company a full salary. Of course the other side of this is it would give myself and my co-worker the free time to prepare for the holidays. Do you think that we should present this to the owner or would we be opening a can of worms. Please respond. -G.I.L., Waukegan

A Certainly any company should be willing to listen to their employees ideas. This idea is one that I feel you may have to think is well thought out, but there are concerns I have for you in approaching the owner that I feel you should take into careful consideration prior to that time. First of all, you didn't mention whether or not you have insurance with this company. If you do, perhaps your company only pays insurance to full time employees. Once your turn to a 20 hour week, you may not be eligible for their insurance. Something to think about. Also... have you thought about the reaction from the other two co-workers. This may be a concern of the owner that it would tend to make them short staffed when additional hands are needed in the office. Most importantly however, if you should decide to bring this plan to the table, keep in mind that you are basically telling the owner that both positions only require half the time, giving him the opportunity to think about the fact that perhaps he should eliminate one full time person and save himself money without the complications. He may end up thanking you and this may turn out as you planned, but food for thought... I would weigh out the possibilities. Good luck.

National Weather Summary This Week

A weak cold front will clip parts of the Northeast as we end the week. The main result will be a slight increase in precipitation chances. A strong area of low pressure is forecast to develop in the central Plains this weekend. Meanwhile, the Pacific Northwest will be blitzed with inclement weather over the weekend with an impressive cold front. This system will set its sights on the center of the country as we progress into next week.

'Red Ribbon time' goes off with county-wide festivities

The traditional Red Ribbon Week Celebration is coming to Lake County Saturday, Oct. 21 through Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Coordinated by Prevention Services/InTouch Office, a partnership of the College of Lake County, Lake County Health Department and Community Health Center, and Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism & Substance Abuse (NICASA), Red Ribbon is a national commemorative movement encouraging young people to have a tobacco, alcohol and drug free positive lifestyle.

A virtual day of activities on Wednesday, Oct. 25 brings exposure to the Red Ribbon movement in Lake County.

The annual Lake County Red Ribbon Rally will take place noon-1 p.m. in the West side courtyard of the Lake County Building located at Washington and County Sts. in downtown Waukegan. The rally program includes assembly and exit music by North Chicago Community High School's Marching Warhawks Band under the direction of Hillary Strauch, NCCHS band director.

Darlene Jones, a graduate of NICASA's Parenting Program and a North Chicago resident, will perform the National Anthem. Chief Judge Henry C. Tonigan III and youth guests will lead the crowd in the "Pledge of Allegiance." Judge Tonigan will introduce the mistress of ceremonies, Judge Barbara Gilleran-Johnson. Judge Gilleran-Johnson will welcome and introduce attending dignitaries.

The Truth Warriors Drama Team based in Lake County will perform "One Nation." The 2000 Enrique Camarena "One Person Can" Award will be presented by Kristine Andersen, Prevention Services/InTouch Coordinator, and Judge Gilleran-Johnson.

Lake County States Attorney Michael J. Waller will make a presentation of Drug Forfeiture Fund checks. Judge Gilleran-Johnson and Michael H. Babicz, Prevention Services/InTouch Prevention Specialist and Red Ribbon Coordinator and Terence Hodges, InTouch Prevention Specialist and Red Ribbon Contest Coordinator, will announce Lake County Red Ribbon Contest winners.

Red Ribbon Contests include classroom

Mike Vuckovich, a Stevenson High School junior, will perform his enthusiastic prevention rap, to conclude the event.

Later that afternoon, 4-7 p.m., a Red Ribbon-"Kids & Racers for Victory" Family Fun Day will be held at the College of Lake County's Grayslake Campus on the soccer fields adjacent to Washington St. and Lancer Ln.

Various fire and police departments along with the Lake County Sheriff's Department Crime Prevention Unit are expected to participate. The Lake County Stayin' Alive Task Force, InTouch, Lake County Health Department and NICASA are planning on having information displays.

The InTouch Office is coordinating the distribution of red ribbons to faculty and staff at CLC and throughout the Lake County Health Department.

A informational/educational series entitled The Drugs of Abuse and a Coaches' Forum focusing on violence in sports and the effects of ATOD are two examples of special events coordinated through the InTouch Office.

Located in Rooms L-227-230 on the second floor of CLC near the northwest side atrium, the InTouch office houses a clearinghouse of brochures and other materials related to prevention topics is available to Lake County residents free of charge. A lending library of video and audio tapes, along with books, is available as well. General office hours are 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Persons desiring access at other times may make special arrangements by contacting the office. Spanish materials are available upon special request.

For further information, contact InTouch at 543-2056 or check the new InTouch web site at www.intouch.com, a link off the Lake County web site.

CLC NOTES

UFO researcher speaks

Donald R. Schmitt, a respected UFO researcher and author from Wisconsin, will speak at 7:15 p.m., Nov. 6 in the C-Wing auditorium at the College of Lake County.

Schmitt has done extensive studies on the reported UFO crash at Roswell, NM, in July 1947, a phenomenon that has been studied by many scientists and researchers. He will speak about his studies on UFOs, and the Roswell crash, which included interviews with military personnel and other individuals who say they witnessed the crash. He also will sign books and answer questions following his speech.

The program is sponsored by the social science division in cooperation with the Science Fiction/Fantasy Club and Program board. Admission is free; however tickets are required. For information on the program, call John Tenuto, sociology instructor, at 543-2537. For tickets, call 543-2300.

China study trip

An information meeting will be held at 7 p.m., Nov. 10 in Room C003 to discuss the College of Lake County's humanities study tour to China from May 13-June 3, 2001.

The trip will include tours of major cities, lectures, site visits and group discussions.

Highlights of the trip will include a visit to historic places in Beijing, Hong Kong and Xi'an, including the Great Wall; the 2000-year old, life sized Terra Cotta soldiers, the minority region of Dali in the southwest and major coastal cities. Lectures will explore Chinese culture, history, arts, language and people, as well as China's current economic and social development.

Funding for small business

"Financing a Small Business," a two-hour workshop covering important funding information for small business owners and aspiring entrepreneurs, will be held from 7-9 p.m., Nov. 7 in Room C003 at the College of Lake County.

Seminar leader William Marquardsen, vice president of Great Northern Bank in Antioch, will discuss a variety of topics, including developing a business plan, funding sources and a loan package checklist. Participants will learn about conducting a feasibility study, preparing financial statements, obtaining public and private funding sources, and identifying community development programs and loan brokers.

The cost is $20. The workshop is presented by the CLC Small Business Development Center in cooperation with the U.S. Small Business Administration and the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

Money management for retirement

The College of Lake County's continuing education department will present a four-session course on managing your money and assets for a secure retirement from 7-9:30 p.m. on Nov. 2, 9, 16 and 30 at the Technology Campus in Grayslake.

In "Financial Strategies for Successful Retirement" (CFIN 02-002), students will learn how to get the most from their retirement plans, including how to evaluate the lump-sum distribution option and how to reduce taxes through proper estate planning. The program also will present information on various types of investments, social security, Medicare and costs for long-term health care. Students will develop a personal financial plan based on their income, assets and objectives.

The cost is $49 per person, plus $25 for materials. A spouse or guest may attend at no additional cost. For course information, call 543-2022. To register by phone, call 223-1111.

The idea seemed an educationally sound one almost 25 years ago and has stood the test of time.

Bob Parker was one of the first teachers to sign on with the Lake County Technical Campus, then known as Lake County Vocational Center.

"My friend came over from Rockford and took a spot in administration here. For me, coming to the Technology Campus was the right thing to do. It gives the students the best equipment and resources individual districts could not give alone," Parker said.

Parker, a computer program teacher at the Grayslake campus, has seen instruction in his area move from 24-hour delays of results from data point systems to morning on-line Internet courses with almost 50 students.

Dr. Linda Helton, Technology Campus Director, believes the campus has grown and remained true to its mission since its founding in 1977.

"Our mission is to bring the classroom and the workplace and the community together to prepare students for responsibility and success in the world," she said. "We believe students leave here employable not just for work, but for continuous education, too, whether it be at College of Lake County, McHenry County College, or a number of technical schools," Helton said.

Helton said students, in more than a dozen curriculum areas, can earn from three to 15 credit hours for college while at the Technology Campus.

"Computer programming and automobile repair are two of the programs with the biggest enrollments. We also teach computer programming over the Internet, from 7 - 8 a.m. early bird class. The students sign on at their high schools and take instruction," Helton said.

The programs are two years in length, and students apply at spots and travel from their home schools. Alden-Hebron to Deerfield high schools are members of the campus.

Programs are electives which are applied toward graduation requirements.

Programs are mostly two hours per day, five days a week. Helton and instructors said one key to success of the Technology Campus over the years is input from industry advisory councils.

New this year is the preferred student program. Students are interviewed and fill out applications with the workforce development coordinator. Requirements include completion of two years of the Technology Campus program, receipt of GPA, letters of reference, and recommendation and interview with the business partners committee. Lists of businesses are printed on the other side. The old vocational education days have been replaced in today's parlance as Career Technical Education. The Grayslake site near CLC officially changed its name in 1994.

"It is the hands-on approach. We also have two-hour labs, that is what colleges have, and you can do a lot more than in a 45-minute class," Helton said. "Students are more motivated. They want to be here and that makes a big difference and their time on task is excellent."

Students identify their career goals, then choose pathways of study. These include an associate degree qualifier, corporate internship, industry certified, student apprenticeship and student leadership.

Success of Technology Campus students is reflected in VICA competitions. During the past six years, Technology Campus students have won 464 medals by placing first, second or third in state competitions. These include, 162 gold, 172 silver and 130 bronze. Students garnered $173,000 in scholarships.

"I really see a direct reward for the kids. It is the hands-on philosophy. They are learning by doing as opposed to learning by listening," Parker said.

Gary Merriman, a welding fabrication teacher, agrees.

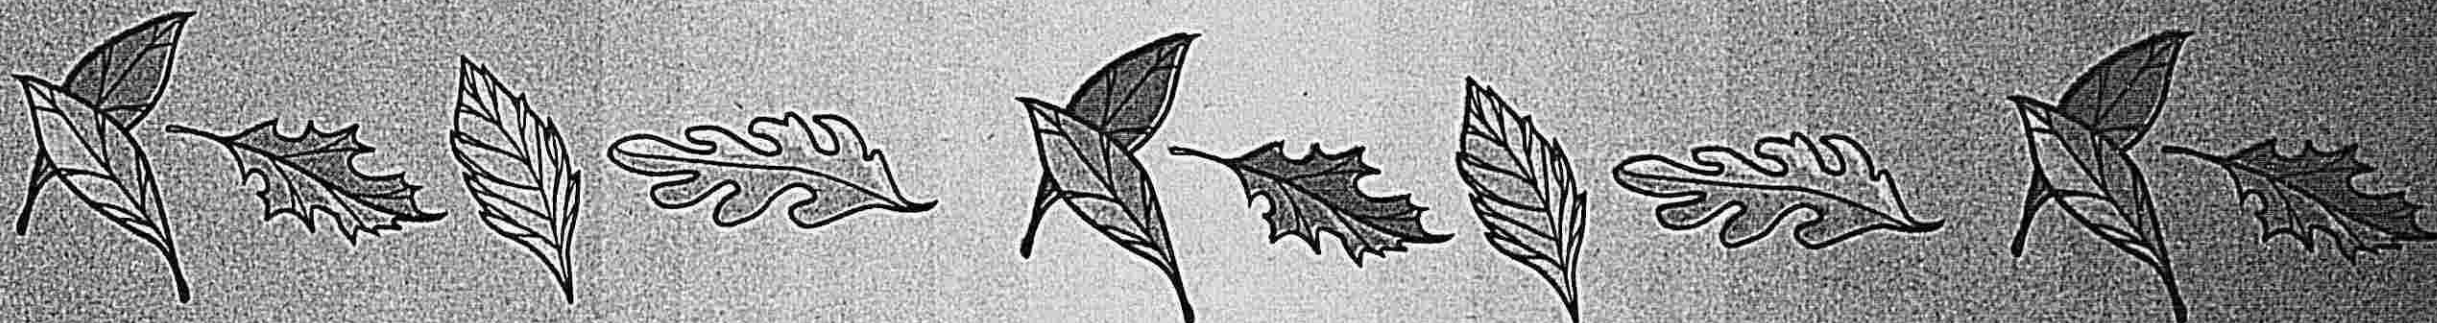

"No one school could afford to buy all the equipment and staff and experience from the advisory committees. That helps us stay current and people in industry let us know what they want on the job. Students have been able to get a variety of entry-level jobs. Two companies, Marvin Petersen, Inc. in Kenosha and Snap-On in Wauconda, came here recruiting workers," said Merriman, a faculty member since the campus opened in 1977.

Programs of study range from human services including cosmetology and culinary arts-food service management to communications programs such as administration office technology, multimedia technology and advanced computer programs to manufacturing and industrial with building trades, machine shop, computer repair and electrical equipment repair. The campus has 1,364 students from 18 high school districts. It is the largest of its kind in Illinois.

"We are growing at a rate of 5 percent a year. CLC leases space from us for some classes.

Composting: Doo what comes naturally

I have been waiting years to say this, and now the moment has arrived:

An alert reader...

WAIT! Let me savor that phrase for a moment...an alert reader...ahhhh! You'll have to excuse me—I just can't help taking this opportunity to indulge in a personal shiver of delight and a moment of childish 'naah, naah, naah, naah, NAAH!' behavior, specifically this—"So there, Dave Barry! I, too, have one or...one or...okay, just one alert reader out here in Lake County, Illinois!"

There, I'm done. As I was saying before I so gleefully interrupted myself, an alert reader by the name of Melanie Fuhrmann sent me an e-mail notifying me of an unusual event that took place recently in nearby Bristol, Wisconsin.

The first unusual thing about it is that it had nothing to do with cheese. I kid you not. It was held in Wisconsin and yet there was no Swiss, no Cheddar, no Limburger...although it is a distinct possibility that people at the event may have been asking each other, "Who cut the cheese?" This is purely theoretical, I should add, since Melanie, who served as a very capable reporter-at-large, never actually said that. But you'll see what I mean here in a few moments. Let's get back to the event.

The second unusual thing about it was its name: "Compost Fest." Compost, for those of you who are unfamiliar with the term, is one way of saying "rotting garbage." (Another way of saying it is "The Jerry Springer Show.")

While I think the practice of composting is admirable and necessary, I do have to question who came up with the idea of calling this event a "fest." When I think of rotting garbage, I almost never think "festive." Mostly I think "Can't that man read a calendar??? Garbage day is FRIDAY!"

Anyway, the event was held at the Pheasant Run Waste Management Facility, and its purpose was to promote the practice of composting and to provide helpful how-to-compost information to the fest's visitors.

Melanie, also known as "an alert reader", apparently spotted an announcement about Compost Fest in the paper and decided to attend with her four-year-old son. She also e-mailed the Fest information to many of her friends, most of whom told her to "get a life."

Not to worry, Melanie. I'm sure those same friends will be green with envy when they hear that not only did you learn some new composting tricks, but you are also now in possession of a personally autographed bag of Father Dom's Duck Doo Food for the Soil.

I'll bet they're not laughing now.

Well...maybe just a little bit.

And I guess I should make it clear that the autograph was from Father Dom, not a duck. Father Dom was on hand to sell and discuss his product—duck doo compost—the proceeds of which help to fund inner city projects. Apparently, duck doo contains a lot of nitrogen, making it especially good for composting.

There is something I'm still wondering, though. How exactly do they get those ducks to "do the doo?" Are they held captive, like chickens that lay eggs every morning in a coop? Or do they have men in duck blinds wearing buckets on their heads to catch the stuff as the ducks fly over?

I suppose stupid questions like those just serve to demonstrate why a compost fest was held in the first place. My own lack of knowledge is, no doubt, embarrassing to my oldest son, whom we affectionately call "Mr. Au Naturel." Not that he hasn't tried to educate me. The last time he was living here, prior to his permanent move to Washington State, he tried to introduce me to the concept of composting.

He did it in the simplest way possible—by digging a hole at the back of the yard, and adding fruit and vegetable scraps on a daily basis. The trouble was, he forgot we have dogs. And in a dog's view of the world, "rotting garbage" is another way of saying "yummy snack." So much for my composting lesson.

Oh, wait. I DO have some experience with composting. I never thought of it this way before, but I have been composting for years...in my refrigerator. The trouble is, I mistook those 4-month old leftovers for rotting garbage. Now, the next time my husband picks up something mysterious wrapped in aluminum and makes a face at me, I'll know just what to say:

"Quit wrinkling up your nose or it will stay that way!"

And, Melanie? Keep up the good work or, as they say in compost-speak, "Nobody does it better."

If you enjoy her column, check out Donna's book, "Mom...you're not NAKED, are you?" available at Books, Etc. or J. J. Blinkers in Antioch, online at Amazon.com or Donna's web site at www.lifesabear.com. You can reach Donna by e-mail at donna@lifesabear.com or by mail at P. O. Box 391, Antioch, IL 60002

Northern Illinois Food Bank is asking for early support

As many are getting a jump start on Christmas shopping in order to avoid the holiday rush, the Northern Illinois food Bank is getting a jump start on putting together Holiday Meal Boxes. These boxes are available to food pantries, shelters, soup kitchens, senior homes and residential facilities for the developmentally challenged, HIV patients and treatment centers.

Last year the Northern Illinois Food Bank helped over 4,300 families feel included in the joy and hope of the holidays because they shared a turkey or ham meal provided to them through the Holiday Meal program. It is estimated that there were over 4,000 families that couldn't receive a holiday meal box because there weren't enough funds. Each holiday meal box contains a full turkey or ham dinner with all the trimmings, including desert and a treat for the kids. The food bank needs help in the making of these meals available to at least twice as many families this year. The food bank or its member food pantries, shelters and kitchens, etc. do not have the "corporate" budgets to be able to provide a meal for each and every person or family that depend on them for shelter and food assistance.

The food bank provides food assistance to other not-for-profit agencies 12 months a year. These agencies are located within 12 Northern Illinois counties, including Lake and McHenry. The food bank is asking each able resident to "jump start" the holiday season by sponsoring a holiday meal box for just $20. Residents, companies, organizations and churches may sponsor as many families as they choose. Donations may be designated for a specific food pantry, shelter or home to the recipient of the holiday meal boxes sponsored by each donation.

Consider holiday donations now and get a jump start on holiday kindness that guarantees a meal to a needy family. Donations for Holiday Meal Box sponsorships can be made to the Northern Illinois Food Bank, 600 Industrial Dr., St. Charles, IL 60174. For more information, call (630) 443-6910.

Delights at Chicago Shakespeare

"The Two Gentlemen of Verona" is among Shakespeare's earliest plays, yet the supple romantic comedy retains the power to entertain and captivate modern audiences.

And it does just that under Penny Metropulos, associate artistic director of the Oregon Shakespeare Festival, who is making her debut at the Chicago Shakespeare Theatre on Navy Pier.

It's a story of two pals, Proteus and Valentine. Proteus vows undying devotion to Julia but almost immediately about trying to steal the affection of Sylvia, Valentine's new girlfriend.

As an added complication there's a group of outrageous outlaws hiding in the woods and two deliriously amusing clowns, one who zips around on rollerskates with a tiny stringed instrument strapped to his shoulder and the other accompanied by a frisky dog named Crab who unabashedly steals more than one scene.

There's the usual frantic chases- some on bicycles- and skulduggery involving disguises.

But at the heart of "The Two Gentlemen of Verona" is forgiveness and the true meaning of what friendship is all about.

Timothy Gregory as Proteus and Brian Vaughn as Valentine shine, though finely honed performances are in plentiful supply in this production, from Laura Lamson as the fair Sylvia to Kate Fey as the charming Julia. Larry Yando is the coy duke who keeps a sharp eye on his daughter, while Scott Parkinson and Eddie Jemison are riotous as the clownish manservants.

All's well, however, that ends well in this delightful production. See it through November 11. For ticket information call (312) 595-5600.—By Tom Witom

Grants available for historic properties

A total of $500,000 is now available under the state's new Heritage Grant Program, a brick-and-mortar initiative funded earlier this year by the Illinois General Assembly. Grants may be made for up to $50,000 and will reimburse 60 percent of the historic rehabilitation project cost. To be eligible for a grant, a property must be listed on the National Register of Historic Places, contribute to a National Register historic district, be designated a landmark under a local preservation ordinance, or contribute to a locally designated historic district. Properties must be owned by local governments or not-for-profit organizations.

Grants will be awarded based on a specific rating scale. The number of grants awarded will be limited to the half million dollars appropriated for this year's program.

Applications are being accepted through December 17, 2000, with awards announced during February 2001. Persons wishing to receive an application should (217) 785-2997 or (217) 785-2881, or consult the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency's website at www.state.il.us/hpa.

TECHNO

We are at a perfect time, because they will soon not need that room," Helton said.

Among the highest-enrolled programs include (fiscal year 2001): 40 students from Waukegan in allied health and 21 from Antioch; 30 students from Warren High in auto service and 24 from Mundelein; 14 students from Warren in building trades, 11 from Antioch and Waukegan; 16 from Waukegan in collision repair and 15 from Warren; 10 from Libertyville in a new program, Cisco; 43 from Waukegan in cosmetology and 25 from Antioch.

All told, Waukegan has 254 students attending the Technology Campus, followed by Warren at 196, Antioch at 131, Mundelein at 126 and Grant at 96 rounding out the top five. Alden-Hebron is the smallest public school with 19 at the Grayslake site.

Helton's enthusiasm as the campus leader is easily seen in her eight years on the job. She said her immediate goal then was to bring about meeting the goals of the changing workforce and keeping the tradition strong,

"to a purpose consistent with technology in the 21st century. I wanted to complete the cycle of upgrading all programs to reflect current industry certification requirements. We are close to that, and in some areas, we are waiting for industries to come up with certifications," she said.

SPECIAL EVENT

Animal Foundation holds auction, dance

The Assisi Animal Foundation hosts its annual Dinner Dance and Silent Auction on Saturday, November 4 at the Crystal Lake Country Club, Crystal Lake. The evening grows in popularity each year and this one promises to be another fun filled night and an appropriate "kick-off" of the holiday season. Radio celebrity, Larry Schreiner will be an A.A.F. host once again.

Festivities begin at 6 p.m. with cocktails and viewing of silent auction items, followed with gourmet dining. A buffet filled with delicious food will be offered, including choices for vegetarians.

Dance to live music after dinner and bid on quality auction offerings. From dining spots and entertainments to overnight stays, a holiday boutique and exotic items brought back from east Africa, there is something of interest for all auction attendees.

The event proceeds benefit the A.A.F.'s work for companion animals in need of new homes. The Assisi Animal Foundation, a charitable not-for-profit organization, built McHenry county's first no-kill animal shelter, introduced the first pet therapy programs serving area seniors in retirement homes and provides educational programs for young peoples' classrooms and groups.

Tickets are available at $50 per person and the deadline for reservations is October 31. Enjoy an evening of good food, dancing and shopping while supporting a great cause. For additional information and reservations, please call (815)455-9411.

KIDS STUFF

Attention teachers!

The Lake County Farm Bureau Ag in the Classroom Committee is offering grants of up to $250 to K-8 teachers across Lake County to fund projects promoting agriculture literacy in the classroom.

Lake County elementary school teachers who have creative, innovative classroom projects related to agriculture that will interest elementary students, are encouraged to contact Gregory Koeppen, Lake County Farm Bureau Public Information Director to obtain a project grant application form. The deadline for submission of the grant application to the Farm Bureau office is Friday, Nov. 13, by 4 p.m. Faxed or e-mailed copies will not be accepted.

For additional information or to obtain an application, call 223-6506 or e-mail gkoeppen@lnd.com.

'Superfudge' on stage

Theatreworks/USA brings "Superfudge," a fun-filled musical adaptation of award-winning author Judy Blume's book, to Centre East Theatre at the North Shore Center for the Performing Arts in Skokie, Nov. 4 at 1 p.m. The well-known story is recommended for children ages 6-10.

"Superfudge" tells the story of the Hatcher family, told from the point of view of 11-year-old Peter. As the eldest of two boys, Peter is often called upon to help out his parents, and with his younger brother, 4-year-old "Fudge." As far as Peter is concerned, Fudge is embarrassing and annoying.

Tickets are $11 for adults and $9 for children 12 and under and may be purchased by calling the Centre East box office at 673-6300 or Ticketmaster at (312) 902-1500.

'Execution of Justice'

Barat College of Lake Forest, proudly presents Emily Mann's "Execution of Justice" directed by Jay Paul Skelton. This sensational study of the killing of San Francisco Mayor George Mascone and Supervisor Harvey Milk, a gay activist, takes place during the trial and uses the actual dialogue of participants in the controversial case. The story's focus is on why Dan White committed the crimes and why the jury chose to convict him of voluntary manslaughter, not murder.

"Execution of Justice" runs Friday, Oct. 27 through Saturday, Oct. 28, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 29 at 3 p.m. Tickets are $9 general, $7 for students/seniors. All seats are reserved. To order tickets, or for more information, call the Drake Theatre Box Office at 604-6344.

Barat College is located at 700 E. Westleigh Rd., Lake Forest.

ARTS & CRAFTS

Needle Arts Guild programs

North Suburban Needle Arts Guild will have four of its members presenting the program on Nov. 7 at 9:30 a.m. The program includes Alice Jenks, the Beading Goddess; Sharon Geraghty Rued creates specialty garments using different surface design techniques and Maggie Weiss on creating your own fabric using dyes and other chemical manipulations.

Meetings are held at the Village Presbyterian Church, 1300 Shermer Rd., Northbrook. For further information, call Debbie Brice at 221-5278 or visit our web site at <http://www.neelearthguild.com>. Guests welcome.

Creative memories workshop

A workshop on creative photograph organization, photo album making, and scrap booking will be conducted at Gorton Community Center, 400 East Illinois Road, Lake Forest. The class will take place on Nov. 9, from 7-9 p.m. The fee is $20.

Students will learn how to assemble a long-lasting and original photograph display or scrapbook for friends, family members, business associates, or teachers. Bring a pair of scissors and 8-10 photographs.

Interested participants should register and pay in advance. For further information, or to receive a program brochure, contact the Gorton office at 234-6060 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., weekdays.

MUSIC

'Gaelic Storm' to perform

Gaelic Storm, the lively band that entertained the partying but doomed Irish steerage passengers in the epic movie Titanic, will bring its musical mastery to the Irish American Heritage Center for a concert on Nov. 9, at 8 p.m. in the Center auditorium.

Gaelic Storm's endless capacity for up-tempo, high energy music won the group its role in the Academy-Award winning film, as well as the hearts of its large, loyal following.

Tickets for this concert are available for $15 a person at the Irish American Heritage Center, 4626 N. Knox Avenue, Chicago. For further information or to make reservations, please call (773) 282-7035.

First of five shows

Lake County Community Concert Association is offering subscribers a varied series of shows for the coming season.

Leading off the series on Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m. is pianist Christina Pegoraro, an Italian-born child prodigy who has been concertizing since age 10. Proclaimed a leading interpreter of Cuban music, she has also performed on radio and television and recorded nine CD's.

Other shows for the season are: "A Christmas Carol," The Ahn Trio; Gus Giordano Jazz Dance Chicago and Robert Post.

Performances are held in the Orlin D. Trapp Auditorium of Waukegan High School, Brookside and McAree, Waukegan. To purchase tickets, call Donna Fortney at 244-7465. Tickets can also be purchased at the door.

OPERA

'Czech it Out'

The Barrington chapter of Lyric Opera of Chicago will present "Czech it Out" at 4 p.m. on Nov. 12, in a private residence in Deer Park. With musical excerpts, Dr. Kurt Westerberg will offer dramatic insights on two of this season's 20 century operas—Czechoslovakian Leos Janacek's Jenufa and John Harbison's The Great Gatsby. Following the program, a hors d'oeuvre and dessert buffet will be offered. Cost is $25 per person. Reservations are very limited and will be filed in the order that checks are received. Please respond by Nov. 5 to Susanne Wells, 225 Timber Ridge, Lake Barrington IL 60010. 382-2613.

For inquiries on the Barrington Chapter, phone Howard Robins 437-2158. Please visit Barrington Lyric's web site <http://nsn.nslsilus.org/bakhome/Lyric>. You may also visit Lyric Opera of Chicago's web site: www.lyricopera.org.

Fall into Opera

The Bowen Park Opera Company once again proves that opera truly is for everyone as it presents Mozart's Così fan tutte. Sung in English, this comedy toys with women's fickle emotions, doubting men's hearts and the enduring quality of love. The story revolves around a cynic and two engaged bachelors. The cynic bets that their respected fiancée's are untrustworthy and that they will stain their relationship by cheating on them as soon as their backs are turned. Così fan tutte will be presented Nov. 3, 10, 11, 17 and 18 at 8 p.m., Nov. 5 at 3 p.m. and Nov. 15 at 2 p.m., in Goodfellow Hall, Jack Benny Center for the Arts, Bowen Park, 39 Jack Benny Dr., Waukegan. Individual tickets are $19 for adults and $16 for students, seniors and military. To reserve tickets call 360-4741 or go to Bowen Park Opera at www.ticketweb.com. For more information, visit the Park's web site at www.waukegan-parks.org/jbc.

Antiques show is Cedarburg's 47th

The Cedarburg Women's Club will stage its 47th Annual Antiques Show and Sale on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 28 and 29, the longest running show in Wisconsin. The show predates by many years the city's attraction as a tourist destination centered on its heritage of vintage buildings and interest in antiques.

The main attraction as always are the 31 dealers who bring quality antiques to sell. Show precedes this year benefit the Cedarburg Library, scholarships and local charities.

Again this year, the show will offer one free appraisal with each paid admission. Appraisals will be done both days from 1-3 p.m. Another popular feature is a crystal and china repair service, available throughout the show.

The club's pantry and Tea Room have been staples of the show since the first one was held in 1954. These days the Tea Room menu includes homemade harvest Soup and turkey salad sandwiches, as well as a tempting array of desserts. The Pantry, as always, will be stocked with jams, jellies, pickles, bakery and vinegar. Club members also package and sell jars of soup mix and arrange for an assortment of hard-to-find spices and items, such as sea salt, pine nuts and whole nutmegs.

New this year are floral centerpieces using vintage kitchen items as containers and filled with dried grasses and flowers collected by members throughout the summer.

Another big fund-raiser each year is a raffle. Prizes include a weekend stay at Victorian Village, Elkhart Lake; overnights at the Washington house and Stagecoach Inn in Cedarburg; ticket donations are $1 each or six for $5, available at the show.

The primary recipient of this year's proceeds is the Cedarburg Public Library. The club's ties to the library date to 1913 when the then-fledgling women's organization helped found the library and sold cookbooks to help finance its first collection. Over the years, show proceeds have frequently been donated to the library.

Show hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday at Cedarburg High School, W68 N611 Evergreen Blvd., Cedarburg. Signs around town provide easy directions. Admission is $4 and is good for both days. Cedarburg is located just north of Milwaukee, off I-94.

Stage Two performs Agatha Christie's 'The Hollow'

Renowned Doctor John Cristow (played by James Williams of Chicago) has a startling reunion with his former lover, film star Veronica Craye (Lisa Beacom of Chicago) in Stage Two's production of Agatha Christie's "The Hollow" - Photo by Barry P. Dowe

The Stage Two Theatre Company is joining a successful tradition of the Cuneo Museum and Gardens, 1350N. Milwaukee Ave. (Rt. 21) in Vernon Hills, by producing its annual murder mystery, this year featuring The Hollow, by Agatha Christie. While recent years have featured Agatha Christie's The Mousetrap and Ten Little Indians, as well as the Anthony Schaffer's Sleuth, this year's murder mystery features a little known Agatha Christie gem, along with the support of the museums resident theatre company, Stage Two.

Directing The Hollow is Richard V. French, long-time Stage Two member, who is thrilled about doing a murder mystery at the Cuneo. "The mansion makes a perfect backdrop for this wonderful whodunit. I'm very excited about my cast, an exceptional group of actors, with a nice mixture of Stage Two 'alums' and brand new actors.

The Hollow runs from now through November 19. Performances are on Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays and 3 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. There will be no performance on Thursday, October 26 and no matinee Saturday, October 21. The cost is $15 for the general public, $12 for Students/Seniors/Museum Members/ Military, and $10 for groups of eight or more.

For more information call The Cuneo Museum and Gardens at 362-3042.

Almost Famous

"Almost Famous" follows William Miller (Patrick Fugit), a 15-year-old boy who finds his way into the world of rock journalism. William's character is based on writer and director Cameron Crowe, who began writing for "Rolling Stone" magazine at age 15.

Besides great acting and an excellent storyline, the biggest reason why I liked this movie was the simple fact that it was fun to watch. For two hours, it is 1973 and you are on a bus going across the country. It will make you want to become a music journalist. Three and a half popcorn boxes. —Tim O'Donnell

Best In Show

Although Christopher Guest's new "Best In Show" is very funny, it suffers from the fact that nothing new is brought to the screen.

Like his directorial debut, "Waiting For Guffman," "Best In Show," is made as a documentary, following several dog owners who are traveling to Philadelphia for the Mayflower dog show.

Though recycled in style and humor, the characters are strong and funny enough to carry the movie through its pretty-much non-existent story line.

Though flawed, "Best In Show" was definitely worth seeing. Three and a half popcorn boxes. —Tim O'Donnell

Meet the Parents

Watching "Meet the Parents" could possibly be enough to scare off any potential suitor faced with the prospect of asking his girlfriend's father for permission.

At first, the misunderstandings between Greg Focker (Ben Stiller) and Jack Byrnes (Robert DeNiro) are comical. They then move from just funny to downright uncomfortable. Audience members genuinely feel sorry for Focker (which is how Byrnes continually refers to him, by his last name which sounds eerily close to the swear word).

"Meet the Parents" is laugh-out loud funny, but average as far as movies go. Three popcorn boxes. —Michelle Habrych

Remember The Titans

Imagine "Dead Poets Society" on the football field with some racial tension and you've got the thoroughly inspiring "Remember the Titans."

Based on the true story of a racially torn Alexandria, Va. in 1971, the movie focuses on T.C. Williams High School, forced to integrate. "Remember the Titans" is truly a feel-good movie. For blending drama, comedy, romance, adventure and sports, five popcorn boxes. —Michelle Habrych

Instant karma's gonna getcha

If you can't miss an episode of "Touched by an Angel" and you own your very own copy of "It's a Wonderful Life," you are the audience Mimi Leder was seeking. Leder doesn't miss a trick with "Pay it Forward," her adaptation of Catharine Ryan Hyde's novel about a young boy who tries to change the world with an Amway-like scheme of good deeds.

A sure-fire cast of three of the most commercially-viable and talented actors make a valiant attempt to lift us up to a higher plane, but some obvious flaws make this effort fall short of the Capra classic it wants to emulate.

The story is told in a confusing time-shuffle, opening with a cynical California reporter (Jay Mohr) receiving an unexpected gift of a brand-new Jaguar from a man who says the only obligation for the favor is to "pay it forward" to three other people. The reporter becomes obsessed with finding the source of this "movement."

The time-set suddenly shifts to four months earlier, when 11-year-old Trevor McKinney (Haley Joel Osment) encounters a physically and emotionally scarred teacher, Eugene Simonet (Kevin Spacey), who exhorts his class to "Think of an idea to change the world—and put it into ACTION."

On his way home from school, Trevor picks up the world's most honest junkie, brings him home for a bowl of Cap'n Crunch, and becomes inspired. The next day, he draws little circles on the blackboard, reminiscent of the aforementioned soap-selling pyramid, and starts a social revolution of karma-distribution. Almost.

Trevor attempts to help his Las Vegas alcoholic cocktail-waitress mom Arlene (Helen Hunt) hook up with emotionally isolated Eugene, only to fail (initially). Hunt gives an eye-rolling performance as trailer-trash, in a wardrobe of too-small, too-tight cleavage-busting outfits. In a scene that is a direct rip-off from "Lost Weekend" she demonstrates her over-the-top alcoholism by unearthing a bottle of hooch hidden in a chandelier.

The film's ending, the kind I consider the refuge of a writer written into a corner, elevates Trevor to saintliness. Enough said. The ending-buster police will get me if I say more.

The time-shifting was a problem for me, given that the California reporter begins tracking the story four months into it, but somehow, by the time he finds his source, the flashbacks have caught up with him.

cleans up for Trevor's birthday; and Jon Bon Jovi as Arlene's alcoholic runaway husband, who tries to appear tough, but is too androgynous to pull it off.

Judging from the sobbing in the row behind me, the movie probably will do what it sets out to do for those who want it to have that effect. For those of us who are more jaded, or more demanding, the best way to pay it forward is to suggest you wait until you can get it for free on cable.

With a good cast, an interesting premise and Spacey's usual fine inner-life acting, but a hackneyed script and heavy-handed direction, this movie gets three popcorn boxes. More than enough com.

Attic Playhouse presents 'Beau Jest'

Beau Jest revolves around the character Sarah Goldman. Her boyfriend, Chris, has never met her family's standards (he wasn't Jewish), so Sarah decides to date him in private while telling her parents that she has met someone new—a nice Jewish doctor. The family insists on coming over to meet the new boyfriend, which forces Sarah to hire an actor, Bob, to play the role of her invented boyfriend at a dinner party. Mixed with the antics of her colorful parents, Miriam and Abe, and the growing skepticism of her older brother Joel, the fated couple have many hilarious obstacles to overcome as the evening (and the play) continues. Performances run through November 19 on Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 3 p.m. Tickets are $14 advanced purchase and $15 at the door. Special discounts are given to senior citizens, students w/ ID, military personnel, and groups.

Attic Playhouse is located at 410 Sheridan Rd. in Highwood (just north of Rt. 22/ Half Day Rd. and one block east of Green Bay Rd., across from the Highwood train station).

For more information please call 433-2660.

John Fischer as Joel, Jessica Granger as Sarah and Jason Brouwer as Bob, perform in "Beau Jest," at the Attic Playhouse, Highwood.

The Blue Bay

Something for everyone at Blue Bay

The bright and cheery atmosphere that has been greeting customers of the Blue Bay Restaurant at 855 E. Rollins Rd. in Round Lake Beach for the last 15 years, is just one of the many reasons hungry customers come back to the popular eatery again and again.

The broad menu includes almost anything one could want for breakfast, lunch, dinner or just a snack, all served by a courteous and professional wait staff.

Owner John Papaioannou, his wife Katrina, and his two sons have put the knowledge and experience gained in 25 years in the restaurant business into bringing their customers satisfying palate pleasers the way they want them, when they want them.

For hardy appetites there's Steak and Eggs, the Country or Hot Texas Skillet for breakfast, as well as fluffy Pancakes, French Toast, wispy Crepes, Belgian Waffles, a wide variety of delicious Omelettes, and even Egg Beaters for the health minded.

It's yummy Burgers, refreshing crunchy Salads, and just about any hot or cold Sandwich you've ever heard of for lunch.

When it comes to dinner, if you love Mexican, Italian, Seafood, Steak, Chicken or Chops, it's on Blue Bay's menu, freshly prepared. For dessert, Blue Bay's bakery offers Cakes, Pies, homemade Cheese Cake, or how about one of their deliciously decadent fountain creations like a Pineapple Temptation or a deluxe Banana Split?

Blue Bay is conveniently open from 5 a.m. to midnight, Sunday through Thursday, and 24 hours on Friday and Saturday.

Last chance Halloween happenings

Howl-o-ween flashlight tours

Wear a costume and grab a flashlight and explore the Kenosha Public Museum, 5608 Tenth Ave., Kenosha, in the dark. Make scary sound effects by howling like a coyote or owl and playing African Instruments. The event takes place on Saturday, Oct. 28, is free and open to the public. Call (262)653-4140.

Safe alternative

The Mayor's Safe Halloween Walk will take place on Sunday, October 29 from 2-5 p.m. at Sheridan Health Care, Zion. Children receive a free halloween bag and may visit 20 candy stations. Additional activities include hay rides, a maze, coloring contest, costume contest and prizes. The Halloween walk is a safe holiday activity for children 12 and under.

Sponsored by Sheridan Health Care Center and the City of Zion, the Mayor's Safe Halloween Walk will be held at 26th St. and Sheridan Rd., behind Sheridan Health Care Center, Zion. For additional information, call 746-8435.

Spooktacular fun

Fright Fest is back at Six Flags Great America. The tenth annual Halloween spooktacular runs fall weekends now through Oct. 29 and will feature thrills and chills for all ages.

During Fright Fest, Six Flags Great America becomes transformed into a Halloween playground with special effects, haunted houses and a children's area. Ghouls, monsters, and zombies provide surprises at every turn.

Fright Fest is open Friday, Oct. 27 from 5-11 p.m., Saturday Oct. 28 - 10 a.m. - 9 p.m., Sunday, 29 from 10 a.m. - 8 p.m.

Guests are not permitted to wear full costume makeup or facial masks in the park. Six Flags Great America is located on I-94 at the Grand Ave. exit in Gurnee. For more information call 249-INFO.

Haunting of Apple Valley

If you love to get spooked, head to Quig's Orchards, at Rte. 60 and Rte. 83, Mundeline, October 27-29. Wander through the haunted

Calling all boys and ghouls

The Lincoln Park Zoo, 2200 N. Cannon Dr., Chicago, will hold a Spooky Zoo Spectacular on Saturday, Oct. 28 from noon-2 p.m. Costume parade, haunted house, Bozo the Clown, bands and much more await visitors. Call (312) 742-2163 for information.

barn, jump on board a haunted hay ride and roast marshmallows at one of the fire pits. If the kids aren't old enough to get really spooked, try the Pumpkin House — a less scary version of the real thing made just for the smaller specter hunters.

Experience fun on the farm

The Red Barn Farm, 11614 Lucas Rd., Woodstock, offers tons of fun throughout the month of October with pumpkin characters, scarecrows, petting zoo and corn maze just to name a few of the activities. A Spooky house, geared for children 8 yrs. and under, is sure to be a favorite with the little monsters. On the weekends enjoy a hay ride or a big slice of pumpkin pie at "Moms Kitchen."

Also available are gourds, squash, pumpkins, Indian corn, apples and Fall decorations as well as a Halloween gift shop. Red Barn Farm is open daily, Monday-Saturday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. and Sundays, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Call (815)338-4343 for additional information.

Is the mansion haunted?

Kenosha's Teen Task Force and The Kemper Center will once again rise from the depths of spookiness on Friday, Oct. 27 and Saturday, Oct. 29. All the ghosts, goblins and even Dracula invite the brave to venture through the Kemper Center Haunted House, 6501 Third Ave., Kenosha. Little ones will have a special time to tour the house, 4-5 p.m., before the really scary creatures come out. From 5:30 - 10 p.m. only those who dare should venture inside this historic mansion. Please use your discretion as to whether or not your family members will be prepared to enter this domain of the undead.

This event is coordinated by the Kenosha County Teen Task Force of the Concerned Citizens Coalition. For more information please call (262) 657-6005.

Eco-Halloween Hike

Hike by the light of jack-o-lanterns through the woods at the Bong State Recreation Area, I-94 and Hwy 42 west, near Kenosha on Saturday, Oct. 28, from 6-8 p.m. This family event offers Halloween skits, campfires, refreshments, games, crafts and music. Cost is $5 per vehicle for residents and $7 per vehicle for non-residents. Call (262) 652-0377 for further information.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

Think before you speak when talking with a loved one early in the week, Aries. Making a flippant comment really will hurt this person — and you don't want to do that. Consider his or her feelings before you open your mouth. That special someone turns to you for advice. Be honest with him or her. Virgo plays a key role.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Don't let an acquaintance take advantage of you this week, Taurus. Stand up for yourself, and don't agree to do anything that you don't want to do. If you are firm now, this person won't ever try this again. A loved one calls you out of the blue with good news. Be happy for him or her.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

Don't let a run-in with a former friend upset you on Wednesday. This person has always been callous; that's why you're not friends with him or her anymore. Just forget about the entire incident. The person whom you've been seeing wants to take you out late in the week. Say yes, because it's sure to be a fun time.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

Don't beat yourself up about not inviting a close friend out with you late in the week. You know that this person doesn't enjoy what you have planned. So, let it go. A loved one needs your help with a family matter. Do what you can for him or her. Scorpio plays an important role.

Leo - July 23/August 23

A close friend tells you about a personal problem in confidence. Listen to what this person has to say, and offer your honest opinion on the matter. However, keep the conversation to yourself. It's no one else's business. That special someone has a surprise for you on Friday. Enjoy!

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

While you really just want to be alone this week, you're not going to get your wish. Several loved ones turn to you for help with a family matter, and they monopolize a lot of your time. Don't be upset with them. They really need your help. So, do what you can. Your efforts will be appreciated. Cancer plays a key role.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

You meet someone interesting when out with friends on Tuesday, Libra. Get to know this person better, because he or she could be the one. Just be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression. Don't worry — your feelings will be reciprocated.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

That special someone has a lot to do this week and really needs your help. While you're busy too, do what you can to make things easier for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated. A business associate offers you an interesting proposition. Look at all of the pros and cons before making a decision. This could be a great opportunity.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Keep your temper in check when that special someone goes against your wishes. This person really thinks that he or she is doing what is best for you — even though you disagree. Listen to his or her explanation, and try to understand. A close friend needs a shoulder to cry on. Be there for him or her. Pisces plays a key role.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Take a new business associate under your wing. This person needs guidance, and you're just the person to provide it. Your efforts will be rewarded by the higher-ups. A close friend reveals his or her true feelings for you. Let him or her down gently. Gemini plays an important role.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't defend a close friend who is caught in a lie. This person gets into this mess on his or her own; he or she can get out of it alone too. Getting involved only will make you look like the bad guy. A loved one offers you some romantic advice. Take it, because it's sure to help.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

A loved one reveals a personal problem to you late in the week. Try not to be shocked by it. Instead, be supportive, and try to help this person with the situation. Your efforts will be appreciated. Leo plays a key role.

Eight steps to having a safe kitchen

Safety is priority number one when it comes to designing your brand new kitchen. More building codes cover the kitchen than any other room in the house. That's because so many accidents occur there.

The National Kitchen and Bath Association (NKBA) suggest the following steps when designing for safety.

1) Use proper lighting. Good general lighting, supplemented with proper task lighting that's clearly focused on a work surface, can greatly decrease your chance of injury while preparing a meal. Also, the lighting should not produce any glare or shadows on the surface.

2) Use slip-resistant flooring. Falling with a hot casserole or a sharp knife in your hand can have serious consequences. A slip-resistant material on your floor, such as matte-finished wood or laminate, textured vinyl or a soft-glazed ceramic tile, will do the trick. If you select tile, try using a throw-rug with a non-skid backing for added precautions, especially around areas that get wet.

3) Keep a fire extinguisher handy. NKBA recommends that a fire extinguisher be visibly located near a room exit, away from cooking equipment and 15"-48" above floor.

4) Keep electrical switches, plugs and lighting fixtures away from water sources and wet hands. Building codes require that every electrical receptacle be grounded and protected with ground-fault circuit interrupters, which shut off the room's electric current if there is a power surge or if moisture is present. In addition, NKBA recommends that all wall-mounted room controls be 15" - 48" above the finished floor.

5) Consider appliance lock-out options. Many of today's appliances, particularly ranges, ovens and dishwashers, allow you to "lock out" little hands so no one can use them when you're not in the room. This can be done either with lock-out covers or a programmed lock-out system.

6) Regulate water temperatures and devices. Install faucets with anti-scald devices that prevent water temperature from rising to dangerous levels, or buy pressure-balanced valves that equalize hot and cold water. Faucets also are available that can be preprogrammed to your desired temperature setting.

7) Find a safe cooktop. Avoid being scalded by steam from boiling pot by staggering burners on your cooktop or have one straight row of burners. And never choose a unit with control along the back of the appliance; controls should be along the side or in the front.

You want your kitchen safe and functional, but you want it to be attractive as well. The National Kitchen and Bath Assoc. has some information to answer your questions.

8) Use the space safely. Think about how traffic will flow through the kitchen and make sure no one will interfere with your space when cooking. Locate microwaves 24" to 48" above the floor to avoid reaching to retrieve food. Slide-out trays and bins in base cabinets make storage items more accessible so you don't have to bend. And lastly, avoid sharp corners on the ends of countertops, especially islands and peninsulas, by having them rounded.

Burial plots, staples & lemons, oh my!

Survey reveals practical and not-so-practical wedding gifts

As thoughts of winter focus on the wedding season, future brides and grooms across the country are spending countless hours deciding — and arguing — over the right items to place on their wedding gift registry. However, not all well-wishers will stick to this "sacred" list when choosing the perfect gift.

A certificate for two burial plots and a framed picture of the mother-in-law were two of the unique — and unregistered for — wedding presents unveiled in a wedding gift survey.

Gift giving 101

When 1,000 men and women were asked what the most useless wedding gift they ever received, unique answers also included a bag of lemons, an ash tray, a box of staples, a pin cushion, photo copier, a cup to hold cigarettes, body liquors, clothespins and a curling iron. One couple was even promised a pair of football tickets that never materialized!

Husband vs. wives — a unique take on the wedding registry

When it's time to finally settle on the official registry list, men and women definitely have different perspectives on what makes the cut. When posed the question, "If you were getting married today, what three items would you register for?" The women definitely had a more grounded point of view. More than 42 percent of the women surveyed placed china and daily dishware at the top of their list, followed by 22.4 percent voting for bed linens and 14.2 percent selecting silverware.

When the same question was asked of the men, the sky was the limit, with many of survey respondents dreaming of big-ticket items. A happy 11.4 percent wished they would wake up on their wedding day with a new car in their driveway and another 10 percent expected to return from their honeymoon to a brand new house. The top response, which matched the women, was china and daily dishware (22.4 percent).

Kitchen Conveniences

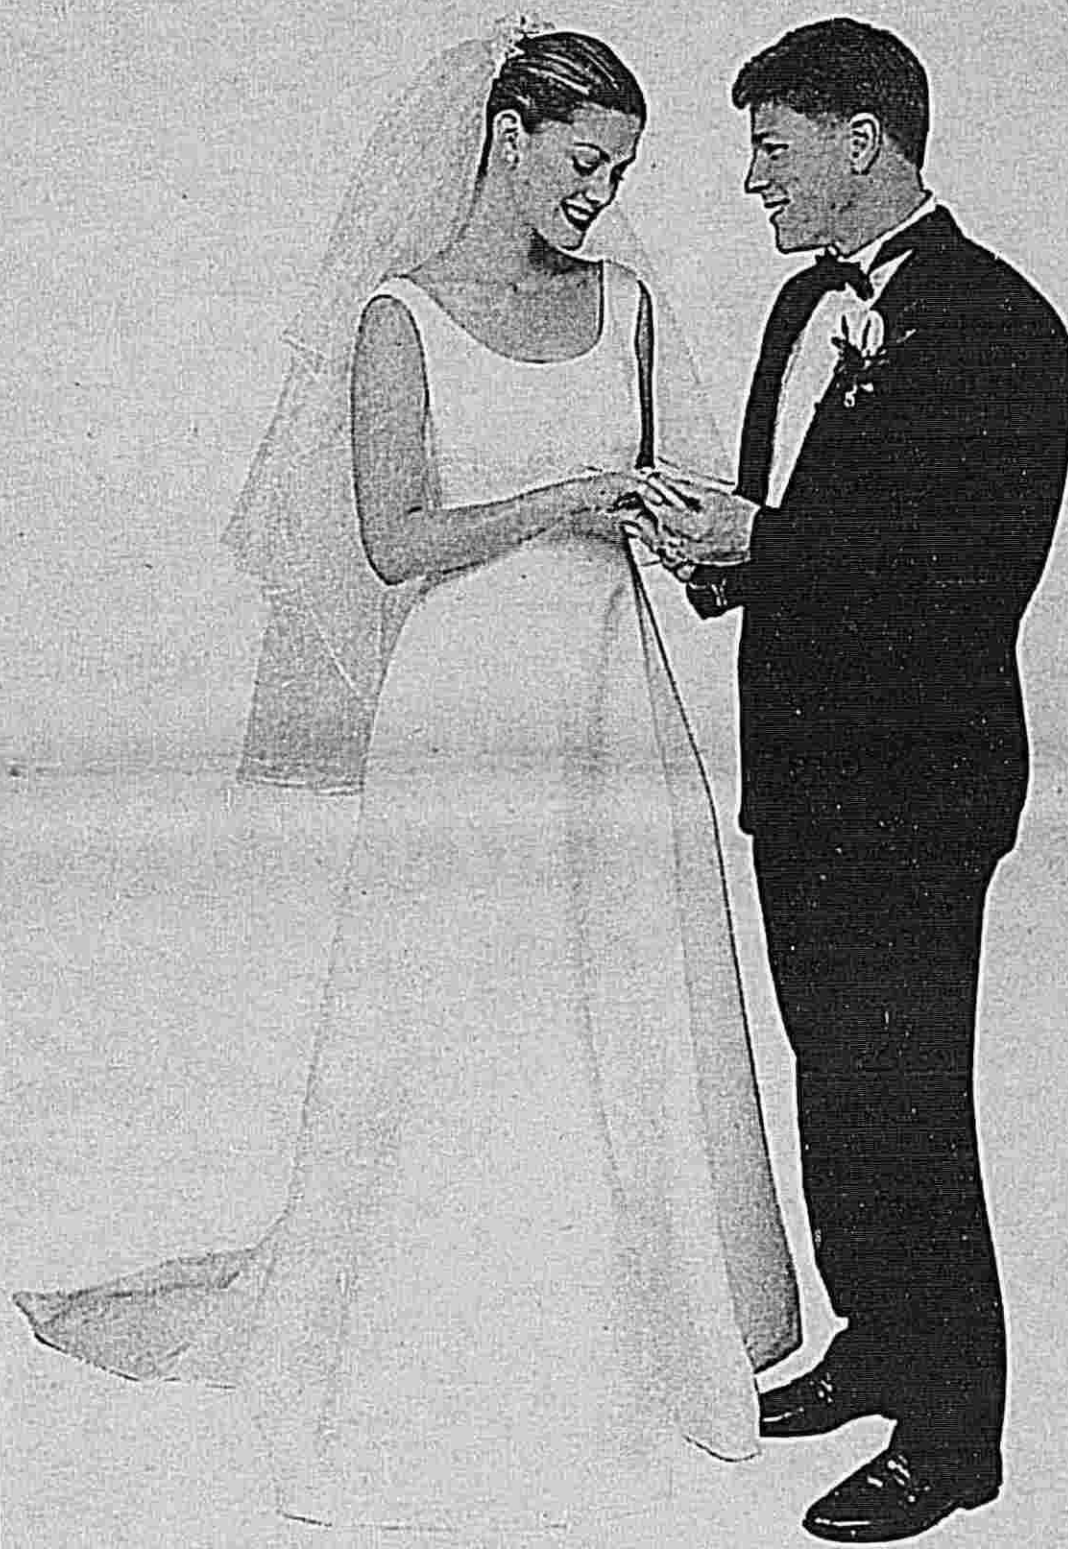

Since plenty of time is spent in the kitchen learning new recipes and figuring your spouse's culinary desires, survey participants were asked, "if you were getting married today, what three small kitchen appliances would you register for?" Convenience definitely took a front seat, with both women and men agreeing that toasters (48.1 percent combined), blenders (36.7 percent combined) and mixers (31.7 percent combined), topped the must-have list.

Survey was conducted by TeleNation for Hamilton Beach and consisted of 1000 interviews, 480 males and 520 females.
